

THE PUBLIC LIBRARY OF THE CITY OF BOSTON.
THE ALLEN A. BROWN COLLECTION.

M 346. 46

Constantia Gladkowska was born in the palatinate of Masovia, and she studied at the Warsaw Conservatory. Chopin was madly in love with her. In 1829 he wrote to Titus Woyciechowski: "I have — perhaps to my misfortune — already found my ideal, which I worship faithfully and sincerely. Six months have elapsed, and I have not yet exchanged a syllable with her of whom I dream every night. Whilst my thoughts were with her, I composed the Adagio of my concerto" (the one in F minor). Henriette Sontag heard her sing in 1830, and said that her voice was beautiful but already somewhat worn, and she must change her method of singing if she did not wish to lose her voice within two years; but Chopin worshipped Constantia as a singer as well as woman. His sweetheart made her début as Agnese in Paër's opera in 1830. We learn from Chopin's letters that she looked better on the stage than in the parlor, that she was an admirable tragic play-actress, that she managed her voice excellently up to the high F and G, observed wonderfully the nuances. "No singer can easily be compared to Miss Gladkowska, especially as regards pure intonation and genuine warmth of feeling." In this same year he was sorely tormented by his passion, and some of his letters were steeped in gloom. At the concert Oct. 11, 1830, she "wore a white dress and roses in her hair, and was charmingly beautiful. . . . She never sang so well as on that evening, except the aria in 'Agnese.' You know 'O! quante lagrime per te versai!' The tutto detesto down to the lower B came out so magnificently that Zielinski declared this B alone was worth a thousand ducats." In 1831 he dined eagerly with Mrs. Beyer in Vienna because her name was Constantia: "It gives me pleasure when even one of her pocket handkerchiefs or napkins marked 'Constantia' comes into my hands." In a letter he says of the young woman at Warsaw: "If W. loves you as heartily as I love you, then would Con— No, I cannot complete the name, my hand is too unworthy. Ah! I could tear out my hair when I think that I could be forgotten by her!" The next year he was still in love, although he let his whiskers grow only on the right side. "On the left side they are not needed at all, for one sits always with the right side turned to the public." Constantia married Joseph Grabowski, a merchant of Warsaw, in 1832. Count Wodzinski tells another story,— that she married a country gentleman and afterward became blind. In 1836 Chopin asked Maria Wodzinska to marry him. She refused him, and said that she could not act in opposition to the wishes of her parents. During the winter of 1836–37 Chopin met George Sand.

C. Görner, horn player and composer, went to Berlin 1835, and died there in 1847.

The concert was most successful. The theatre was full; and Chopin, who had been exceedingly nervous, played at his ease on one of Streicher's pianos. Soliva conducted. "The first Allegro of the concerto went very well on his playing. The great success, however, of the evening was his performance of the Fantasia on Polish airs. 'This time I understood myself, the orchestra understood me, and the audience understood us.'" Soliva was obliged to make many corrections in the score. Carl Mikuli, who copied many of Chopin's manuscripts, says that "they were full of slips of the pen, such as wrong notes and signatures, omissions of accidentals, dots, and intervals of chords, and incorrect markings of slurs and octaves."

Chopin played the concerto at Breslau (November, 1830), Vienna (1831), Munich (1831), Paris (Feb. 26, 1832, and April 5, 1835), Rouen (1838).

This concerto has been changed by some pianists for the sake of fuller orchestration and their own glory. The most famous of these versions is the one by Tausig.

Chopin dedicated this concerto to Friedrich Kalkbrenner, whose playing he greatly admired. The work was published in 1833.

Den 13^{ten} August.N^o. 33.

1834.

RECENSION.

- I. Grand Concerto pour le Pianof. avec accomp. d'Orchestre ou de Quintour ad libitum composé — par Fréd. Chopin. Oeuv. 11. Leipzig, chez Fr. Kistner; Paris, chez M. Schlesinger. Pr. av. Orch. 4 Thlr. 12 Gr.; av. Quintour 3 Thlr. 8 Gr.; sans accomp. 2 Thlr.
- II. Variations brillantes pour le Pianof. sur le Rondeau favori: „Je vends des Scapulaires“ de Ludovic de Herold et Halevy — par Fréd. Chopin. Oeuv. 12. Leipzig, chez Breitkopf et Härtel; London, chez Cramer etc.; Paris, chez M. Schlesinger. Pr. 16 Gr.
- III. Trois Nocturnes pour le Pianof. Oeuv. 15. Von demselben. Ebendaselbst, in London bey Wessel et C. Pr. 16 Gr.
- IV. Rondeau pour le Pianof. Oeuv. 16. Von dems. Ebendas.; in Paris bey Pleyel et C. Pr. 1 Thlr.

Hr. Chopin hat das Glück gehabt, früher, als viele andere, die Aufmerksamkeit nicht allein der Pianofortespieler, wenn auch dieser vorzüglich, sondern auch eines Theiles der Musiker überhaupt auf sich zu ziehen. Man nennt das Glück öfter blind: wie aber, wenn es nicht blind wäre? wenn die Binde, die es tragen soll, ein Hirngespinnst wäre, das man nur darum fort und fort als Binde der geliebten Göttin zu erblicken wähnt, weil man einmal jenen Nebelstreif um ihre Augen als wirklich voraussetzt? Das Glück sieht viel heller, als wir Alle. Es ist die Schwester der Nothwendigkeit und des Mitleids, die Tochter der höchsten und gutmüthigsten Vernunft, die es gibt! Nur steht es den menschlichen Beachtern bald so hoch, bald so tief, dass sie es nicht recht erkennen und nicht selten sogar für Unglück halten. Wäre das Glück blind, wo bliebe dann die Vorsehung? Kein Wort von dieser höhern Ansicht; und die wenigen folgenden Worte sind und sollen nichts weiter, als Gedankenreger im Allgemeinen seyn, also für diejenigen, die Gedanken haben und wollen, zu beliebiger Selbsterwägung. — In die gewöhnliche Sehweite gestellt, erscheint uns das Glück als erwünschter Erfolg irgend eines Unternehmens, oder auch als ein Zusammentreffen solcher Umstände, die Geld, schnelle Ehre und handgreiflichen Genuss schenken. Wie es damit für die Zukunft aussieht, darum kümmert sich Niemand. Alles Erdenglück findet seine Seligkeit in den Umarmungen des Augenblicks, die auch in der That zu freundlich sind, um gescholten zu werden. Wer nun den Augenblick liebt und frisch nach ihm greift; wer die gewöhnlichen, eben jetzt herrschenden Bedürfnisse am Besten befriedigt, den liebt auch das Glück, nämlich was man gewöhnlich Glück nennt, das in die alltägliche Sehweite gestellt. Sind die Gaben wirklich Bedürfnisse der Zeit, theils zur angemessenen Nahrung, theils, und noch besser, zur Leckeretei: so greift freylich eine hinlängliche Menge darnach, lobt den Geber und er erhält Ehre; der Musikalienhändler kauft gern die Manuscripte, weil er gern viel verkauft, und der Verf. erhält Geld; er hat Glück, warum? hat es keinen Grund? ist das Glück blind? Nein! sondern es begünstigt den Menschen, der das eben zum Bedürfniss Gewordene gab. Muss es deshalb immer das Beste an sich seyn? Der wäre blind, taub und aller Thorheit voll, wer das meinen könnte. Allein so völlig verwerflich und leer, als eine Partey solche Zeiterscheinungen macht, sind sie doch auch nicht. Es liesse sich geschichtlich nachweisen, dass nicht wenige in ihrer Zeit Glückliche nicht bloß ihre Zeitgenossen ergötzt, sondern ihnen und dadurch der Zukunft auch wirklich genützt haben. So haben Pleyel, Herz, Czerny und viele Andere ihrer Zeit Bedürfniss richtig befriedigt, haben Glück gehabt und nicht geringes:

CONCERTO IN E MINOR, FOR PIANOFORTE AND ORCHESTRA, OPUS 11.
 FREDERICK CHOPIN.

(Born at Zelazowa-Wola, near Warsaw, March 1, 1809; died at Paris, Oct. 17, 1849.)

In March, 1830, Chopin wrote from Warsaw: "I hope yet to finish before the holidays the first Allegro of my second concerto" (i.e., the one in E minor). The concerto in F minor was composed and played before the one in E minor, but it was published later (1836).

He wrote on May 15 of the same year: "The Rondo for my concerto is not yet finished, because the right inspired mood has always been wanting. If I have only the Allegro and the Adagio completely finished, I shall be without anxiety about the Finale. The Adagio is in E major, and of a romantic, calm, and partly melancholy character. It is intended to convey the impression which one receives when the eye rests on a beloved landscape which calls up in one's soul beautiful memories,— for instance, on a fine moonlit spring night. I have written violins with mutes as an accompaniment to it. I wonder if that will have a good effect? Well, time will show."

In August the Finale was ready, and in September the concerto was rehearsed with a quartet. Chopin wrote: "Those who were present say that the Finale is the most successful movement (probably because it is easily intelligible)." The musical world of Warsaw — Poles, Czechs, Germans, Italians — were invited to the rehearsal with full orchestra, except trumpets and drums, Sept. 22, 1830. "Then I have also to provide the desks and mutes, which I had yesterday totally forgotten: without the latter the Adagio would be wholly insignificant and its success doubtful. The Rondo is effective, the first Allegro vigorous. Cursed self-love! And, if it is any one's fault that I am conceited, it is yours, egoist: he who associates with such a person becomes like him."

The concert was given in the theatre at Warsaw on Oct. 11, 1830. The program was as follows: —

Symphony	Görner
First Allegro from the Concerto in E minor	Chopin
Aria with Chorus	Soliva
Sung by Miss WOLKOW.
Adagio and Rondo from the Concerto in E minor	Chopin
Overture to "Guillaume Tell"	Rossini
Cavatina from "La Donna del lago"	Rossini Sung by Miss GLADKOWSKA.
Fantasia on Polish Airs	Chopin

Carlo Evasio Soliva, composer and singing-teacher, was born at Casal-Monferrato about 1792. He studied at Milan, and his opera, "La Testa di Bronzo," was produced at the Scala in 1816. He taught singing at the Warsaw Conservatory from 1821 to 1832, when he went to St. Petersburg, where he was made conductor and director of the opera in 1834. He also taught at the Imperial School and at the Court; afterward travelled in Italy, and made his home in Paris, where he died in 1851. Among his works are four operas, sacred music, chamber music, songs, and a treatise on singing. George Sand wrote a sonnet in memory of him: —

Du beau dans tous les arts, disciple intelligent,
 Tu possédas longtemps la science profonde Que n'encourage point la vanité d'un monde
 Insensible ou rebelle au modeste talent.
 Dans le style sacré, dans le style élégant,
 Sur le divin Mozart ta puissance se fonde, Puis dans Cimarosa ton âme se féconde,
 Et de Paesielo tu sors jeune et vivant.
 Si dans ce peu de mots je ne puis de la vie Résumer de travaux la force et le génie, Laissons dire le reste aux pleurs de l'amitié.

The singers at this concert were Soliva's pupils. Anna Wolkow was born near Grodno in 1811, and made her début at the Warsaw Theatre in 1830 as Fiorella in Rossini's "Il Turco in Italia." Her beauty and her skill in song were long admired at Warsaw.

jetzt wird etwas Anderes Mode, und doch wird kein Billiger Alles, was sie gethan und geleistet haben, verworfen und für nichts achten wollen. Noch vor Kurzem konnten Einige gegen die beyden Letzten reden, was sie wollten, die Welt lachte sie aus und spielte überall Herz und Czerny; jetzt — nun jetzt hilft auch das Schiessen mit Pistolen kaum, weil sie aufgehört zu haben scheinen, den geänderten Sinn der Zeit zu erkennen und zu befriedigen; vielleicht geschieht es auch bloß des beliebten Wechsels wegen, damit theils die Lust sich erneuere und das Glück sich gerecht erzeige, nicht immer sein Füllhorn nur über Etliche auszugiessen. Wer Augen- und Ohrenlust und zugleich den Stolz befriedigt, wird Glück haben müssen. Ist die Menge der Hörer und der ausübenden Musiker durch Gewohnheit abgestumpft, so muss man anfangen zu frapieren, in Verwunderung zu setzen und den Stolz noch stärker befriedigen: so wird man Glück haben. Man sagt auch, die Dummen haben Glück. Natürlich! Es ist zur Entschädigung für viele Entbehrung. Sie finden leicht Genossen und die Menge scheint durch Geräusch den Gehalt zu ersetzen, die Last des Druckes der Schwere ihrer Masse für Vortheil haltend. Sie beschämen Niemanden, stehen Keinem im Wege und lassen sich zu allerhand artigen Dingen vortreflich gebrauchen. Endlich aber müssen auch die Starken Glück haben, die ihre Zeit klug begreifen, fassen und auf den Flügeln ihrer Kraft höher schwingen. Unter diese gehört Chopin. — Nie kann aber die Zeit, in der ein Glücklicher glücklich ist, ein vollkommen gerechtes Gericht über ihn halten, aus Ursachen, die zu tief in der menschlichen Natur liegen, als dass sie leicht zu verkennen wären. Selten gibt es daher einen neu Glücklichen, der nicht übertrieben gelobt und von der andern Seite übertrieben getadelt würde. Beydes erfährt auch Chopin, dem wir nichts lebhafter wünschen, als dass er sich von beyden Theilen nicht zu weit führen lasse. Der Mensch, und vorzüglich der äusserlich glückliche, hat nie einen grössern Feind, als sich selbst, und nichts stürzt gewisser, als der Uebermuth. Weil nun offenbar zu enthusiastische Freunde viel leichter mit ihrem Räucherwerk den Kopf umnebeln und betäuben, als die stärksten Gegner, die ihn oft stärken, so mag der junge, talentvolle Mann nur nicht zu sehr des bekannten Wortes vergessen: Behüte mich Gott vor meinen Freunden, mit meinen Feinden will ich schon fertig werden.

Es ist in unserm Blatte auf die Werke des Verf. hinlänglich Rücksicht genommen worden; Eudensunterzeichneter hat selbst zwey der Hauptwerke desselben, sein Trio und seine Etuden, ausführlicher, als manches Andere, besprochen und dadurch bewiesen, dass er dem Gange des Componisten aufmerksam folgt, was er hiernit von Neuem bekräftigt. Es ist keines von den oben genannten Werken, was er nicht wirklich gut vortragen gehört und wiederholt durchgesehen hätte. Ich habe also meine Ansicht über Chopins Wesen in mir selbst nach vielgeprüfter Ueberlegung. Diese Ansicht soll offen ausgesprochen werden, so weit ich es für gut erachte, also mit einem gewissen Vorbehalt, der zur rechten Zeit keiner mehr seyn soll. Um meinethwillen behalte ich mir gar nichts vor, sondern um der Ueberzeugung willen, dass nicht Alles, was der Mensch kann, darum auch zu jeder Stunde recht und nützlich ist. Der junge Mann geht wirklich einen neuen Weg, der freylich nicht gleich so glatt seyn kann, wie eine Heerstrasse, an deren Seiten dagegen auch die unauffälllichen italienischen Pappelstangen oft verzweifelt langweilig sind ein Hauptgrund, warum der neue Weg Vielen sehr wohl gefällt. Wer so viel Phantasie hat, wie Chopin, dazu in einer im Ganzen ungemein rücksichtslosen, das Herbe und Schrofie bis zum Uebermass liebenden Zeit lebt, deren Jugendbraus alles Bestehende gar zu gern über den Haufen würfe, wenn es nur gleich gehen und alles Bollwerk wie ein zu Jericho vom Posaunenschall sich umblasen lassen wollte, der müsste ein Halbgott seyn, wenn er nicht im Drange der Jugend die schmale Grenzlinie des allseitig Rechten zuweilen überspringen sollte. Das thut er mitunter, wir rechnen es ihm aber noch für jetzt nicht hoch an, finden es sogar in solcher Stellung sehr natürlich. Wollt man nun da zu früh mit weiser Ordnungsgewalt eingreifen, so würde man nun einer Hand voll Unkraut willen eine Menge gute Saat vernichten, die künftig Segen bringen muss, wird sie gepflegt und bewahrt. Wer einen solchen Acker auf solche Weise zum Grünen und Blühen bringen konnte für den ist es besser, man lässt ihm eine Zeit lang die Sorge dafür selbst. Ist es klar geworden, dass er nicht sichten lernen will oder nicht kann, so muss man eingreifen, um der Frucht und Nahrung der Kunst willen. Wir haben aber auch noch einen Grund, warum wir nicht jetzt schon jede Kleinigkeit messen und zerlegen. Chopin hat fast alle tüchtige Klavierspieler der neuen Schule für sich, und sonderbar! — oder im Grunde nicht sonderbar — am allermeisten die weiblichen, dem Geschlecht und der Gesinnung nach. Er entzückt sie grösstentheils, ja er fördert sie von einer Seite her. Ob auch von der andern? Das wollen wir noch ein wenig abwarten. In dergleichen Erscheinungen sind die Schlüsse nicht so sicher, als Mancher glaubt. — Die Hörer sind zwar nicht von allen seinen Werken so entzückt, wie die Spieler; allein auch unter ihnen fehlt es nicht daran. Was braucht es vor der Hand mehr? Allen ohne Unterschied hat er noch kein Mensch auf Erden recht gemacht. Also halten wir uns zuvörderst an das, was mit vollkommenem Rechte höchst beyfallwürdig ist, und gehen so auf eine möglichst kurze Beschreibung der oben genannten Werke über.

Das Concert ist ungeheuer schwierig, wenn es rein, sicher, kräftig, ziellich, in klarer Darlegung des Gehaltes überall mit vollkommener Leichtigkeit angemessener Bewegung gespielt werden soll, so dass man fühlt, der Vortragende stellt über den Schwierigkeiten desselben. Der Schlüssel dazu sind des Verf. Etüden, die man vorher überwinden lernen mag, ehe man sich an dieses ungemaine Brauvorstück wagt. Und dennoch wird es auch für tüchtige Spieler noch gar Manches zu thun geben, was nur der Geduld und Ausdauer zu einem glücklichen Erfolg verhelfen wird. Wer es unternimmt, wird sich anfangs fast verleugnen, sich gänzlich den Anforderungen hingeben, ja sogar manche Ohrenpein sich gefallen lassen müssen, ehe er bis zu der Sicherheit des Spiels gelangt, die erst ein Eingehen in den Inhalt, also ein Zusammenfassen der Ideen möglich macht. Dann wird erst die eigentliche Kunstarbeit anheben. Wer sich das nicht zutraut, der lasse es lieber; es wird auf andere Weise nicht viel werden. Ist er aber im Stande, mit gutem Willen anfangs sich selbst gefangen zu geben, räumt er mit Fleiss und Beharrlichkeit die Hindernisse bey Seite, bis er erst frey den Berg vor sich sieht, so wird ihm das Ersteigen recht gut möglich erscheinen. Führt er das Unternehmen glücklich aus, so hat er das zuverlässigste Recht, sich unter die tüchtigsten Pianofortespieler unserer Tage zu zählen, und wird Ehre damit einlegen vor Allen, die etwas von der Sache verstehen, wird auch nicht minder die Gunst vieler Dilettanten und anderer nur dem Gesamteindrucke folgenden Hörer sich erwerben, denn das Ganze athmet einen eigenen Geist, der wunderbarlich anzieht und selbst im Bizarren des Anlockenden nicht ermangelt. Damit wollen wir jedoch keineswegs gesagt haben, dass das Werk an allen Orten, oder an irgend einem Orte allen Hörern ohne Ausnahme, als Gauzes betrachtet, vollkommen zugesagt wird (Einzelheiten müssen durchaus bey gutem Vortrage Allen ohne Ausnahme gefallen); es ist diess sogar kaum möglich. Denn wo so viel Neues, oft seltsam Gestelltes, wie hier, erklingt, da hat die Vorliebe für irgend ein Gewohntes, Geliebtes nicht Unbefangenheit, nicht Freyheit genug, sich ohne Störung dem Eindrücke rein zu überlassen. Daher glauben wir nicht einmal, dass es Allen gefallen kanu; das ist aber auch gar nicht nöthig: anziehend, aufregend, zu mancherley Erörterungen Veranlassung gebend bleibt es gewiss selbst für diejenigen, denen es seiner Neuheit wegen in Einem und dem Andern nicht sogleich gefällt. Es unterliegt also keinem Zweifel, es ist etwas mit der Sache gewonnen, sogar für die Gegner. Spieler, die ihr Instrument völlig beherrschen lernen wollen, werden sich ein Herz fassen müssen. Gelingt es, so hat er mit einem Lustriesen mehr spielen gelernt; er hat an Bravour und am Gesang sich vervollkommenet, welcher letzte oft sehr einschmeichelnd ist. Ob der erste oder der letzte Satz der schwerste ist, wollen wir nicht fragen; jeder einzelne hat sein Maass für sich. Das Ganze ist eben Chopin's Weise, von welcher wir in den Beschreibungen seines Trio's und seiner Etüden bereits gesprochen haben und zu erlesener Zeit abermals und ausführlicher sprechen werden. Lassen wir ihm aber auch vor der Hand den Schleyer, der sich um das Eigene seines Verbindungsanges hüllt: so wollen wir ihm doch wenigstens ersuchen, in der Notation seiner Gebilde folgerichtiger zu verfahren, so weit es möglich ist. Gehört das scheinbar auch unter die Kleinigkeiten, so gewint doch kein Mensch bey Nichtachtung derselben etwas, einem Theile der Ausführenden wird dagegen die Sache ohne Noth schwieriger und krauser gemacht. Wir wollen statt vieler nur ein Beyspiel geben. Auf der 6ten Seite wechselt \flat mit \natural ohne allen Grund. Der Accord, welcher auf der dritten Klammer schon mit \natural vorherrschte, würde in der vierten mit derselben Note übersichtlicher und der Folge wegen richtiger in die Augen fallen. Niemals ist bestimmte Ordnung, wodurch der Gehalt nicht im Mindesten leidet, etwas Gleichgültiges. Manchen Geistern ist die Willkühr schlechthin nachtheilig, nicht allein für den gegenwärtigen Fall, der sich freylich bald überwinden lässt, sie wird es aber auch in ihren Folgen. Für diejenigen, denen so etwas einerley ist, sehen wir nicht die kleinste Erleichterung. Folglich wäre strengere Consequenz in dergleichen Kleinigkeiten etwas Wünschenswerthes, wäre es auch nur, um Gefälligkeit gegen Andere zu beweisen, die ihm nichts als guten Willen kosten kann. Das Werk ist Hrn. Frdr. Kalkbrenner gewidmet.

No. 2 ist ein wirklich brillantes, nicht zu schweres Werkchen, das mehr als eine zusammenhängende Phantasie über ein gewähltes schönes Thema, weniger als Variationen auf ein Thema anzusehen ist. Nach einer schönen Einleitung All. maestoso $\frac{3}{4}$, Bdur, folgt das einfache, gefällige Thema in derselben Tonart $\frac{6}{8}$, worauf es einmal ordentlich und schön variirt wird. Dann aber verlässt es den Gang eigentlicher Variationen und bringt ein Scherzo, das nach unserm Urtheil unter die Sätze gehört, welche die Grenzlinie der Schönheit völlig überspringen. Desto schöner und wohlthuernder schmeichelt sich das Lento in Desdur ein, in ein Scherzo vivace der Haupttonart leitend, worin das Ganze äusserst glänzend und erfreulich sich abrundet.

Die Nocturnen sind wirkliche Träumereyen einer in der Stille der Nacht von Gefühl zu Gefühl schwankenden Seele, über welche wir nichts als den Ausbruch eines weiblichen Herzens nach empfundenem Vortrage derselben hersetzen wollen: „Diese Nocturnen sind doch ganz mein Leben!“

Das Rondeau ist ein tüchtiges und sehr schönes Stück. Wenn alle Compositionen dieses Mannes durchaus gute Spieler verlangen, die bereits manches Schwierige überwunden haben, wenn sie in diesem Gebiete sich mit anständiger Haltung behaupten wollen: so wird diess von diesem Werke noch mehr, als z. B. von den obigen Variationen gelten. Es erfordert sehr gewandte und mit dem Componisten vertraute Spieler, und auch diese werden es nicht leicht nennen wollen. Hören lassen kann sich Jeder damit; gelingt es, wird er etwas Schönes leisten.

G. W. Fink.

NACHRICHTEN.

München, im July. (Fortsetzung.) Wer sehen will, was fester Wille, rege Thätigkeit und aufrichtige Liebe zur Kunst selbst bey an und für sich nicht bedeutenden Geldmitteln zu leisten im Stande sind, der besuche in München die St. Michaels-Hofkirche und höre die Productionen dortigen, unter der Leitung und durch die Sorgf des würdigen Chordirectors Hrn. Hofkaplans Schmal und des als Harmonikers und Contrapunktisten ausgezeichneten Organisten Hrn. Ett herangebildet und in steter Uebung erhaltenen Gesangs-Chores und er wird genöthigt seyn, seine vollste Anerkennung des wirklichen Verdienstes dieser wackere Männer auszusprechen, und zugeben müssen, dass in Deutschland nur in wenig Kirchen die Vocemusik auf dieser Stufe der Ausbildung, in gar keiner aber auf einer höhern Stufe stehe. — Wenn aber vollends eine an das Unbegreifliche gränzende Wirkung solchen regen Willens und aufrichtiger Kunstliebe sehen will, der besuche die Metropolitankirche zu unserer lieben Frau dahier und höre die der Vortrefflichkeit des St. Michaels-Chores vollkommen das Gleichgewicht haltenden Vocal-Productionen in Advent- und Fastenzeit, und andersdem noch die eben so durchaus gelungenen und nicht selten wirklich grossartigen Productionen gerührter Kirchenmusik an Fest- und Feiertagen Laufe des Jahres; er erkundige sich nach den Geldmitteln, welche in dieser Kirche für die Musik verwendet werden, und wenn er sich dann überzeugt, dass sie noch weit geringer als die der Michaels-Hofkirche sind, dann mache er die Bekanntschaft der beyden würdigen Männer, Herrn Schröfl Vater und Sohn, ersterer Domkapellmeister, letzterer Chorregent, und lasse sich von ihnen selbst erzählen, welche Mühe und Sorgf wie viel Bitten bey Künstlern und Dilettanten, und viel, herab bis zur eigenhändigen unentgeltlichen Copiatur der aufzuführenden Werke sich erstreckende, Bemühung ihnen die Freude kosten in ihren Chor so bestellt zu sehen, wie er wirklich ist! — Ich habe in dieser Kirche zur Advent- und Fastenzeit Werke von Palestrina, Orlando Lotti, Porta, Nanini und andern ältern Meistern und an Festtagen im Verlaufe des Jahres figurirte Messen von den beyden Haydn, Mozart, Cherubini, Hummel, Seyfried, Eybler, Schnabel, Diabisi und andern neueren Componisten gehört, welche sowohl von einer trefflichen Auswahl zehnten, als sie in Beziehung auf eine für die so grosse Kirche hinreichende Besetzung und vollkommenere Ausführung kaum etwas zu wünschen übrig lassen.

Boston Music Hall.

SEASON 1882 - 83.

BOSTON SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA,

MR. GEORG HENSCHEL, CONDUCTOR.

XII. CONCERT. 1882

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 23D, AT 8, P. M.

PROGRAMME.

OVERTURE. (Il Seraglio.)		MOZART.
CONCERTO FOR PIANO-FORTE in E minor, op. 11. Allegro maestoso. Romance. (Larghetto).— Rondo. (Vivace.)		CHOPIN.
SYMPHONY in C minor, No. 1, op. 68. Un poco sostenuto; Allegro.—Andante sostenuto.— Un poco Allegretto e grazioso.— Adagio: Più Andante; Allegro non troppo, ma con brio. Più Allegro.—		BRAHMS.
PIANO SOLO. RHAPSODY No. 9.		LISZT.
MENUET OF WILL O'THE WISPS.) (Faust.)	BERLIOZ.
DANCE OF SYLPHES.
HUNGARIAN MARCH.

SOLOIST :

MME. MADELINE SCHILLER.

Mme. Schiller will use a Chickering Piano.

The Chopin E minor concerto was performed by Josef Hofmann, who scored a very popular success. Endless applause followed his playing of the last movement, and so strong and persistent were the enthusiasts that they finally had to be hushed down by hisses. To me, having always championed Hofmann from the time he was little Josie, his playing of this concerto was more than a disappointment. I cannot say that it was not good or musical, but it was entirely too dry, too square cut, and too pedantic. Evidently Hofmann is everything but a Chopin player, for in this concerto he lacked the delicacy and finish of Joseffy and the poetry and grace of Paderewski—the only two men in the world who ever performed the now just a trifle antiquated Chopin E minor concerto entirely to my satisfaction. There is, moreover, no use denying the fact that the day of the Chopin piano concertos has gone by, and no amount of refurbishing the orchestration will hold them very long upon the modern concert program. Mr. B. 1895

Symphony Hall.

SEASON 1901-02.

BOSTON SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA.

Mr. WILHELM GERICKE, Conductor.

XVI. CONCERT.

1902

SATURDAY, MARCH 1. AT 8, P. M.

Programme.

MOZART,

SYMPHONY in E flat. (K 543).

- I Adagio. — Allegro.
- II Andante.
- III. Menuetto.
- IV. Finale. Allegro.

CHOPIN,

CONCERTO in E minor for PIANOFORTE and ORCHESTRA, op. II.

- I. Allegro maestoso.
- II. Romanze. Larghetto.
- III. Rondo. Vivace.

SCHILLINGS,

SYMPHONIC PROLOGUE to Sophocles' "Oedipus Rex." op. II.

(First time.)

WAGNER,

OVERTURE to "The Flying Dutchman."

Soloist:

Mr. ERNEST HUTCHESON.

Mr. Ernest Hutcheson, pianist, who now plays for the first time in Boston at a Symphony Concert, was born at Melbourne, Australia, July 20, 1871. When he was about fifteen years old, he went to Leipsic and studied there for six years,—the piano under Bruno Zwintscher and Reinecke, composition under Jadassohn. He wrote a piano trio; he won the Mozart prize. He then made a tour through Australia and he played in other lands. He went to Weimar, where he studied the piano under Stevenhagen. In 1898 he settled in Berlin, and the next year he married the Baroness Senfft von Pilsach. In 1900 he was invited to be the chief piano teacher at the Conservatory of the Peabody Institute, Baltimore; and his first appearance as a pianist in this country was at Baltimore, Oct. 19, 1900. Mr. Hutcheson has given concerts in Russia, Germany, England. Among his compositions are a Suite in C minor (five movements) for Orchestra, Op. 7 (Berlin, 1899), a Concerto in E major for Piano and Orchestra (Berlin, 1898), a Symphonic Poem, "Merlin und Vivien" (Berlin, 1899),—an arrangement for piano of the "Walkürenritt." He first played in Boston, Dec. 2, 1901, at a Kneisel Concert, when he played the piano part of Chadwick's Piano Quartet.

Symphony Hall.

SEASON 1906-07.

BOSTON SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA.

Dr. KARL MUCK, Conductor

V. CONCERT.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 17, AT 8, P. M.

Programme.

- WEBER, OVERTURE to the opera "Oberon."
- CHOPIN, CONCERTO in E minor, for PIANOFORTE and ORCHESTRA, No. 1, op. 11.
I. Allegro maestoso.
II. Romanze : Larghetto.
III. Rondo : vivace.
- SINDING, SYMPHONY in D minor, No. 1, op. 21.
I. Allegro moderato.
II. Andante.
III. Vivace : Più moderato.
IV. Maestoso.

Soloist:

Mme. ANTOINETTE SZUMOWSKA.

Vierzehntes Abonnement-Concert im Saale des Neuen Gewandhauses zu Leipzig Donnerstag, den 28. Januar 1892.

Erster Theil: Musik zu Shakespeare's „Sommernachts Traum“ von F. Mendelssohn-Bartholdy. Overture. Scherzo, Esfenmarisch, Intermezzo, Nocturno und Hochzeitsmarsch. — Zweiter Theil: Concert für Pianoforte (Nr. 1, Emoll) von F. Chopin, vorgetragen von Herrn Moriz Rosenthal, königl. rumän. Hofpianisten aus Wien. — Symphonie (Nr. 1, Cdur) von L. van Beethoven. — Phantasie über Motive aus Mozart's „Don Juan“ von F. Liszt, vorgetragen von Herrn Rosenthal.

Der Solist des vierzehnten Gewandhausconcertes — Herr Moriz Rosenthal — ist die neueste Clavier-Berühmtheit der Jetztzeit. Von Geburt ein Rumäne und, soviel wir wissen, in Liszt'scher Schule gebildet, haben sein Name und Aufjuch in Amerika Klang und Bedeutung gewonnen. Hier in Leipzig ist er bereits vor einiger Zeit zwei Mal aufgetreten — in einem Concerte des Liszt-Vereins und in einem für wohlthätige Zwecke — ohne daß wir ihn jedoch bei diesen Gelegenheiten gehört hätten. Erst sein diesmaliges Erscheinen im Gewandhause machte uns und die weitere Leipziger Oeffentlichkeit mit ihm bekannt und ließ uns ermessen, in wie weit seine Celebrität begründet ist. Da haben wir denn gefunden, daß Herr Rosenthal allerdings eine Virtuosität besitzt, welche wahrhaft verblüffend wirkt und vielleicht Alles überbietet, was seit Liszt in technischer Beziehung geleistet worden ist, daß wir aber weiter als in der Bewunderung seiner unbegrenzten Fertigkeit sowie seiner riesigen Kraft und Ausdauer nicht gehen können. Denn sein Spiel — so weit wir es bis jetzt zu beurtheilen vermögen — entbehrt für uns des eigentlichen und wahrhaften künstlerischen Elementes und läßt somit ein richtiges Behagen nicht ankommen. Herr Rosenthal ist nur Tastenheld und als solcher stannenerregend; dagegen aber muß seine Manier als verzwickelt, hyperpointirt, von einem dynamischen Extrem in's andere springend und in der Darlegung übertriebener Fingerschnelligkeit sich gefallend entschiedenes Bedenken erregen. Daß unter dieser Manier das Chopin'sche Emoll-Concert mehr zu leiden hatte als die Liszt'sche Don Juan-Phantasie, liegt in der Natur der beiden Compositionen; dem Publikum indeß war der Vortrag des erstgenannten Werkes trotz alledem und alledem höchst genehm, denn es rief Herrn Rosenthal stürmisch hervor. Noch frenetischer gestaltete sich der Beifall allerdings nach Absolvirung des Liszt'schen Stückes (wie kaum anders zu erwarten), und Herr Rosenthal mußte sich zu zwei — sage zwei — Zugaben verstehen, welche gleichmäßig bejubelt wurden und von denen nur die eine — bestehend in etlichen Variationen über ein Thema aus Bellini's „Puritanen“ (enthalten in dem sogenannten „Hexameron“ von der Collaboration Liszt's, Czerny's, Pixis' etc.) — uns bekannt war.

Die orchestralen Bestandtheile des vierzehnten Gewandhausabends — die oben verzeichneten Nummern aus Mendelssohn's Sommernachts Traum-Musik und Beethoven's Sinfonie Nr. 1 — erfuhren eine Wiedergabe wie sie nicht besser zu wünschen war und bildeten die eigentlichen Zierden des Concertes. Nach Abschluß der Mendelssohn'schen Nummern wurde Herr Prof. Dr. Reinecke gernsen, was der Vollständigkeit wegen nicht unerwähnt bleiben soll.

G. VERNSDORF.

Dur und Moll.

* Leipzig. Der fünfte Kammermusikabend im Neuen fand am 23. Januar statt und hatte das Quartett Hilf-Becker-Si- neben Herrn Prof. Dr. Reinecke zu Ausführenden. Letzgenannter seiner Eigenschaft als Pianist auch in der als Componist in Mitthat gleich die Eröffnungsnummer des Abends — ein Streichquartett in Ddur (E hatte ihn zum Verfasser. Dieses hier in Leipzig zum ersten Male in die Welt gebrachte Werk gehört zu den neuesten Schöpfungen des fleißigen Reir als ein durchaus wohlgelungenes zu bezeichnen wir in der angenehmen Es pulstirt darin eine noble und warmblütige Erfindung, die Form alle zeigt schönste Rundung und Ebenmäßigkeit, die thematische Arbeit ist vort bei Reinecke sich eigentlich von selber versteht) und die instrumentale Behandi durch Klangreiz und sonstige Wirksamkeit sehr für sich ein. Sonach natürlich, daß dem Werke eine höchst günstige Aufnahme zu Theil wurde günstigste speciell dem grazios-pikanten Scherzo), zumal da auch seine Wied die oben genannten Herren Quartettisten eine nach allen Seiten hin vorz Starke Applaus nach den einzelnen Sätzen und dringender Hervorruf bekundeten die hohe Zufriedenheit des Publicums mit dem Erzeugniß des und mit der Executur. — Die zweite Nummer des Abends war wunderbares Trio in Bdur für Pianoforte, Violine und Violoncell (Op. Ausführung der Clavierpartie dieses Werkes durch Herrn Prof. Dr. Reir unseren Kammermusik-Soiréen schon oftmals Gegenstand der Begeisterung war es auch diesmal, ja sie bereitete dem allverehrten Künstler vielleicht n Triumphe als früher. Seine Partner — die Herren Hilf und Klengel — Ihrige zum Glanz der Executur im Ganzen bei, waren also auch des wo Beifalls theilhaftig. — Franz Schubert's Streichquartett in Gdur (Op. 1 den Schluß des Abends. Seit sehr langer Zeit hier in Leipzig nicht zu kommen und überhaupt selten gespielt, mag dieses Werk für Viele aus den eine Neuheit gewesen sein. Es repräsentirt den vollen und ächten Schubert unerschöpflichen Erfindungs-Reichthum, dem unsäglichen Reiz seiner Ideen Frappanten seiner Harmonik. Bei wirklich vollendeter Executur übte es nicht wegzulengenden und trotz angebrachter Striche noch immer exorbitan eine hinreißende Wirkung auf die Hörschaft aus und verschaffte Herrn Hilf Genossen eine überreiche Beifallszernte.

* Brüssel, 30. December. Nach erfolgter Wiederherstellung des Teno hat endlich am vergangenen Montag die Reprise von Wagner's seit drei Ze gegebenem „Lohengrin“ im Théâtre de la Monnaie vor sich gehen könne ist, wie nicht anders zu sagen, recht befriedigend ausgefallen. Das Wer ersichtlicher Sorgfalt einstudirt worden und Herr Flon dirigitte es mit Intel Energie; das Orchester ließ nichts oder nur wenig zu wünschen übrig, desgle die Chöre, und von den Darstellern waren es besonders Herr Lafarge (Herr Seguin (Talamund), die Damen De Ruovina (Elfa) und Wolf (Ortr Verdienstliches leisteten. Mit der Inszenirung stand die Regie nicht imm Höhe ihrer Aufgabe, was aber den Eindruck des Ganzen nicht wesentlic tigte. — Im Conservatorium war neulich ein zweites Jöglingconcert, in ein neues Werk des Prix-de-Rome Herrn Gilson — eine Elegie — Interesse erregte, dann aber auch eine fünfzehnjährige Violinistin, Mlle. 2 Auditorium durch ihre bereits glänzende Virtuosität in Bewunderung versetzt Union des jeune compositeurs hat letzte Woche im Cercle artistique e gegeben, welches Arbeiten von verschiedenen ihrer Mitglieder zur Vorführun Die Zuhörerschaft zeigte sich von diesen Erzeugnissen ihrer jungen belgische

1882
BOSTON MUSIC HALL.

PROGRAMMES

FOR

RAFAEL JOSEFFY'S PIANO CONCERTS.

HIS LAST APPEARANCES IN BOSTON.

SATURDAY AFTERNOON, APRIL 13th, at 2,

WEDNESDAY EVENING, APRIL 19th, at 8,

When he will have the assistance of

A GRAND ORCHESTRA.

MR. CARL ZERRAHN, Conductor.

AND

SATURDAY AFTERNOON, APRIL 22d, at 2.

STEINWAY & SONS' PIANOS used at all JOSEFFY CONCERTS.

Programme for Saturday Afternoon, April 15, at 2.

1. { a. SONATE. Op. 53, in C. (Waldstein). . . L. von Beethoven.
 Allegro con brio. Adagio molto. Rondo: Allegretto moderato.—
 b. OVERTURE, ARIA, and BOURREE. . . Bach—Joseffy.
 c. ARIETTA DI BALLETO. . . . Gluck—Joseffy.

2. { a. DES ABENDS.
 b. WARUM.
 c. TRAUMESWIRREN } Schumann.
 d. VOGEL ALS PROPHEET.
 e. TOCCATA. }

3. { a. THREE SONGS WITHOUT WORDS. } . Mendelssohn.
 (F major, E major, C major).
 b. TWO MOMENTS MUSICALES. A flat major. } . Schubert.
 F minor.
 c. BARCAROLE. (Auf dem Wasser zu } singen.) } Schubert—Liszt.
 d. HARK! HARK THE LARK. }

4. { a. AU LAC DE WALLENSTADT.
 b. GNOMENREIGEN. } Liszt.
 c. RHAPSODIE HONGROISE No. 12. (à Joachim). }
-

STEINWAY & SONS' PIANOS used at all JOSEFFY CONCERTS.

Programme for Wednesday Evening, April 19, at 8.

1. OVERTURE. "Rosamunde." Schubert.

ORCHESTRA.

2. CONCERTO No. 1. E minor. Chopin.
1. Allegro maestoso. 2. Romanze. 3. Rondo.

RAFAEL JOSEFFY AND ORCHESTRA.

3. ANDANTE from the Italian symphony. . . . Mendelssohn.

ORCHESTRA.

4. CONCERTO. A major. Mozart.
1. Allegro (Cadenza by Rafael Joseffy). 2. Adagio.
3. Allegro Assai.

RAFAEL JOSEFFY AND ORCHESTRA.

5. FACKELTANZ (in B flat). Meyerbeer.

ORCHESTRA.

6. CONCERTO. No. 2. G minor. Saint-Saëns.
1. Andante sostenuto. 2. Allegro scherzando.
3. Presto.

RAFAEL JOSEFFY AND ORCHESTRA.

STEINWAY & SONS' PIANOS used at all JOSEFFY CONCERTS.

Programme for Saturday Afternoon, April 22, at 2.

1. { a. PRELUDE, from Suite Anglaise, A minor. . . }
 b. GRAND FUGUE, A minor. } J. S. Bach.
 c. PASSEPIED. }
 d. GAVOTTE, for the left hand alone. . . }
 e. ARIA. } Pergolesi.
 f. GAVOTTE. } Padre Martini.

2. { a. SONATE, Op. 110. }
 b. ALLEGRETTO VIVACE, from Op. 31. . . } Beethoven.

3. { a. ETUDES, C sharp minor, Op. 10. C sharp } minor, Op. 21. F minor. }
 b. MAZOURKA, B minor. } Chopin.
 c. VALSE, E minor. }
 d. NOCTURNE, D flat major. }
 e. POLONAISE, A flat major. }

4. { a. TARANTELLA DI BAVURA. } Liszt.
 b. AQUARELLE. } Joseffy.
 c. MIDSUMMERNIGHT'S DREAM. } Mendelssohn—Liszt.

STEINWAY & SONS' PIANOS used at all JOSEFFY CONCERTS.

MUSIC HALL, BOSTON.

THURSDAY EVENING, OCT. 31, 1889,

8.15 O'CLOCK.

OTTO HEGNER

UNDER THE DIRECTION OF ABBEY, SCHOEFFEL AND GRAU.

PROGRAMME.

1. OVERTURE. "Ruy Blas." MENDELSSOHN Orchestra.
2. "BOLERO."
Mrs. Pemberton Hincks.
3. CONCERTO in E minor. CHOPIN Allegro maestoso.
Romanze.
Rondo.
Otto Hegner.
4. QUINTET in E flat. MAYSEDER
Allegro brillante.
Mendelssohn Quintette Club.
5. { a "CHANSON CREOLE."
 b "CHANSON ESPAGNOLE."
Mrs. Pemberton Hincks.
6. ANDANTE from Quartet, op. 11. TSCHAIKOWSKI String Orchestra.
7. { a RONDO CAPRICCIOSO, op. 14. MENDELSSOHN b SPINNERLIED from the "Fliegende Hollander." WAGNER-LISZT
 c VALSE CAPRICE. RUBINSTEIN Otto Hegner.
8. MARCH from Athalie. MENDELSSOHN
Orchestra.

CONDUCTOR. - Mr. CARL ZERRAHN.

STEINWAY & SONS' CELEBRATED PIANOS USED AT THESE CONCERTS.

Princes' Hall,

PICCADILLY.

MADAME

MADÉLINE SCHILLER'S

Orchestral * Concert

ON

SATURDAY EVENING, MAY 17, 1890,

AT 8.30.

.....

SOLO PIANOFORTE

MADAME MADÉLINE SCHILLER.

VOCALISTS

MR. & MRS. HENSCHEL

FULL ORCHESTRA,

CONDUCTOR - - - - MR. HENSCHEL.

Stalls, 10s. 6d. Balcony, 5s. Admission, 2s. 6d.

Tickets to be obtained of the usual Agents, and at the Hall,
N. VERT, 6, Cork Street, Burlington Gardens, W

❖ PROGRAMME. ❖

OVERTURE, "Ossian" GADE.

CONCERTO for Pianoforte in E minor (Op. 11) CHOPIN.

MADAME MADELINE SCHILLER.

"INGEBORG'S LAMENT" (from "Frithjof") MAX BRUCH.

MRS. HENSCHEL.

PIANO SOLOS—

(a) "Kammenoi-Ostrow," No. 22 Rubinstein.

(b) "Charakterstück," No. 4 Mendelssohn.

MADAME MADELINE SCHILLER

DUETS with Piano—

(a) "Beharrliche Liebe" Henschel.

(b) "Kein Feuer, keine Kohle" Henschel.

MR. AND MRS. HENSCHEL

PHANTASY on Hungarian Melodies, for Pianoforte and Orchestra LISZT.

MADAME MADELINE SCHILLER

TORCHLIGHT DANCE, from the Opera
"Der Landfriede" IGNAZ BRÜLL.

(First time in England.)

The contents of THE FOLIO are editorial except such articles as are accredited to their respective authors.

CLASSICAL INCONSISTENCIES.

While forecasting in a recent issue the probabilities and possibilities of the present musical season, we took occasion to express the hope, in view of the fact that comparative perfection was reasonably assured as regards the make up of the Boston Symphony Orchestra and the splendid results that would naturally evolve, that musical crudities in the form of pseudo singers and half fledged pianists might not be introduced in conjunction therewith to destroy the unity and consistency of elements that might otherwise exist. As regards this matter there was much and well grounded cause for complaint last season. Embryotic specimens of the genus soloist in several instances were foisted upon the intelligent and discriminating audience assembled at these concerts who had a right to expect the ripest musical efforts attainable. Disappointment and disgust were the inevitable results, and complaints loud and deep were heard in consequence from those who realized the inconsistency and incongruity of the combination. This season it was confidently hoped that the "eternal fitness" of things musical as exemplified in the Music Hall Symphony Concerts would be fully realized; but all hopes in this direction are evidently doomed to disappointment. One can hardly be sanguine of singers now-a-days; the race of good ones is nearly run out, and the announcement of a new vocalist raises no morning glow of expectancy in our minds. But so far as instrumentalists are concerned, the conditions are vastly different, and the act of placing incompetent soloists in concerts of the highest order like those given by the Boston Symphony orchestra is an imposition on its audiences and an outrage on art.

The most pronounced instance of this kind that has occurred in the above concerts was the appearance of Mlle. Etelka Utassi, pianist, Saturday Evening, Oct. 27th, who essayed Chopin's Piano Concerto in E minor. (Herded as the pupil of Franz Liszt, (& Co.) a large and indulgent audience were led to expect much—they got the cruelest performance of this work, undoubtedly, that has ever been heard in Music Hall—one which, where it did not evoke the severest condemnation of intelligent critics, at least received the charitable consideration of absolute silence. The Home Journal pithily remarks: "She now and then played a good scale and in the first movement of the work was somewhat musical; but throughout the most apparent features of her performance were that the concerto was too difficult for her and that she had either a very limited experience in playing with an orchestra or was wholly incapable of doing it. The why and wherefores of Mr. Gericke's consent that such an audacious little amateur should appear in public with an orchestra under his direction are as mysterious as her performance was discreditable." This covers pretty much the whole ground of the matter and perhaps no more need here be said; but the momentous questions arise—are these outrageous and disgraceful inflictions to be continued?—Has the Boston Symphony Concert stage been transformed into an arena for the training of mere novices? If so why not be honest and acknowledge it.

The Great Artists Welcomed to America with Delight.

(Special Dispatch to the Boston Herald.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 18, 1899. Tier rising above tier with the seats all filled, and all who could possibly find room to stand, glad of even this opportunity to welcome to America the greatest violinist and the most remarkable of the modern pianists, was the scene presented at the Metropolitan Opera House at 8 o'clock this evening. The first of the great musical stars to appear was Eugene d'Albert. He was welcomed with no remarkable display of enthusiasm, and sat down to the piano with an ease and apparent sureness that betokened a total indifference to the audience's welcome. Perhaps he was sure of winning them at the end of the E minor concerto, which he commenced in a sure, true and masterly manner. Rarely in this country has that exquisite first movement "allegro maesoso" been played as d'Albert played it this evening, and his calm, sure manner at the beginning gave way to responsive excitement as the vast audience broke out in salvos of applause. After the first movement the house virtually was swayed by the player, and it became most apparent that the artist felt the great value of the throng, for visibly a nervous excitement became apparent, and he gave the second movement, the lovely romanza, with perfect and beautiful effect, and at the conclusion the true tribute to musical genius was paid to him in a moment of perfect silence before the house broke forth again and again. The rondo closed the concerto, and he was recalled eight times. D'Albert's appearance is peculiar, and to a close observer indicates an eccentric character. He is rather short, chubby and heavy looking, but he plays the piano in an ideal sort of way. He is only 26 years of age, and seems to have mastered every possible difficulty that the pianoforte offers. His playing is at once delicate where delicacy is needful, and he possesses that very rare quality of knowing how to grade his force without in the slightest losing the crispness of touch, and his phrasing is simply perfect. If any fault with his playing can be found, it is the fact that in places he reads his composers rather than that he is inspired by them. Yet his most remarkable quality is the one of inspiring his auditors with enthusiasm where he himself is enthused. He never falls below the truly great, but he has moments where absolute inspiration is necessary to carry him to the point he achieves, and no audience can possibly withstand paying the tribute that he earns of being absolutely superb. In the three pieces set down for him later on the programme—a humoresque opus 6 by Grieg, Rubinstein's barcarolle No. 5, and the Strauss Tausig Waltz—he again showed his remarkable technical proficiency, and gave the humorous phases of the Grieg piece with a quaintness and peculiar expression that won for him the greatest applause of the evening. D'Albert certainly surprised his audience into the wildest enthusiasm, and when Senor Pablo de Sarasate made his appearance one would have supposed that even greater was his reputation, and much as was expected from him, nothing in the way of enthusiasm was left but the dapper little Spaniard was as cool as possible, bowed with an ease and surety that made his $15,000 Stradivarius fairly sing, and undoubtedly the greatest violinist living made an impression in the minds of his audience, after having finished the familiar Mendelssohn concerto for violin, that will never be effaced. Even allowing for the large number of enthusiastic compatriots who welcomed the Spaniard on his first appearance, the applause was overpowering and the enthusiasm astounding, particularly after the performance of his own fantasia on airs from "Carmen." Of Sarasate's violin playing nothing can be said except that he stands head and shoulders over any violinist who has been in this country since Wilhelm's time. His tone is at once large and pure, his bowing perfection, and the fire he puts into his playing is simply indescribable. American audiences, as a rule, do not indulge in bravos and exclamations of approval, nor do they generally rise to their feet to emphasize their applause. But this night witnessed a display of feeling and applause that will remain in the memory of every one in that enormous throng of people. Mr. Abbey tells me that the same programme will be given in Boston at the first concert, and a treat is in store for all you Bostonians, who will hear in d'Albert almost a perfect and ideal pianist, and a violinist who is the embodiment of what one imagines Paganini must have been, with all, so to speak, modern improvements.

MUSIC.

THE FIRST SARASATE-D'ALBERT CONCERT. In spite of the forbidding weather and the heavy prices, there was a very large audience in Music Hall last night. The programme was as follows:

- Prelude to "Lohengrin".....Wagner Orchestra.
 Concerto for Piano, E minor, with orchestra.....Chopin Allegro maestoso. Romanze. Rondo.
 Herr Engen d'Albert.
 Concerto for violin, with orchestra.....Mendelssohn Allegro. Andante. Finale. Allegro molto.
 Senor Pablo de Sarasate.
 { a. Humoresque, op. 6, No. 2. Ed. Grieg { b. Barcarolle No. 5. A minor.....
 Solos— { c. Waltz, "Man lebt nur einmal".....Ant. Rubinstein {Strauss-Tausig
 Herr Engen d'Albert.
 Fantasia on airs from "Carmen," for violin solo, with orchestra.....Sarasate Intermezzo. Habanera. Seguidilla. Finale.
 Senor Pablo de Sarasate.
 Accompanist—Mr. Otto Goldschmidt.

It is very difficult to say anything about this concert except that it was superb. Mr. d'Albert played the concerto as it has perhaps never before been heard in Boston—magnificently, splendidly. His technique is astonishing, of course, but his claims are not based on virtuosity alone; he is an artist in his finger tips—and what magic finger tips they are, by the way, and how they charm wonderful tones from the silent, still wires strung on the wooden box. Such a thing as technical difficulty does not exist for him. Last night he did simply fabulous things, and yet he did them with perfect ease—great, strong, nobly conceived passages; then again the most dainty flower-like touches, and afterwards notes of lonely melancholy, and even bitter sorrow. It was all there in the music as he played it, and hardly a human passion or feeling but what he touched upon. Vox populi—vox Dei, they say; well, in that case, D'Albert slept soundly and contentedly last night, for the traditionally cold Boston audience warmed up and applauded and cheered like Neapolitans, or any other hot-hearted people who live in countries where the sun always shines and green things grow. The three short pieces were played in the same amazing way, and the waltz was simply wonderful. As an encore Mr. d'Albert played the intensely difficult Rubinstein study in C major, and this was perhaps his technical triumph of the evening. Perhaps nobody else living could play it as he did; with such astonishing clearness and ease. As a second encore, which was insisted upon, he played the Chopin Berceuse. His playing was a little uneven—whose is not? But criticism seems impossible. The man is an artist; more than that, he is a genius; and the best thing to say is, "Saint! c'est legenie qui passe."

MUSICAL MATTERS.

Mme. Teresa Carreno at the Symphony Concert.

The Powell-Hastreiter Con- cert at Music Hall.

A Solution of the "Encore" Difficulty--Notes.

The third of the season's concerts by the Boston symphony orchestra, Mr. Wilhelm Gericke, conductor, was given at Music Hall last evening, with Mme. Teresa Carreno as the soloist, and a programme including the symphony, op. 88 (Parisian), W. A. Mozart; the concerto for pianoforte in E minor, F. Chopin; the "Hungarian Rhapsody No. 2," F. Liszt, and "Huldigung's Marsch," R. Wagner. It would be pleasant to look upon this programme and its arrangement as an evidence of an intention on the part of Mr. Gericke to recognize the desires of a large number of his patrons, its reception by the audience proving beyond all question that the selections and the order of their arrangement met general approval. The short symphony, written for the Concerts Spirituels of Paris by Mozart during his visit to that city in 1783, is full of his best work, and its performance was a source of rare enjoyment. Mme. Carreno's appearance as the soloist of the evening also made a most notable event, and the triumph she won by her performance of the Chopin concerto was one of the most memorable ever gained by this delightful artist in this city. Pianoforte playing is not always a source of unqualified pleasure, even by the artists who are considered competent to appear at these concerts, but Mme. Carreno is one of the very few pianists whose presence is always an attraction to the real music lover. Her playing is that of a genius, rather than the too frequent illustration of the results of an extended term of diligent study, and it reflects her own personality in the most charming way. Her touch is so absolutely free and clear, her readings so intelligent and full of sentiment, and her technical attainments so far beyond those of the average virtuoso of the day, that it is no wonder she holds an audience spell-bound as she did last evening, and commands such applause as that which called her back to bow her acknowledgments again and again after she had concluded the concerto. The Liszt rhapsody gave the new flute player a fine opportunity to display his abilities, and he again proved himself a most valuable addition to Mr. Gericke's band, the solo passages for his instrument being played with faultless purity of tone and thoroughly artistic elegance. The Wagner march gave a brilliant ending to this most enjoyable concert, and dismissed the audience with pleasant memories of the evening's programme.

Boston Music Hall.

SEASON 1887-88.

BOSTON SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA.

MR. WILHELM GERICKE, CONDUCTOR.

III. CONCERT.

1887

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 29TH, AT 8, P. M.

PROGRAMME.

W. A. MOZART.

SYMPHONY, op. 88. (Parisian.) (Composed in Paris, June, 1778.)

F. CHOPIN.

CONCERTO for PIANOFORTE in E minor.

F. LISZT.

HUNGARIAN RHAPSODY, No. 2.
(Orchestrated by K. Müller.)

R. WAGNER.

HULDIGUNG'S MARSCH.

SOLOIST:

MME. TERESA CARRENO.

Boston Symphony Concert.

The third concert of the Boston Symphony Orchestra in Music Hall last night attracted the largest audience of the season thus far. Every seat on the floor was occupied, the galleries were filled, and there was but little standing room left. The programme was not of so serious a character as usual at these concerts, but it was none the less to be enjoyed, notwithstanding. The selections were well balanced, and a pleasing variety was obtained. The performances opened with Mozart's "Parisian" Symphony in D. The work is not one of the best in its kind that the composer has left to the world; but it is full of life, of the buoyancy of youth, and of grace and brilliancy. The finale is the most interesting movement because of its unflagging animation and its fluent and ingenious counterpoint. It was beautifully read and played; the tempi were perfect, and the color beyond improvement. Liszt's Hungarian Rhapsody No. 2, arranged for instruments, was wonderfully performed. The fine discipline of the orchestra was shown at its very best, and the results were among the most brilliant and effective that have ever been achieved in Music Hall. The players were as one instrument which the conductor used at his pleasure, and it was easily obedient to even his most capricious desire to produce originality in effect. In this work the new flautist was called upon to show his skill in the difficult bravura passages that fell to his lot, and he acquitted himself in the most triumphant manner, proving himself an artist of the highest merit. Fine tone, faultless execution, masterly style, perfect intonation,—what more could be wished for? He received the unusual compliment of two enthusiastic calls at the conclusion of the selection, and he fairly earned and richly deserved them. The concert ended with Wagner's "Hildegung's March," by no means the best of the composer's achievements in this direction, and interesting rather in its orchestration than in its themes. It was splendidly played, however, and made a fitting culmination of the glorious night's work of the orchestra. The soloist was Mme. Teresa Carreno, who played Chopin's Concerto in E minor. We find it difficult to express the surprise and the pleasure her playing excited. Her technique was of the highest finish and delicacy, her phrasing thoroughly artistic, and elegant grace and refinement of taste characterized the effort throughout. It was admirable Chopin playing, perhaps now and then a little overdone in respect to rubato; but always thoughtful, tender, chaste in sentiment and exquisite in poetic feeling. It was a genuine pleasure to listen to the pearliness and purity of her scale playing. We have never before heard her in such worthy work and with such affluent results of true artistic inspiration. Three stormy recalls rewarded her, orchestra and conductor joining in the applause. The programme for the next concert is: Overture, "Ruins of Athens," Beethoven; Serenade for Strings in E-minor, Fuchs; Symphony No. 1, in C-minor, Brahms. Miss Emma Juch is to be the soloist.

Boston Music Hall.

SEASON 1888-89.

BOSTON SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA.

MR. WILHELM GERICKE, CONDUCTOR.

III. CONCERT.

1888

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 27TH, AT 8, P. M.

PROGRAMME.

- PETER CORNELIUS. OVERTURE. "The Barber of Bagdad." (First time in Boston.)
- F. CHOPIN. CONCERTO for PIANOFORTE, in E minor, op. 11.
Allegro maestoso.—Romance, Larghetto.—
Rondo vivace.—
- F. MENDELSSOHN. SYMPHONY No. 3, in A minor, "Scotch." Andante con moto.—Allegro un poco agitato.—
Vivace non troppo.—Adagio.—
Allegro vivacissimo, and Allegro maestoso assai.

SOLOIST:

Mlle. ETELKA UTASSI.

BOSTON MUSIC HALL.

◆◆◆

PROGRAMME

FOR

MR. A. P. PECK'S ANNUAL CONCERT,

WEDNESDAY EVENING, APRIL 14TH, 1880,

- At eight o'clock.

◆◆◆

ARTISTS:

MISS GERTRUDE FRANKLIN, Soprano.

MISS EMILY WINANT, Contralto.

OLE BULL, Violinist.

CARLYLE PETERSILEA, Pianist.

And GRAND ORCHESTRA.

MR. THEODORE THOMAS, Conductor.

MR. HENRI STRAUSS, Accompanist.

◆◆◆

The Chickering Piano is used at this concert.

Programme.

OVERTURE—“Tannhauser.” Wagner.

ORCHESTRA.

ARIA—“Ah rendimi quel core.” Rossi.

Miss EMILY WINANT and ORCHESTRA.

AIR. Bach.

ORCHESTRA. ,

PIANO CONCERTO. E minor. Chopin.

a. Allegro Maestoso.

b. Romance. (Larghetto.)

c. Rondo, (Vivace.)

CARLYLE PETERSILEA and ORCHESTRA.

SHADOW SONG, from “Dinorah.” Meyerbeer.

(With piano accompaniment.)

Miss GERTRUDE FRANKLIN.

INTERMISSION.

CONCERTO IN A MAJOR.

a. Allegro maestoso. b. Adagio sentimentale.

c. Rondo Pastorale.

Composed and performed by

OLE BULL.

BALLAD—“Sunset.” Dudley Buck.

(With piano accompaniment.)

Miss EMILY WINANT.

BALLET—“Feramors.” Rubinstein.

ORCHESTRA.

AIR AND VARIATIONS. Rhode.

(With piano accompaniment.)

Miss GERTRUDE FRANKLIN.

SLAVONIC RHAPSODY, op. 45. No. 3. Deorak.

ORCHESTRA.

CHICKERING PIANOS USED AT ALL JOSEFFY CONCERTS

Something of the enjoyment of those who have heard Joseffy is owing to the Chickering Piano upon which he played. It was a noble instrument, that he easily to the exacting demands made upon it by the player in respect to variety of expression and sweetness and volume of tone.—Boston Gazette, March 14.

If in such playing as Joseffy's, all thought of ivory and wood and iron vanishes, so that there seems to be no gross material medium between the musician and the tones themselves, let us not forget that the Chickering instrument served him so admirably, was one of the best ever heard in this city, facile among those of other makers which have figured lately in our concert rooms. It is bringing out its very best in just these happy days.—Dwight's Journal, March 27.

Joseffy played upon a superb Chickering Grand at his recent concerts. So much praise lavished upon the pianist must also be bestowed upon the piano.—April, 1889.

THE BROOKLYN PHILHARMONIC.

Perhaps the chief interest in the Brooklyn Philharmonic Society's third concert centred in the appearance of Moriz Rosenthal, the piano virtuoso, for at no time during the current season has so numerous an audience been seen within the walls of the Academy of Music as on Friday afternoon, and again on Saturday evening.

For our own part we wish that Herr Rosenthal had played something else than the Chopin E Minor Concerto, with which he and a host of lesser pianists have now made us more than familiar. An artist commanding so phenomenal a technique, so sensuous a touch, such keen intelligence, and such remarkable physical endurance should now and again set himself the very highest of tasks. We could not but admire his interpretation of the Chopin concerto, but would have preferred hearing him in a work by Rubinstein, Brahms, or Saint-Saëns. In the opening Allegro the tempo was, to our thinking, too rapidly taken, and the orchestra, unaccustomed to such time, failed to keep pace with the soloist. Nothing, however, could have been more delicate and poetic than his playing of the Romanza. As for the rondo movement, it was a triumph of technical skill and brilliancy.

The peculiar arrangement of two of Liszt's Rhapsodies and the "Chant Polonais," by Chopin, are also becoming a trifle wearisome. It is true that Rosenthal plays both these things with astounding virtuosity, but no less true is it, on the other hand, that he plays them a great deal too often. In the finale of the Rhapsodies Herr Rosenthal would do well to conceal his art and the difficulties of his arrangement a little more than he does.

A new transcription by Mr. Theodore Thomas of a Largo and Allegro by Bach was, to tell the truth, something of a disappointment. Not that Mr. Thomas has failed in doing his work well. This music, however, is not of the sort that lends itself as gracefully to the language of the orchestra as other works by Bach. If certain musicians, such as Abert and Esser, have acquired a reputation as transcribers of Bach music, it is not because they were more skilful in the art of orchestration, or that they entered more deeply into the spirit of Bach's writings, but rather because they had an instinct for choosing only such of the great fugue-master's works as lend themselves to an orchestral dress, and leaving severely alone such as do not. Mr. Thomas's orchestration is nearly always scholarly and frequently effective. Only here and there did it seem to us a trifle turgid. And Bach, however complex, should always be as clear and transparent as possible.

By far the most enjoyable feature of the concert was the performance of Rubinstein's "Dramatic" Symphony. Here the orchestra played superbly, with splendid beauty and volume of tone, remarkable finish and precision, and much more than its wonted spirit.

MUSIC.

TWENTY-FOURTH SYMPHONY CONCERT.

PROGRAMME.

Overture, "Sakuntala".....Goldmark
Concerto for piano-forte in E minor, op. 11. Chopin Allegro maestoso — Romanço, Larghetto — Rondo vivace.
Symphony in C major.....Schnbert Andante; Allegro ma non troppo—Andante con moto—Scherzo (allegro vivace)— Finale, (Allegro vivace).
Soloist. Fri. Adele Ans Der Ohe.

Three new faces were to be seen in the orchestra at this the last symphony concert of the season; they were the first clarinet, first oboe, and trumpet. It is unexpected, to say the least, that such a change should be made for the twenty-fourth concert, although something of the kind was surely needed. It would not be quite fair to give an opinion on the performances of these gentlemen at present, for it is too early to judge of their merit, and the programme did not offer them any very brilliant opportunities to make the most of their instruments. It is certain, at any rate, that they were not in the best of tune with the rest of the orchestra, but this defect will probably remedy itself in course of time.

The programme was nothing to be proud of. Some overture beside "Sakuntala" should have been chosen, or else some symphony other than that of Schnbert. The orchestration of "Sakuntala" completely killed that of the Chopin concerto and that of the symphony. The performance of the opening overture was good, without being remarkable. The more "Sakuntala" is heard, the less does it justify a permanent position on our concert programmes. It has certain sensuous qualities; many of its motifs are good, without being deep; it is well orchestrated and has a certain clie. But it does not wear well. It is superficial and lacks the depth necessary to keep a work interesting and to make it seem new every time we hear it.

An excellent reputation had preceded Miss Adele Ans Der Ohe, who played last Saturday evening for the first time before a Boston audience, and, in some things, she certainly sustained this reputation. Miss Ans Der Ohe sits at the piano as if she had perfect control of herself and of her instrument, and so she has; only she appears a little too much so; there is an ostentation in her display of a really very finished execution that may appeal to a certain class of people, but that is far from being artistic. Miss Ans Der Ohe's conception of the first concerto of Chopin was a thoroughly feminine one; in fact, the feminine element in it was exaggerated; many passages would end in a completely inaudible pianissimo, and others were too ratt throughout to be distinguished in a satisfactory manner. Per contra, some things were admirably, beautifully done, especially those things where this peculiar style could be made to appear to the best advantage. The best playing was done in part of the slow movement and in the last; the first movement suffered the most from the exaggeration of sentiment which we mention above, and from a too constant use of the pedal, and one that lacked sufficient discrimination. The success which the soloist achieved with the audience would have been flattering to any artist; the applause was hearty and general; again and again was the lady called out to bow her acknowledgments to an enthusiastic audience.

Technically, the Schubert symphony was well played, but that is not saying very much, for it does not make any great demands on an orchestra from a technical point of view; the faulty intonation of the wood-wind was unpleasantly prominent in the piece, and detracted much from its musical merit. Altogether, neither orchestra nor conductor succeeded in making the symphony interesting, a task which is not easy under any circumstances.

This concert closes the series of Symphony concerts for this season; the first concert of the next season will take place on Oct. 15, and the programme is not yet announced; but it is comparatively safe to say that it will be something like this:

1. Overture.
2. Solo.
3. Orchestral arrangement played by the strings alone.
4. Symphony.

Thomas's Popular Matinee.

THE following was the program for last Thursday afternoon's fourteenth Thomas Popular Matinee:

Overture—"Egmont".....Beethoven
 Allegretto Grazioso—Second symphony.....Brahms Concerto, No. 1, E minor.....Chopin
 Mme. Madeline Schiller.

Overture—"Hositzka".....Dvorak
 Bilder aus Osten (Pictures from the Orient).....Schumann (Orchestration by Carl Reinecke.)

Suite—"Scènes Pittoresques".....Massenet

This program, although containing absolutely nothing new, was well-selected and interesting. Owing to the extreme severity of the weather, many of the lady and young folks attendant at these matinees were absent on this occasion. Those, however, who had braved the cold were rewarded, if not with a warm reception, for the Academy had been insufficiently heated on Thursday afternoon, yet with a very perfect rendering of the orchestral selections on the program, notably so of Beethoven's immortal "Egmont" overture, of Dvorak's characteristic "Hositzka" overture and of the nicely-orchestrated Schumann "Pictures from the Orient," in B minor.

The soloist of this matinee, Mme. Madeline Schiller, cannot be congratulated on her performance of Chopin's beautiful E minor pianoforte concerto. She played coldly from beginning to the end; her phrasing was affected; her dynamic changes of the most extravagant kind, winding up usually with a pianissimo which nobody, probably not even the lady herself, could hear; she dragged the tempi most unmercifully, and generally speaking the performance, not aided by an over-careful accompaniment, was a rather poor and unsatisfactory one. Feb 1886

Waban Act 1886 Nov 21, 1874
 New York Philharmonic Society.

The Fifth Philharmonic Concert took place at the Academy of Music on Thursday evening, March 14th, before a very large audience, even the amphitheatre being densely crowded. The programme was both excellent and interesting. It was as follows:

PART I.

Symphony—No. 4, in C major, Opns 38, 'Jupiter'..Mozart
 1. Allegro Vivace. 3. Minuetto, Allegretto.
 2. Andante Cantabile. 4. Finale—Allegro molto.
 Scene—"Che farò senza Euridice."—Orfeo.....Gluck With orchestral accompaniment, Miss Antonia Henne.
 Romance and Rondo—For the Pianoforte, from the Concerto in E minor, Op. 11.....Chopin.
 Wit orchestral accompaniment, Mr. Emile Guyon.
 a. O Frage Nicht!.....Rubinstela
 b. Nachhall.....Rubinstein
 With piano accompaniment, Miss Antonia Henne.

PART II.

Symphony—No. 5, Lenore.....Raff

We do not think that the interpretation of the Jupiter Symphony was up to the standard of the Philharmonic Society. The three first movements were taken at too slow a tempo, so slow indeed, that they dragged, to the great detriment of the general effect. It rendered decided contrast impossible, and tended to mar whatever of delicate and artistic coloring that was vouchsafed in rendering. The last movement was taken in just tempo, and was most brilliantly and admirably played. Indeed, the execution of the whole Symphony was thoroughly good, the fault resting with the interpretation of the conductor, who we think did not fall in with the composer's intention.

Mr. Emile Guyon performed on a 8 way Grand Piano, of splendid power capacity, the andante and finale of Chopin's E minor concerto. Mr. Guyon has a nice touch and his execution is facile, brilliant to a certain extent, and well articulated, but it lacks brio and impulse; he is a good pianist, but is not up to what the Philharmonic standard should be. His reading of Chopin was very weak; he took the tempi too slow, and all the delicate fioriture embroidery, through which so much of the tender and exquisite imagination of the composer is revealed, was executed in such a square, matter-of-fact manner, that it lost nearly all of its peculiar significance. Mr. Guyon lacks individuality; he is an excellent and tasteful musician, and an accomplished pianist, but he is certainly not in a state of sufficient practice to make a favorable impression upon the public, coming as he does after such concert-pianists as have appeared in the concert-room for some time past. The public will draw comparisons, and an admirable player, not in full practice, will be judged by what he shows, and not by what he is, especially when he challenges comparison, by assuming the most prominent position that our city affords, namely, the Philharmonic Concerts.

Boston Music Hall.

SEASON 1886-87.

BOSTON SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA.

MR. WILHELM GERICKE, CONDUCTOR.

XXIV. CONCERT.

1887

SATURDAY, MARCH 26TH, AT 8, P. M.

PROGRAMME.

- CARL GOLDMARK. OVERTURE, (Sakuntala.)
- F. CHOPIN. CONCERTO for PIANOFORTE in E minor.
-

- FR. SCHUBERT. SYMPHONY in C major.
Andante; Allegro ma non troppo.—
Andante con moto.—Scherzo (allegro vivace).—
Finale, (Allegro vivace).
-

SOLOIST:

FRL. ADELE AUS DER OHE.

FIFTH PEABODY CONCERT, Saturday, February 3rd, 1877.

AMERICAN—ENGLISH.

GENERAL REHEARSAL to the fifth concert, Friday, February 2nd, at 3 o'clock.
3, 25 cents each, at the door.

PROGRAMME.

PART I.

Arcangelo Corelli 1653-1713. Chamber sonata B flat major. Work 2. No. 5.
Composed in Rome, 1685.

Preludio.
Allemanda.
Sarabanda.
Tempo di Gavotta.

Giov. da Palestrina 1524-1594. Ave Maria for female voices.
Composed in Rome, 1564.

STUDENTS OF THE CONSERVATORY.

L. Cherubini 1760-1842. Overture to the opera Elise.

V. Bellini 1802-1835. Recitative and cavatina from the opera Capuleti e Montecchi.
MRS. LIZZIE ANNANDALE.

PART II.

Fr. Chopin 1810-1849. Piano-concerto E minor. Work 11.

Allegro maestoso.
Romance, larghetto.
Rondo, vivace.

MADAME NANNETTE FALK-AUERBACH.

Fr. Schubert 1797-1828. Songs with piano.

The linden tree. Work 89
Death and the maiden. Work 7. No. 3.
The trout. Work 32.

MRS. LIZZIE ANNANDALE.

F. Mendelssohn Bartholdy 1809-1847. Italian symphony A major. No. 4. Work 90.

Allegro vivace.
Andante con moto.
Con moto moderato.
Saltarello, presto.

In New England.

10f1

The KNABE Piano has been the delight of the greatest artists e world for 50 years. Dr. Hans Von Bulow, the great pianist, "They are the best in America."

All intending purchasers should see and hear them before ing.

Beautiful Pianos to Rent, Grand and Upright Second-Hand Pianos at Great Bargains Symphonies For Sale and to Rent.

Call and hear the ANGELUS that enables you to study all the positions of the great masters, also the modern.

Oliver Ditson Company Piano W

Tuesday Evening, March 12, at 8.

Leipzig Phil. Ork.
Prometeus Temple

• • • Program • • • 1901

1. SYMPHONY No. 6 (Pathetique) Tsc ADAGIO. ALLEGRO NON TROPPO ALLEGRO CON GRAZIA ALLEGRO MOTTO VIVACE
ADAGIO. CEMENTOSO
2. CONCERTO FOR PIANOFORTE, E MINOR ALLEGRO MAESTOSO
ROMANCE—(LARGHETTO)
RONDO—(VIVACE)
Herr von Slivinski
3. OVERTURE No. 3. "LEONORE"
4. PRELUDE AND LIEBESTOD FROM "TRISTAN U. ISOLDE"
5. PEER GYNT SUITE

The resumption of the Crystal Palace Saturday Afternoon Concerts is one of the most cheering among the indications of coming winter. True, the wintry association is kept out of the title: the concerts make up the "autumn series" only. But as the succession of autumn extends to April, 1873, it may be doubted whether more comfort is not got out of the fact than the naming of these concerts. To the scheme of the coming season we have referred. It embraces Beethoven's nine Symphonies, which are to be given in chronological order; together with Mozart's small symphonie work in E flat, composed at Salzburg in 1775, when its author was only seventeen years old; and a symphony in B (MIS.) by Schubert, which last is understood to be an unknown work for small orchestra, now in the Vienna library. Other works will include Brahms's serenade in D, Schumann's "Paradise and the Peri," Bennett's "May Queen." Mozart's Concerto in B flat, written in 1791 for a performance in Vienna, will be introduced by Mme. Arabella Goddard, and Beethoven's posthumous Rondo in D flat is promised, and, also Rubinstein's Concerto in D minor.

On Saturday the first of these concerts took place, with the following program :

Overture (" Olympic ").....	Spontini.
Grand scena, " Ah, perfido! " Madame Sinico	Beethoven.
Symphony, No. 1 in C major, Madame Mangold	Beethoven.
Song, " My mother bids me, " Madame.....
Sinico	Haydn.
Pianoforte Solo, Romance and Rondo from the Concerto in E minor, Madame Mangold
Diehl	Chopin.
Air, des Bijoux (" Binet "), Madame Sinico.....	Gounod.
Festival Overture (MIS.) (first time).....	F. H. Cowen.

The first number—Spontini's overture—was not the most interesting specimen of the composer's work. Saving the andantino in F major in which an effect is got out of the sordini, it is dull and commonplace. Hardly indeed have any of Spontini's overtures and preludes much interest apart from the works to which they belong. He loved the pomp of theatrical surroundings—stage effect, dramatic pageantry; and for these he worked, as in similar fashion though with much broader results did Meyerbeer after him. Following the "Olympic" extract Mme. Sinico in singing "Ah perfido!" gained considerable applause, although the music was occasionally too high for her voice. Then came the piece de resistance of the day, No. 1 Symphony (in C) of Beethoven. It is hardly necessary to say that the execution of the four movements of which it is composed was all that could be desired. From the opening discord, characteristic of Beethoven, to the beautiful minuet and trio the playing was admirable, and the attention close. The romance and rondo from Chopin's Concerto in E minor is as welcome in its way as Beethoven's symphony; and its execution was, if anything, still more charming. The pianoforte part was played by Mme. Mangold Diehl, whose very praiseworthy efforts were well seconded by the orchestra both in the poetic "Larghetto" and the varied and dashing rondo. The success of these extracts are sufficient to warrant the introduction of Chopin's entire concerto into some future program. The remaining instrumental piece of the concert was Mr. F. H. Cowen's "Festival Overture," composed for the recent music meeting at Norwich—a composition distinguished more by technical knowledge than by attractive merits. Originality is certainly not its strong point. The vocal selection as originally laid out, had to be varied in consequence of the sudden hoarseness of Signor Gustavo Garcia. Mme. Sinico stepped into his place and gave the two songs quoted above. On taking up his Premier concerto, op. 11, mi mineur, dédié à Kalkbrenner. — A l'opinion que je lui avais exprimée, « que Kalkbrenner ne devait pas y avoir compris grand'chose », Chopin répondit : « C'était à mes debuts à Paris. Kalkbrenner régnait alors, il fallait bien » lui faire un peu la cour. » L'œuvre est taillée sur le patron classique du concerto en trois parties (allegro maestoso 3/4, mi mineur; largetto (romance) quatre temps, mi majeur; rondo 2 1/4, mi majeur.) Il n'y a, dans tout le répertoire de la musique de concert, rien à comparer au premier morceau, pour la grâce avec laquelle l'instrument traduit la pensée, pour la puissance de l'effet, pour l'élan dramatique, pour l'intérêt des idées. Tout se rapporte au piano et à ses moyens d'action; rien ne repose sur l'idée symphonique. Nous ne connaissons aucune cantilène confiée au piano qui égale en charme le deuxième thème, en mi majeur. Là, Chopin est le Bellini du clavier; de plus, ce motif est harmonisé avec un goût parfait. Le premier thème mi mineur a un caractère viril; le second est, pourrait-on dire, plus féminin; l'expression en est passionnée, et peut se rapporter au style de la musique dramatique italienne, mais dans le meilleur sens du mot.

Le pianiste doit être premier ténor, premier soprano, mais toujours chanteur, et chanteur de bravoure dans les traits. Chopin voulait qu'on s'efforçât d'exécuter tous les traits dans un style cantabile; c'est ainsi qu'il exerçait Filsch, son élève bien-aimé, à rendre tout ce premier morceau. Lui-même ne jouait plus le concerto à cette époque (1842); il avait déjà alors renoncé à se faire entendre en public. Il nous a joué les thèmes d'une manière admirable, et nous a donné de précieuses indications pour les traits. Il conseillait d'obtenir le cantabile dans ces passages en observant une certaine mesure, une certaine retenue dans la grande sonorité et dans la bravoure, en cherchant à donner une signification au moindre fragment de motif, à obtenir une grande délicatesse de touche, même dans les traits qui ne sont que des traits, ce qui est l'exception dans ce concerto. Il n'était jamais question du second ni du troisième morceau: le premier est un chef-d'œuvre à lui seul, et se suffit; le second est un nocturne fatigant, le troisième un rondo de Hummel. Il est à regretter que les grands pianistes ne fassent entendre plus souvent ce magnifique « allegro maestoso » comme un concerto complet, formant un tout et se passant parfaitement d'un complètement quelconque.

Quelques particularités encore sur ce concerto. Filsch étudiait chaque solo séparément; Chopin ne lui laissait pas jouer le tout en une fois, il en eût reçu une impression trop vive pour sa délicate nature. Un jour, Filsch exécuta le second solo, dans lequel le motif revient en ut majeur et où le développement se complète, puis le trait a tempo, avec une telle finesse de nuances et une si ravissante expression que Chopin lui dit: « C'est bien, mon garçon, tu as parfaitement joué cela, j'essaierai moi-même usual position, Mr. Manns received the usual friendly recognition. Ten more concerts are to take place before Christmas; and the remaining fourteen of the series will be given from January 18 to April 19. To-morrow the program will include Spohr's symphony, Die Weihe der Töne.

Joseffy concert. And it well deserved a large audience, for not only was the pianist to have orchestral assistance and perform the higher composition of his instrument, but he was to give three of the largest form (the concerto) an achievement might tax even the highest technique to the limit. The arduous task was so excellently filled that the audience could follow the music without thinking of the pianist's lean labor. In the E-minor concerto of Chopin, Mr. Joseffy is inappreciable. He is so thorough in his fortitude, and takes such delight in details of embellishments, that he fits the Chopin school to a glove. The orchestra was timid in attack in the first movement, and the strings were sometimes hindered by the rapid execution of the pianist, but was less of this dissension than at any previous performance of the virtuoso, who seems to be in perfect command. In tempo, and pays more attention to ensemble than formerly. The last two movements of this work were superbly given, both in the piano part, and (save for a slip in the woodwind in the Romance) in the orchestra. The Mozart concerto did not appeal very much to the audience. Piano playing has undergone a great change since it was composed, and it is not surprising that the breadth that keeps the Beethoven concerto imperishable. We did not greatly admire the cadenza which Mr. Joseffy added to the work, which seemed a sort of incongruous sandwich,—a slight variation of the Mozart theme between two very thick slices of Joseffy. The Allegro Assai, which closed this work, was full of verve and dash. But the most fiery work of the concert was one in which the pianist demonstrated that he was progressing in musical breadth and power, was the G-minor concerto of Saint-Saens. The last movement of the first movement was, after the manner of the quiet vein of Mozart, doubly effective. The "snaps" of the Allegro Scherzando were electric in their rapidity and brightness, although the flute was to give the imitations with clearness. The pianist, as if to show that the pianist was not exhausted by his immensely forcible, and the terrific bravura part, at the close, proved that the pianist is not content with his finger action for effects, but has a well-developed elbow and wrist action. Taken altogether, this concert has shown Joseffy to better advantage than ever before. It was an occasion which is memorable in this exceptional musical season among the numerous piano concerts we have heard in Boston. We must not fail to notice the excellent work of the trombones and cornet in the Meyerbeer's Fackelzug. We have never heard the brass instruments do such faultless work. Mr. Zerrahn's leading part deserves great praise, for the concert was especially difficult for the conductor.

Romanzã & Rada Julia Ruv. Km. mit Harauis Feb 27. 1879
Joseph. Publ. Verh. Meh 11. 1880

GRAND CONCERTO (MI-MINEUR) pour Pianoforte AVEC Accompagnement d'Orchestre PAR FRÉD. CHOPIN.

OP. 11. FR. M. 12, ... netto.

PARTITION.

PROPRIÉTÉ DE L'ÉDITEUR.
ENREGISTRÉ AUX ARCHIVES DE L'UNION.

LEIPZIG, FR. KISTNER.
(Médaille d'Or de l'Empereur d'Autriche.)

4528.

every movement duly applauded. At the same concert M^{me} Annette Essipoff gave a striking example of her proficiency in the music of Chopin, substituting, however, for the promised concerto in F (No 2), the andante and finale from the one in E minor and major (No 1). About the first of these movements Chopin himself writes,—"It is conceived in a romantic, quiet, half-melancholy spirit, so as to give the impression of the eye resting on some much admired landscape. . . . I have made the violins play 'con sordini' (muted). Will that have a good effect? Time must show." (Moritz Karakowski's Life, Letters, and Works.) Time has shown that the effect is good, more especially when the pianoforte part comes from such delicately sensitive fingers as those of M^{me} Essipoff, swayed, too, by a mind in all respects congenial. Later in the evening the accomplished Russian pianist gave a nocturne, étude, and mazaruka from the same source, in each, not for the first time, establishing her right to be regarded as a genuine disciple of the greatly extolled Polish "virtuoso."

Time Record

The Concerto in E minor, Op. 11 (Vol. I., p. 155 Messrs. Augener and Co.'s edition), dedicated to Mr. Friedrich Kalkbrenner, shows more of volonté and less of inspirati than the one in F minor. One can almost read in it the words of the composer, "If I have only the allegro and the adagio completely finished, I shall be in no anxiety about the finale." The elongated form of the first movement—the introductory tutti alone extends to 138 bars—compares disadvantageously with the greater compactness

Ms. 246. 46
Allen a. Brown
Aug 24, 1894

Philharmonic Society of Boston Music Hall

FIFTH CONCERT.

Thursday Evening, May 5, 1881.

REQUEST PROGRAMME.

PART I.

1. OVERTURE to "The Meistersinger" WAGNER.
2. { a. ROMANCE } (from Concerto in E minor) CHOPIN.
 { b. RONDO }

MR. CARLYLE PETERSILEA.

3. SCOTCH SYMPHONY MENDELSSOHN.

- a. Andante con moto — Allegro un poco agitato.
b. Andante come primo — Vivace non troppo.
c. Adagio.
d. Allegro vivacissimo — Allegro maestoso.

PART II.

4. OVERTURE to "As You Like It" JOHN KNOWLES PAINE.
5. DANSE MACABRE SAINT-SAËNS.
6. OVERTURE to "William Tell" ROSSINI.

In considering these concertos one cannot help exclaiming, What a pity that Chopin should have set so many beautiful thoughts and fancies in such a frame and thereby marred them! They contain passages which are not surpassed in any of his most perfect compositions, yet among them these concertos cannot be reckoned. It is difficult to class them among concerto literature. The loveliness, brilliancy, and piquancy of the details bribe us to overlook, and by dazzling us even prevent us from seeing, the formal shortcomings of the whole. But be their shortcomings ever so great and many, who would dispense with these works? Therefore, let us be thankful, and enjoy them without much grumbling.

Almost all my remarks on the concertos run counter to those made by W. v. Lenz. The F minor concerto he holds to be an uninteresting work, immature and fragmentary in plan, and, excepting some delicate ornamentation, without originality. Nay, he goes even so far as to say that the passage-work is of the usual kind met with in the compositions of Hummel and his successors, and that the antifona in the largetto is in the jejune style of Hummel; the last movement also receives but scanty and qualified praise. On the other hand, he raves about the E minor concerto, confining himself, however, to the first movement. The second movement he calls a "tiresome nocturne," the rondo "a Hummel." A tincture of classical soberness and self-possession in the first movement explains Lenz's admiration of this composition, but I fail to understand the rest of his predilections and critical utterances.

Rondeau, Op. 16, in E flat major; dedicated to Mlle. Carone Hartmann. The spirit, the form, and certain technical peculiarities of this piece, seem to me to warrant the supposition that it belongs to a time previous to Chopin's arrival in Paris, which took place in the autumn of 1831. It is always hazardous to judge works of art from internal evidence; with Chopin it is particularly difficult, seeing that a strange medley of unequal compositions he wrote—for instance, in the years 1829 and 1830. Careless play and serene idyllic scenes, such as we find not unfrequently in his earlier works, and in the principal subject of this rondo, disappear in the later ones, where the nimble skips and twirls, if at all employed, assume a more important aspect and do more serious business. The rondo form is not very exacting as to unity of character and design, yet would appear to have been too much so for Chopin. By process of adding one thing to another, and by repeating some of these things, the composer obtains in the end a work of considerable length. Look at the mosaic which follows the song-like, popular rather than aristocratic, E flat major subject (page 282, &c., of Messrs. Augener and Co.'s edition). But I must not begin at the end, nor in the middle either. The rondo is preceded by an introduction, one might say, in stilo drammatico; it opens with a pathetic strain, then comes a recitativo a tempo in which the composer collects electricity, and forthwith it begins to thunder in a più mosso; we may assume that in the meno mosso the clouds disperse and the sun reappears, after which the games may begin (rondo). But let it not be supposed that all is lightsome play; there are also passages of deeper import (page 278, bar 17, &c.). Moreover, though the rondo does not on the whole edify me, I admit that it is not wanting in esprit, and contains much that is brilliant, pretty, &c. &c. By-the-by, how much may Paganini have influenced Chopin?

Variations brillantes sur le Rondeau favori, "Je vends mes Scapulaires," de Ludovic de Hérold et Halévy, Op. 12, E flat major; dedicated to Mlle. Emma Harsford. In 1834 Halévy completed the opera Ludovic, which Hérold, who died on Jan. 19, 1833, had left unfinished. This enables us to determine approximately the time when the of the corresponding movement in the F minor concerto, and makes still more sensible the monotony resulting from the key relation of the constituent parts, the tonic being the same in both subjects. The scheme is this:—First subject in E minor, second subject in E major, working-out section in C major, and leading through various keys to the return of the first subject in E minor and second subject in G major, after which follows a close in E minor. The tonic is not relieved till the commencement of the working-out section. The re-entrance of the second subject brings at last something of a contrast. How little Chopin understood the importance or the handling of those powerful levers, key-relation and contrast, may also be observed in the sonata Op. 4, where the last movement brings the first subject in C minor, and the second in G minor. Here the composer preserves the same mode (minor), there the same tonic, the result being nearly the same in both instances. But, it may be asked, was not this languid monotony which results from the employment of these means just what Chopin intended? The only reply that can be made to this otherwise unanswerable objection is, so much the worse for the artist's art if he had such intentions. Chopin's description of the adagio quoted above—remember the beloved landscape, the beautiful memories, the moonlit spring night, and the muted violins—hits off its character admirably. Although Chopin himself designates the first allegro as "vigorous"—which in some passages, at least from the composer's stand-point, we may admit it to be—the fundamental mood of this movement is one closely allied to that which he says is to be expressed in the adagio. Look at the first movement, and judge whether there are not in it more pale moonlight reveries than fresh morning thoughts. Indeed the latter, if not wholly absent, are confined to the introductory bars of the first subject, and some passage-work. Still the movement is certainly not without beauty, although the themes appear somewhat bloodless, and the passages are less brilliant and piquant than those in the F minor concerto. Exquisite softness and tenderness distinguish the melodious parts, and Chopin's peculiar coaxing tone is heard in the semiquaver passage marked tranquillo (Vol. I., p. 159, of Messrs. Augener and Co.'s edition) of the first subject. The least palatable portion of the movement is the working-out section. The pianoforte part therein reminds one too much of a study, without having the beauty of Chopin's compositions thus entitled; and the orchestra amuses itself meanwhile with reminiscences of the principal motives. Chopin's procedure in this and similar cases is pretty much the same (F minor concerto, Krakowiak, &c.), and recalls to my mind—may the manes of the composer forgive me—a malicious remark of Rellstab's. Speaking of the introduction to the variations, Op. 2, he says: "The composer pretends to be going to work out the theme." It is curious, and sad at the same time, to behold with what distinction Chopin treats the bassoon, and how he is repaid with mocking ingratitude. But enough of the orchestral rabble. The adagio is very fine in its way, but such is its cloying sweetness that one longs for something bracing and active. This desire the composer satisfies only partially in the last movement (rondo-vivace, $\frac{3}{4}$, E major). Nevertheless he succeeds in putting us in good humour by his gaiety, pretty ways, and tricky surprises (for instance, the modulations from E major to E flat major, and back again to E major, p. 197, bars 1—9). We seem, however, rather to look on the play of fantocchini than the doings of men; in short, we feel here what we have felt more or less strongly throughout the whole work—there is less intensity of life, and consequently less of human interest, in this than in the F minor concerto.

CONCERTO.

F. Chopin Op. 11.

Allegro maestoso. M.M. ♩ = 126.

Risoluto

Flauti.

Oboi.

Clarineti in C.

Fagotti.

Corni I & II in E.

Corni III & IV in C.

Clarini in C.

Trombone.

Timpani in H. C. E.

Pianoforte.

Violino I.

Violino II.

Viola.

Violoncello.

Basso.

Allegro maestoso.

This page of musical notation consists of 14 staves. The top two staves are treble clefs, and the bottom two are bass clefs, forming a grand staff. The remaining ten staves are individual parts. The notation includes various musical symbols such as notes, rests, and dynamic markings like 'f', 'p', 'cresc.', and 'tr'. The staves are arranged in a system with a grand staff at the bottom.

This page of musical notation consists of 14 staves. The notation is complex, featuring various dynamics and articulations. The dynamics include f (forte), p (piano), and cresc. (crescendo). The notation includes a variety of rhythmic values, including eighth and sixteenth notes, and rests. The music is written in a key signature of one sharp (F#) and a time signature of 4/4. The notation is arranged in a traditional score format, with the piano part on the left and the violin part on the right. The page is numbered 5 in the top right corner.

dim. p

dim. p

p legato p espress.

p

tr p tr p

p

p

A musical score for piano, consisting of 14 staves. The top seven staves are for the right hand, and the bottom seven are for the left hand. The key signature is one sharp (F#) and the time signature is 4/4. The score begins with a series of rests for the first four measures. In the fifth measure, the right hand begins with a piano (p) dynamic and a cresc. marking. The left hand enters in the fifth measure with a piano (p) dynamic and a cresc. marking. The music continues with various rhythmic patterns, including eighth and sixteenth notes, and rests. The cresc. marking is repeated in several measures throughout the piece. The score concludes with a final chord in the 14th measure.

This page of musical notation consists of 14 staves. The top two staves are in treble clef, and the bottom two are in bass clef. The remaining ten staves are grouped by a brace on the left, indicating they are part of a single instrument's part, likely a piano. The notation includes various rhythmic values, accidentals, and dynamic markings such as f (forte) and ff (fortissimo). The music is written in a key with one sharp (F#) and a 2/4 time signature. The piece concludes with a double bar line and repeat dots at the end of the final staff.

This musical score page contains ten staves of music. The top two staves are vocal lines in treble clef, with the upper staff featuring a melodic line and the lower staff providing harmonic support. The middle two staves are piano accompaniment in treble clef, with the upper staff playing chords and the lower staff playing a rhythmic accompaniment. The bottom four staves are piano accompaniment in bass clef, with the upper two staves playing chords and the lower two staves playing a rhythmic accompaniment. The score includes various musical notations such as notes, rests, and accidentals. Dynamics are indicated by p, f, pp, and ff. Performance instructions include dolce and p. The score is divided into measures by vertical bar lines.

Musical score for piano and voice, page 10. The score is written in G major (one sharp) and 4/4 time. It features a piano accompaniment and a vocal line. The piano part includes a prominent bass line with a p (piano) dynamic marking. The vocal line is marked cantabile and legato, with a p dynamic marking. The score is divided into two systems by a double bar line. The first system contains the first four staves, and the second system contains the remaining six staves. The piano part is written in the bass clef, and the vocal part is written in the treble clef. The score includes various musical notations such as notes, rests, and dynamic markings.

p

cantabile p legato

p legato

p sempre legato

p

The image shows a page of musical notation, likely a score for a piano accompaniment. The page is numbered 11 in the top right corner. The notation is arranged in 12 staves, organized into two systems of six staves each. The top system (staves 1-6) is mostly empty, with only a few notes appearing in the fifth staff of the system. The bottom system (staves 7-12) contains the main musical notation. The key signature is three sharps (F#, C#, G#). The notation includes various rhythmic patterns, such as eighth and sixteenth notes, and rests. There are also dynamic markings, including a piano (p) marking. The notation is written in a standard musical notation style, with treble and bass clefs.

musical score for a piano piece, page 12. The score consists of 12 staves. The top two staves are for the right hand, and the bottom two are for the left hand. The middle six staves are for the piano accompaniment. The key signature is D major (two sharps) and the time signature is 2/4. The score features various musical notations including slurs, accents, and dynamic markings such as "pizz." and "sempre legato".

Musical score for a string quartet, page 13. The score is in G major and 3/4 time. It features four staves: Violin I, Violin II, Viola, and Cello/Double Bass. The music includes various dynamics such as piano (p) and crescendo (cresc.), and articulation markings like arco and pizz. The score shows a gradual increase in volume and intensity throughout the page.

Dynamics and articulation markings include: cresc., p, arco, pizz., sempre legato, and p cresc.

Musical score for piano and orchestra, page 14. The score consists of 14 staves. The top two staves are for the piano, and the bottom two are for the bassoon. The middle staves are for the orchestra. The score is in 2/4 time and features a dynamic progression from f to ff with cresc. and ff con forza markings.

The score is divided into two systems. The first system (staves 1-8) shows the piano part (staves 1-2) and the bassoon part (staves 7-8). The piano part begins with a f dynamic and a cresc. marking, leading to a ff con forza section. The bassoon part also begins with a f dynamic and a cresc. marking, leading to a ff section. The orchestra part (staves 3-6) begins with a f dynamic and a cresc. marking, leading to a ff section.

The second system (staves 9-14) shows the piano part (staves 9-10) and the bassoon part (staves 13-14). The piano part begins with a f dynamic and a cresc. marking, leading to a ff con forza section. The bassoon part also begins with a f dynamic and a cresc. marking, leading to a ff section. The orchestra part (staves 11-12) begins with a f dynamic and a cresc. marking, leading to a ff section.

Musical score for piano, page 15. The score is in G major and 3/4 time. It features a complex texture with multiple staves. The first system includes a piano introduction with a cresc. marking. The second system begins with a forte (ff) dynamic. The third system has another cresc. marking. The score concludes with a final forte (ff) dynamic. The notation includes various rhythmic patterns, including sixteenth and thirty-second notes, and rests.

This page of musical notation consists of 14 staves. The first two staves are for the right hand, and the remaining 12 staves are for the left hand. The music is written in a key signature of one sharp (F#) and a 3/4 time signature. The notation includes various dynamics such as fz, ff, p, dim., and sp dim.. There are also articulation marks like accents and slurs. The piece concludes with a double bar line and repeat dots.

This page of musical notation consists of ten staves. The first six staves are grouped together, and the last four are grouped together. The notation includes various dynamics such as fz, p, dim., pp, fp, ppp, legatiss., and cresc.. The music is written in a key with one sharp (F#) and a 2/4 time signature. The notation includes chords, single notes, and melodic lines with slurs and accents.

Dynamics and markings include:

- fz* (forzando)
- p* (piano)
- dim.* (diminuendo)
- pp* (pianissimo)
- ppp* (pianissimissimo)
- fp* (forzando piano)
- legatiss.* (legatissimo)
- cresc.* (crescendo)

The notation is arranged in two systems of five staves each. The first system includes staves 1 through 5, and the second system includes staves 6 through 10. The music is written in a key with one sharp (F#) and a 2/4 time signature.

A musical score for piano, page 18, featuring a grand staff with five systems. The first system contains five staves: a single treble clef staff with a melodic line starting on a half note G4 and moving to a quarter note A4, marked p; two empty staves; and two empty bass clef staves. The second system contains five staves: the first staff is empty; the second staff is empty; the third staff is empty; the fourth staff has a melodic line starting on a half note G3 and moving to a quarter note A3, marked p; and the fifth staff is empty. The third system contains five staves, all of which are empty. The fourth system contains five staves: the first staff has a melodic line starting on a half note G4 and moving to a quarter note A4, marked p; the second staff has a melodic line starting on a half note G4 and moving to a quarter note A4, marked pp; the third staff has a melodic line starting on a half note G4 and moving to a quarter note A4, marked pp; the fourth staff has a melodic line starting on a half note G4 and moving to a quarter note A4, marked p; and the fifth staff has a melodic line starting on a half note G4 and moving to a quarter note A4, marked pp. The fifth system contains five staves: the first staff has a melodic line starting on a half note G4 and moving to a quarter note A4, marked p; the second staff has a melodic line starting on a half note G4 and moving to a quarter note A4, marked pp; the third staff has a melodic line starting on a half note G4 and moving to a quarter note A4, marked pp; the fourth staff has a melodic line starting on a half note G4 and moving to a quarter note A4, marked p; and the fifth staff has a melodic line starting on a half note G4 and moving to a quarter note A4, marked pp.

Pianoforte.

The first system of the score consists of five staves. The top two staves are for piano, with the right hand starting a melodic line marked ff and 5. The bottom three staves are for vocal parts, with the soprano line marked smorz. and the piano accompaniment marked f pizz. and Ped. with an asterisk. The system concludes with a fermata over the vocal line.

The second system features piano accompaniment across five staves. The right hand has a rhythmic pattern of eighth notes, while the left hand provides harmonic support. The system ends with a fermata over the right hand.

The third system continues the piano accompaniment with five staves. It includes a Ped. marking with an asterisk and a fermata over the right hand.

The fourth system consists of five staves, primarily for piano accompaniment. The vocal lines are mostly silent, with some sparse notes in the soprano and alto parts.

Violin part: espress.

Piano part: p, arco, ped., pizz.

This system contains the first system of music. The violin part begins with a series of sixteenth-note runs, marked espress. The piano accompaniment features chords in the right hand and a melodic line in the left hand, marked p. The left hand includes arco and pizz. markings. A ped. marking is present in the second measure. An asterisk is located at the end of the system.

Cl. part: legatiss., p

Piano part: ped., pizz., arco

This system contains the second system of music. The clarinet part has a long, flowing line marked legatiss. and p. The piano accompaniment continues with chords and a melodic line, marked pizz. and arco. A ped. marking is present in the second measure. An asterisk is located at the end of the system.

pp

stretto

Ped.

arco

pizz.

arco

pizz.

Musical score for piano, featuring a complex rhythmic passage. The score includes a treble clef staff with a trill (tr) and an octave (8) marking, and a bass clef staff with a Ped. marking. The passage is marked risoluto and staccato. The score is written in a key signature of one sharp (F#) and a 2/4 time signature.

Cor. I.

Musical score for Cor. I, featuring a dynamic range from con forza to p. The score includes a treble clef staff with a tranquillo marking and a p marking, and a bass clef staff with a con forza marking and a pizz. marking. The passage is marked sempre p e legato. The score is written in a key signature of one sharp (F#) and a 2/4 time signature.

Musical score for the first system. The piano part (left) features a complex rhythmic pattern with sixteenth notes and slurs, marked with "Ped." and asterisks. The violin part (right) is marked poco agitato and features a melodic line with slurs. The system includes a grand staff with treble and bass clefs, and a violin staff.

Musical score for the second system. The piano part (left) features a melodic line with slurs, marked with "Ped." and an asterisk. The violin part (right) features a melodic line with slurs, marked with dim. and p. The system includes a grand staff with treble and bass clefs, and a violin staff.

This musical score is arranged in two systems. The first system consists of six staves: a vocal line at the top, followed by a piano accompaniment section with two treble and two bass staves. The second system also consists of six staves, with the vocal line and piano accompaniment. The piano part features a complex texture with sixteenth-note runs in the right hand and sustained chords in the left hand. Performance markings include 'cresc.' (crescendo), 'Ped.' (pedal), and a first ending bracket labeled '1'. The key signature is one sharp (F#) and the time signature is 4/4.

The first system of the musical score consists of five staves. The top staff is a grand staff (treble and bass clefs) with a complex, rapid melodic line in the treble clef, marked with a forte f dynamic. The bass clef part of the grand staff provides harmonic support with chords and some melodic fragments. Below the grand staff are three individual staves: two treble clefs and one bass clef. These staves contain more melodic and harmonic material, including some rests and dynamic markings like mp (mezzo-piano).

The second system of the musical score also consists of five staves. The top staff continues the complex melodic line from the first system, marked with a forte f dynamic. The lower staves (two treble clefs and one bass clef) continue the harmonic and melodic development, featuring various note values and rests. The system concludes with a final measure in the top staff.

Fl.

Ob.

Cl.

Fag.

Cor. III & IV.

Timp.

8

pp

f con fuoco

f

Ped.

f

arco

f

This musical score is arranged in two systems. The first system consists of six staves: three vocal staves (Soprano, Alto, and Tenor) and three piano accompaniment staves (Right Hand, Middle Bass, and Left Hand). The vocal parts feature melodic lines with various note values and rests, while the piano accompaniment provides harmonic support with chords and moving lines. The second system also consists of six staves, with the vocal parts continuing their melodic lines and the piano accompaniment featuring more complex textures, including sixteenth-note passages in the right hand and sustained chords in the left hand. Pedal markings are present in the piano accompaniment staves of the second system, with the word "Ped." written below the notes. The score is written in a key signature of one sharp (F#) and a common time signature (C).

Cor.

Musical score for Cor. (Cornet) and piano accompaniment. The score is divided into two systems.

First System:

- Cor. Part: Starts with a rest, then enters with a melodic line. A cresc. (crescendo) marking is present. A Ped. (pedal) marking is indicated with an asterisk (*).
- Piano Accompaniment: Features a ff (fortissimo) dynamic. The right hand has a complex rhythmic pattern, and the left hand has a steady bass line.

Second System:

- Cor. Part: Continues with a melodic line. A dimin. (diminuendo) marking is present. A Ped. (pedal) marking is indicated with an asterisk (*).
- Piano Accompaniment: Features a dim. (diminuendo) marking. The right hand has a melodic line, and the left hand has a steady bass line.

Musical score for the first system, featuring a piano with a melodic line and accompaniment. The score is written for five staves: Treble Clef (Right Hand), Bass Clef (Left Hand), Treble Clef (Right Hand), Bass Clef (Left Hand), and Bass Clef (Left Hand). The key signature is one sharp (F#). The first staff (Right Hand) contains a melodic line with a crescendo (cresc.) and a pedal point (Ped. con forza) starting at measure 4. The second staff (Left Hand) contains a bass line with a piano (p) dynamic. The third and fourth staves (Right Hand and Left Hand) contain a bass line with a piano (p) dynamic. The fifth staff (Left Hand) contains a bass line with a piano (p) dynamic.

Musical score for the second system, featuring a piano with a melodic line and accompaniment. The score is written for five staves: Treble Clef (Right Hand), Bass Clef (Left Hand), Treble Clef (Right Hand), Bass Clef (Left Hand), and Bass Clef (Left Hand). The key signature is one sharp (F#). The first staff (Right Hand) contains a melodic line with an appassionato marking, a p dolce dynamic, and a legato marking. The second staff (Left Hand) contains a bass line with a p dolce dynamic. The third and fourth staves (Right Hand and Left Hand) contain a bass line with a pp dynamic. The fifth staff (Left Hand) contains a bass line with a pp dynamic. Pedal markings (Ped.) are present in measures 3, 4, and 5, with asterisks (*) indicating specific pedal points.

Cor. I.

p

Ped. * Ped. * Ped. *

p

Cello

p dolce

Ped. *

p

Musical score for the first system. The top staff is a single melodic line. The bottom four staves are a piano accompaniment. The key signature has two sharps (F# and C#). The piano part features a rhythmic pattern of eighth notes. The word "pizz." (pizzicato) is written above the piano part in the second, third, fourth, and fifth measures. The dynamic marking "p" (piano) is present at the beginning of the piano part.

Musical score for the second system. The top staff is a single melodic line. The bottom four staves are a piano accompaniment. The key signature has two sharps (F# and C#). The piano part features a rhythmic pattern of eighth notes. The word "arco" is written above the piano part in the first, second, third, and fourth measures. The word "con anima" is written above the melodic line in the fifth measure. The word "cresc." (crescendo) is written below the piano part in the fifth measure. The word "Ped." (pedal) is written below the piano part in the sixth measure. The dynamic marking "p" (piano) is present at the beginning of the piano part.

Musical score for the first system, featuring piano and bass staves. The piano part includes dynamic markings fz, con forza appassionato, stretto, f, and p. The bass part includes dynamic markings p and p. Pedal markings (Ped.) are present in the piano part.

Musical score for the second system, continuing the piano and bass staves. The piano part includes dynamic markings f, p, fz, legatiss., stretto, and fz. The bass part includes dynamic markings p and p. Pedal markings (Ped.) are present in the piano part.

Cl.
Fag.
Cor. I.

p f agitato

pp

ritenuto

stretto ritenuto

cresc. f

riten.

riten.

riten.

riten.

rit-nullo

4528

a tempo leggierissimo

8

f

poco

Ped.

a tempo

pizz.

pizz.

pizz.

pizz.

a tempo

8 cresc.

riten.

arco

riten.

arco

riten.

arco

riten.

arco

riten.

riten.

a tempo
risoluto

sf sempre cresc.

First system of music. Piano part (left) starts with fz and cresc. markings. Violin part (right) starts with sf and sempre cresc. markings. Pedal markings *Ped. are present under both parts.

a tempo

pizz.

f
Ped.*

Second system of music. Piano part (left) features pizz. markings. Violin part (right) features f and *Ped. markings. The piano part includes multiple staves.

a tempo

Cor. I & II.

Third system of music. Horn parts (top) start with p. Piano accompaniment (bottom) starts with p delicatissimo and includes cresc. markings. Pedal markings *Ped. are present.

Fourth system of music. Piano part (left) features p and pizz. markings. Violin part (right) features arco markings. The piano part includes multiple staves.

Fag. I.

Cor.

p legato

p

Fl. I.

Clar.

Fag. I.

p dolce

ben marcato

Ped. *

cresc.

f

f

f

f

arco

p

f

f

f

f

f

Musical score for the first system. The top two staves show a piano accompaniment with a crescendo marked cresc. and a dynamic marking of f. The bottom two staves show a horn part with a dynamic marking of p and a pizz. instruction. The score includes various musical notations such as notes, rests, and dynamic markings.

Musical score for the second system. The top staff is labeled Cor. p and features a horn part with arco and pizz. markings. The bottom staves show a piano accompaniment with arco and pizz. markings. The score includes various musical notations such as notes, rests, and dynamic markings.

Cor.

Cor.

Fag.

p

The first system of the score features the Cor and Fag. parts. The Cor part is in the treble clef, and the Fag. part is in the bass clef. The Fag. part has a dynamic marking of p and a breath mark (x) in the fourth measure. The piano accompaniment consists of two systems, each with a treble and bass staff. The piano part features a complex rhythmic pattern in the bass line, with many beamed sixteenth notes.

Cl.

Cl.

Fag.

p

Red.

*

arco

The second system of the score features the Cl. and Fag. parts. The Cl. part is in the treble clef, and the Fag. part is in the bass clef. The Cl. part has a dynamic marking of p and a breath mark (x) in the fourth measure. The piano accompaniment consists of two systems, each with a treble and bass staff. The piano part features a complex rhythmic pattern in the bass line, with many beamed sixteenth notes. The word "arco" is written below the piano part in the fourth measure.

This system contains the first two systems of a musical score. The top system includes a piano staff with a complex melodic line and a bass staff with chords and a walking bass line. Pedal markings ('Ped. *') are present in the first two measures. Dynamics include fz and sempre più cresc.. The second system features a piano staff with a melodic line and a bass staff with chords. The bass staff includes markings for pizz. and arco.

This system contains the third and fourth systems of the musical score. The top system features a piano staff with a complex melodic line and a bass staff with chords and a walking bass line. An 8 marking is present above the piano staff in the first two measures. Dynamics include fz. The second system features a piano staff with a melodic line and a bass staff with chords. The bass staff includes a pizz. marking.

Musical score for the first system. The top staff is a vocal line with lyrics: cresc. sempre più. The bottom staff is a piano accompaniment with a complex rhythmic pattern. The key signature is two sharps (F# and C#), and the time signature is 4/4. The score is divided into three measures.

Cor. I.

Musical score for the second system, labeled "Cor. I.". The top staff is a Cor. I part with a complex rhythmic pattern. The bottom staff is a piano accompaniment with a complex rhythmic pattern. The key signature is two sharps (F# and C#), and the time signature is 4/4. The score is divided into three measures.

Dynamics and markings: cresc., 8, tr, ff, ben marcato.

Musical score for the first system, measures 1-8. The score is written for five staves. The first staff is in treble clef with a key signature of two sharps. The second and third staves are also in treble clef with a key signature of two sharps. The fourth and fifth staves are in bass clef with a key signature of two sharps. The music is marked with dynamics such as p (piano) and ff (fortissimo).

Musical score for the second system, measures 9-16. The score is written for two staves. The first staff is in treble clef with a key signature of two sharps. The second staff is in bass clef with a key signature of two sharps. The music is marked with dynamics such as f (forte) and cresc. (crescendo).

Musical score for the third system, measures 17-24. The score is written for five staves. The first staff is in treble clef with a key signature of two sharps. The second and third staves are also in treble clef with a key signature of two sharps. The fourth and fifth staves are in bass clef with a key signature of two sharps. The music is marked with dynamics such as p (piano), cresc. (crescendo), and ff (fortissimo).

This page of musical notation, numbered 42, features a complex arrangement of staves. The top system includes four vocal staves (Soprano, Alto, Tenor, Bass) and two piano accompaniment staves. The bottom system includes two vocal staves (Soprano, Alto) and two piano accompaniment staves. The music is written in a key signature of two sharps (F# and C#) and a 2/4 time signature. The score includes various musical notations such as notes, rests, dynamics (ff, f), and articulation marks (accents, slurs).

This page of musical notation consists of 14 staves. The top four staves (1-4) are arranged in a grand staff format, with staves 1 and 2 in the treble clef and staves 3 and 4 in the bass clef. The bottom ten staves (5-14) are arranged in two systems of five staves each, also in a grand staff format. The notation is dense, featuring complex chordal textures and melodic lines. Dynamic markings include ff (fortissimo) at the beginning of several staves, f (forte) throughout, and fz p (fortissimo piano) near the end of the piece. The key signature is two sharps (F# and C#), and the time signature is 4/4. The piece concludes with a final chord and a fermata.

This page of musical notation consists of 12 staves. The top two staves are for the right hand, and the bottom two are for the left hand. The music is written in a key with one sharp (F#) and a 2/4 time signature. The piece begins with a piano (p) dynamic and features a complex texture with many sixteenth and thirty-second notes. Dynamics range from p to ff. The notation includes various articulations such as slurs, accents, and hairpins. The bottom two staves show a more rhythmic accompaniment with some sustained notes and a steady eighth-note pattern in the left hand.

This page of musical notation, numbered 45, contains 14 staves of music. The notation is arranged in two systems of seven staves each. The instruments are represented as follows:

- Staff 1: Violin I
- Staff 2: Violin II
- Staff 3: Viola
- Staff 4: Violoncello
- Staff 5: Violoncello
- Staff 6: Double Bass
- Staff 7: Double Bass
- Staff 8: Violin I
- Staff 9: Violin II
- Staff 10: Viola
- Staff 11: Violoncello
- Staff 12: Violoncello
- Staff 13: Double Bass
- Staff 14: Double Bass

The music is written in a key signature of one sharp (F#) and a common time signature (C). Dynamics include f, ff, and p. Performance instructions include pizz. (pizzicato) and arco (arco). The notation includes various rhythmic patterns, including sixteenth-note runs and chords.

Fl.

Cl.

Fag.

arco

pizz.

arco

arco

Fag.

dolce ed espress.

p

Ped.

* Ped.

* Ped.

pp

pp

pp

pp

pp

pizz.

Fag.

p

Cor. III.

leggeriss.

* Ped. * Ped. * Ped. * Ped. * Ped.

Fag.

legatissimo

fz

* Ped. *

arco

Musical score for the first system. The top staff is a vocal line, and the bottom staff is a piano accompaniment. The piano part includes a trill (tr) and a section marked leggiero. Pedal points are indicated by "Ped." and asterisks (*).

Musical score for the second system. The top staff is a vocal line, and the bottom staff is a piano accompaniment. The piano part includes a section marked rallentando. Pedal points are indicated by "Ped." and asterisks (*).

Risoluto
a tempo

f Ped. *

a tempo

pizz.

pizz.

pizz.

pizz.

arco

a tempo

Ped. *

arco

arco

pizz.

arco

Fl.

Ob.

Cl.

Fag.

3 2

8 pizz.

pizz.

pizz.

pizz.

Detailed description of the musical score: The score is for a woodwind quintet and piano. The woodwind parts are arranged vertically: Flute (Fl.), Oboe (Ob.), Clarinet (Cl.), and Bassoon (Fag.). The piano part is in the lower system. The music is in 2/4 time with a key signature of one sharp (F#). The woodwinds play melodic lines, often with dynamics like p and p>. The piano part features complex rhythmic patterns, including triplets and sixteenth notes, and includes 'pizz.' markings. The score is divided into measures, with some measures containing rests for certain instruments.

The first system consists of five staves. The top two staves are in treble clef, and the bottom three are in bass clef. The music begins with a few notes in the first staff, followed by rests. The third and fourth staves have dynamic markings of p (piano) and feature complex chordal textures with some notes marked with an 'x'.

The second system consists of two staves, both in treble clef. The first staff has a '3:' marking above it, indicating a triplet. Both staves contain dense, rhythmic patterns with many notes marked with an 'x', suggesting a complex or possibly incorrect transcription of the original score.

The third system consists of four staves. The top two are in treble clef, and the bottom two are in bass clef. The word 'arco' is written above the first and second staves, indicating that the instruments should be played with the bow. The music features sustained notes and rests across the measures.

Fl.

Fag.

8:

8:

1 arco

Fl.

Flute part: Treble clef, key signature of one sharp (F#), 2/4 time. The first measure is a whole rest. The second measure contains a complex rhythmic pattern of eighth and sixteenth notes. A bracket labeled '8' spans the second and third measures. The third measure continues the pattern. The fourth measure is a whole note chord. A 'Ped.' (pedal) marking is placed below the fourth measure.

String parts: Treble and Bass clefs, key signature of one sharp. The first measure contains whole notes. The second measure contains quarter notes. The third measure contains quarter notes. The fourth measure contains whole notes. The word 'pizz.' (pizzicato) is written above the first three measures of the string parts.

Flute part: Treble clef, key signature of one sharp. The first measure contains a complex rhythmic pattern. The second measure continues the pattern. The third measure contains a complex rhythmic pattern. The fourth measure contains a complex rhythmic pattern.

String parts: Treble and Bass clefs, key signature of one sharp. The first measure contains whole notes. The second measure contains quarter notes. The third measure contains quarter notes. The fourth measure contains quarter notes. The word 'arço' (arco) is written above the first measure of the string parts, and 'pizz.' (pizzicato) is written above the second measure.

Cl.

Cl. p

Fag.

Ped.

arco

arco

arco

pizz.

Fl. p

Cl. p

Fag. p

pizz.

arco

pizz.

arco

arco

Cl.

Fag.

f Ped. cresc. Ped.

arco

arco

Fag.

8 5

Ped.

Fag.

cresc.

Ped. *

2 5 1

Ped. *

Ped. *

Cl.
Cor. I.

p

Cl.
Cor. I.

p

Fl.

f cresc.

sempre

Fl.

f cresc.

sempre

Fl.
Cl. più ff marcato
Ped.
* Ped.

The first system of the score consists of seven staves. The top two staves are for Flute (Fl.) and Clarinet (Cl.). The bottom five staves are for the piano accompaniment. The piano part features a complex rhythmic pattern in the right hand with many sixteenth notes and slurs, and a more rhythmic bass line. Pedal markings (Ped. and * Ped.) are present in the piano part.

Fl.
Cl.
8
*
p
cresc.

The second system continues the musical piece with the same instrumentation. The piano part shows a dynamic shift from piano (p) to crescendo (cresc.). The flute and clarinet parts have rests in the first two measures of this system. The piano accompaniment continues with intricate rhythmic patterns and slurs.

Fl.
Cl.

ff
f Ped
f
f
f pizz.

Timp.

p cresc.
pizz.

This musical score is for page 60, featuring a piano and an orchestra. The piano part is written in G major and 2/4 time, with a complex rhythmic pattern of eighth and sixteenth notes. The orchestral part consists of multiple staves, including strings and woodwinds, with dynamics ranging from f (forte) to ff (fortissimo). The score is divided into two systems. The first system includes a piano part and an orchestral part. The second system includes a piano part and an orchestral part. The piano part is written in G major and 2/4 time, with a complex rhythmic pattern of eighth and sixteenth notes. The orchestral part consists of multiple staves, including strings and woodwinds, with dynamics ranging from f (forte) to ff (fortissimo).

This page of musical notation consists of 14 staves. The top staff is a treble clef with a melodic line featuring trills and slurs, marked with f and p. The second staff is a treble clef with chords, marked with p and f. The third staff is a treble clef with chords, marked with p and f. The fourth staff is a bass clef with chords, marked with p and f. The fifth staff is a treble clef with chords, marked with p and f. The sixth staff is a treble clef with rests, marked with f. The seventh staff is a treble clef with rests, marked with f. The eighth staff is a bass clef with chords, marked with f. The ninth staff is a bass clef with chords, marked with f. The tenth staff is a treble clef with a melodic line and trills, marked with p, f, and tr. The eleventh staff is a treble clef with chords, marked with p and f. The twelfth staff is a bass clef with chords, marked with p and f. The thirteenth staff is a bass clef with chords, marked with p and f. The fourteenth staff is a bass clef with chords, marked with f.

This page of musical notation consists of 14 staves. The notation includes various dynamic markings and performance instructions:

- Staff 1: Starts with f, followed by p, then f with cresc., and ends with dim.
- Staff 2: Starts with f, followed by f with cresc., and ends with dim.
- Staff 3: Starts with f, followed by p, then f with cresc., and ends with dim.
- Staff 4: Starts with f, followed by f with cresc., and ends with dim.
- Staff 5: Starts with f, followed by f with cresc.
- Staff 6: Starts with f, followed by f with cresc.
- Staff 7: Starts with f, followed by f with cresc.
- Staff 8: Starts with f, followed by f with cresc.
- Staff 9: Starts with f, followed by p, then f with cresc., and ends with p
- Staff 10: Starts with p, followed by f with cresc., and ends with p
- Staff 11: Starts with f, followed by p, then f with cresc., and ends with p
- Staff 12: Starts with f, followed by f with cresc., and ends with p
- Staff 13: Starts with f, followed by f with cresc., and ends with p
- Staff 14: Starts with f, followed by f with cresc., and ends with p

Fl. p

Cl. p

p

p

Ped. * Ped. *

Cl. p

19

7

Ped. *

arco p

Musical score for the first system, featuring piano and bass staves. The piano part includes a Ped. marking. The bass part includes a p marking. The system consists of two systems of staves.

Musical score for the second system, featuring piano and bass staves. The piano part includes a Ped. marking, a tr marking, and an 8 marking. The bass part includes a pizz. marking, an arco marking, and another pizz. marking. The system consists of two systems of staves.

8 rit. 14 legatiss.

con forza sfz p p

Ped. *

Cor. I.

p

Ped. * Ped. * Ped. * Ped. *

Cor. I.

Musical score for Cor. I, featuring a horn part and a piano accompaniment. The score is divided into two systems, each containing five staves. The top staff is the horn part, and the bottom four staves are the piano accompaniment. The piano part includes a right-hand treble staff, a left-hand bass staff, and a grand staff (treble and bass).

Performance markings include:

- Ped. (Pedal) markings with asterisks (*) in the piano accompaniment.
- arco (arco) marking in the piano accompaniment.
- pizz. (pizzicato) marking in the piano accompaniment.

The score is written in a key signature of one sharp (F#) and a common time signature (C). The horn part features a melodic line with various articulations and dynamics. The piano accompaniment provides harmonic support with chords and moving lines.

Musical score for the first system, measures 1-4. The top staff is a grand staff with treble and bass clefs. The bass clef staff has "Ped." and "*" markings. Dynamics include "cresc." and "f". A first ending bracket is shown above the treble staff.

Musical score for the second system, measures 5-8. This system consists of five staves: two grand staves (treble and bass clefs) and three single staves (treble, bass, and bass clefs).

Musical score for the third system, measures 9-12. The top staff is a grand staff with treble and bass clefs. The bass clef staff has "p" and "f" markings. A second ending bracket is shown above the treble staff.

pp

8

tr

This system contains the first four measures of the piece. The top staff features a complex melodic line with many sixteenth notes and trills. A dynamic marking of pp is present. A bracket labeled '8' spans the first two measures. The bottom staves show a piano accompaniment with chords and moving lines.

tr

cresc.

f

arco

p

This system contains the next four measures. The top staff continues with trills and sixteenth-note passages. A cresc. marking is placed over the third measure, and a f dynamic marking appears in the fourth measure. The bottom staves show the piano accompaniment, with the word arco appearing in the bass line of the fourth measure and a p dynamic marking below it.

8 dim. cresc.

Ped. *

This system contains a complex piano texture. The top staff features a melodic line with a dynamic marking of dim. (diminuendo) followed by cresc. (crescendo). The middle two staves are mostly empty. The bottom two staves provide a bass accompaniment with a p (piano) dynamic marking. A pedal point is indicated by "Ped. *" at the end of the system.

8

f fz fz

Ped. * Ped. * Ped. * Ped. *

p p p

This system continues the piano texture. The top staff has a melodic line with dynamic markings of f (forte), fz (forzando), and fz. The middle two staves are mostly empty. The bottom two staves provide a bass accompaniment with a p (piano) dynamic marking. Pedal instructions are marked as "Ped. *" at the beginning of each measure.

a tempo

rall. dolce con espress.

a tempo

Ped. * Ped. * Ped. * Ped. *

rall. a tempo

The first system of the musical score consists of a grand staff (treble and bass clefs) and five individual staves. The piano part (top two staves) begins with a melodic line in the treble clef and a rhythmic accompaniment in the bass clef. The tempo is marked 'a tempo'. The music then transitions to a 'rall.' (rallentando) section, where the tempo slows down. This section is marked 'dolce con espress.' (softly with expression). The tempo returns to 'a tempo'. Pedal points are indicated by 'Ped. *' below the piano part. The lower staves (three, four, and five) contain sustained chords or single notes, some marked 'rall.'.

Fag.

p

legatissimo

Ped. * Ped. * Ped. * Ped. * Ped. * Ped. *

The second system of the musical score features a bassoon part (Fag.) on the top staff, which is mostly silent. The piano part (middle two staves) continues with a rhythmic accompaniment. The tempo remains 'a tempo'. The music then transitions to a 'legatissimo' (legatissimo) section, where the piano part plays a series of rapid, slurred notes. The dynamics are marked 'p' (piano). Pedal points are indicated by 'Ped. *' below the piano part. The lower staves (three, four, and five) contain sustained chords or single notes, some marked 'p'.

Musical score for the first system, featuring a grand staff with piano and celesta parts. The piano part includes a bass line with a 3-measure triplet and a treble line with a forte dynamic. The celesta part is marked pizz. and p.

Ped. * Ped. * Ped. * Ped. * Ped. *

f p pizz. pizz. pizz. pizz.

Musical score for the second system, featuring a grand staff with piano and celesta parts. The piano part includes a bass line with a 3-measure triplet and a treble line with a forte dynamic. The celesta part is marked arco.

Ped. * arco arco arco Ped. *

This system contains the first six measures of the piece. The piano part (left) features a complex texture with sixteenth-note runs and chords, including a triplet of sixteenth notes in the fifth measure. The violin part (right) consists of a melodic line with eighth and sixteenth notes. A 'Ped.' (pedal) instruction with an asterisk is placed below the piano part in the third measure.

This system contains the next six measures. The piano part begins with a fortissimo (ff) dynamic and includes a rapid sixteenth-note passage marked with '11' and '5' above it. The violin part continues with a melodic line. The instruction 'sempre stretto' is written in the violin part in the third measure of this system. The piano part has a '3' above a triplet of sixteenth notes in the second measure of this system.

5 3 11 tr

Ped. * Ped. *

This system contains the first four measures of the piece. The piano part features a complex melodic line with a five-measure run (marked '5'), a triplet (marked '3'), and an eleven-measure run (marked '11'). The bass part provides a steady accompaniment. The system concludes with a trill (marked 'tr') in the piano part and a double asterisk (*) in the bass part.

Cor. p

tr
cresc.

9 3

Ped. *

pp

This system begins with the entry of the Cor Anglais (Cor.), marked with a piano (p) dynamic. The piano part continues with a trill (marked 'tr') and a crescendo (cresc.) leading into a nine-measure run (marked '9') and a triplet (marked '3'). The piano accompaniment consists of sustained chords. The system ends with a pianissimo (pp) dynamic marking.

riten. a tempo

riten. con forza a tempo

fz p agitato

Ped. a tempo *

rit. a tempo

rit. a tempo

rit. a tempo

rit. a tempo

Cl. p

8 tr Ped. *

tr Ped. pizz. *

tr Ped. *

tr Ped. arco *

pizz. arco

pizz. arco

pizz. arco

pizz. arco

Musical score for the first system, measures 1-4. The score is written for a string quartet (Violin I, Violin II, Viola, and Cello/Double Bass) and includes a double bass line. The key signature is one sharp (F#) and the time signature is 4/4. The first system consists of four measures. The Violin I part features a melodic line with a trill (tr) in the first measure and a sequence of eighth-note chords in the second measure, which is marked with an '8' and a dashed box. The Violin II part has a similar melodic line. The Viola and Cello/Double Bass parts provide harmonic support with a mix of pizzicato (pizz.) and arco (arco) playing. The double bass line includes a trill (tr) in the first measure.

Musical score for the second system, measures 5-8. This system continues the musical piece with four measures. The Violin I part continues with eighth-note chords and a trill (tr) in the fifth measure. The Violin II part has a melodic line with a trill (tr) in the fifth measure. The Viola and Cello/Double Bass parts continue with a mix of pizzicato (pizz.) and arco (arco) playing. The double bass line includes a trill (tr) in the fifth measure.

Fl.

Cl.

8

tr

pizz.

arco

pizz.

arco

pizz.

arco

pizz.

arco

Fag.

p

tr

pizz.

arco

pizz.

arco

pizz.

arco

pizz.

arco

Musical score for the first system. The top staff is a bass clef line with a key signature of one sharp (F#) and a common time signature. The second staff is a treble clef line with a key signature of one sharp (F#) and a common time signature. The third staff is a bass clef line with a key signature of one sharp (F#) and a common time signature. The fourth staff is a treble clef line with a key signature of one sharp (F#) and a common time signature. The fifth staff is a bass clef line with a key signature of one sharp (F#) and a common time signature. The sixth staff is a bass clef line with a key signature of one sharp (F#) and a common time signature.

The second staff (violin) begins with a con fuoco marking. It features a series of sixteenth-note patterns. An 8-measure rest is indicated by a dashed line above the staff. The third staff (piano) includes trills (tr) and pizzicato (pizz.) markings. The fourth and fifth staves also include pizzicato (pizz.) and arco markings.

Musical score for the second system. The top staff is a treble clef line with a key signature of one sharp (F#) and a common time signature. The second staff is a bass clef line with a key signature of one sharp (F#) and a common time signature. The third staff is a treble clef line with a key signature of one sharp (F#) and a common time signature. The fourth staff is a bass clef line with a key signature of one sharp (F#) and a common time signature. The fifth staff is a bass clef line with a key signature of one sharp (F#) and a common time signature. The sixth staff is a bass clef line with a key signature of one sharp (F#) and a common time signature.

The top staff (violin) continues with sixteenth-note patterns and includes an 8-measure rest. The second staff (piano) includes dynamic markings: sempre, più, animato, fz, f, and cresc.. The third and fourth staves continue with melodic lines. The fifth and sixth staves provide harmonic support.

The first system of the musical score consists of four measures. The top staff is a treble clef with a key signature of one sharp (F#) and a 3/4 time signature. It features a complex, flowing melodic line with many sixteenth and thirty-second notes, often beamed together. A dynamic marking of f (forte) is present in the second measure. The second staff is a grand staff (treble and bass clefs) with a key signature of one sharp. It provides a harmonic accompaniment with chords and single notes. The bottom two staves are also grand staves (treble and bass clefs) with a key signature of one sharp, providing further accompaniment with sustained notes and chords.

The second system of the musical score consists of four measures. The top staff continues the complex melodic line from the first system. The second staff continues the harmonic accompaniment. The bottom two staves continue the accompaniment with sustained notes and chords. The overall texture is dense and rhythmic.

8

cresc.

p cresc.

arco

Detailed description: This system contains the first system of music. It features a piano part with a complex, rhythmic melody in the right hand and a supporting bass line in the left hand. The piano part includes dynamic markings for cresc. and p. The string part consists of five staves (Violin I, Violin II, Viola, Cello, and Double Bass) with sustained notes and some rhythmic patterns. The word "arco" is written below the string staves.

8

cresc.

pizz.

Detailed description: This system contains the second system of music. The piano part continues with a similar rhythmic pattern, marked with cresc.. The string part is marked "pizz." (pizzicato) and shows a change in the rhythmic accompaniment. The system is divided into two measures by a vertical line.

Cor.

p

8 ff marc.

Detailed description: This system contains the third system of music. It begins with a staff for the Cor (horn) instrument, which has a long note marked p. Below it, the piano part has a complex, dense texture with many notes, marked with ff marc. (fortissimo marcato). The string part continues with a rhythmic accompaniment. The system is divided into two measures by a vertical line.

The first system of the musical score consists of eight staves. The top staff begins with a piano (p) dynamic and a fermata. The second and third staves have a fortissimo (ff) dynamic. The fourth staff has a piano (p) dynamic. The fifth and sixth staves have a fortissimo (ff) dynamic. The seventh and eighth staves have a fortissimo (ff) dynamic. The system concludes with a fortissimo (ff) dynamic marking.

The second system of the musical score consists of two staves. Both staves feature a trill (tr) in the first two measures, indicated by a dashed box and the number '8' above the first staff.

The third system of the musical score consists of four staves. The first three staves are marked arco and ff. The fourth staff is marked arco and ff. The system concludes with a piano (p) legato dynamic marking on each of the four staves.

A musical score for piano and voice, page 81. The score is written in G major and 4/4 time. It features a piano accompaniment and a vocal line. The piano part consists of a right hand and a left hand. The right hand has a melodic line with a p dynamic marking and a legato instruction. The left hand provides harmonic support. The vocal line is written in a soprano clef and includes a ff dynamic marking. The score is divided into two systems. The first system has 12 measures, and the second system has 12 measures. The key signature has one sharp (F#) and the time signature is 4/4. The piano part starts with a p dynamic and a legato instruction. The vocal part starts with a ff dynamic. The score is written in G major and 4/4 time.

ROMANZE.

Larghetto. ($\text{♩} = 80.$)

Flauti.

Clarineti
in C.

Fagotti.

Corni I & II
in E.

Pianoforte.

Violino I. con Sordini pp legatissimo

Violino II.
pp

Viola.
pp

Violoncello.
pp

Basso.

Larghetto.

Cor.

pp cantabile
p p <> sostenuto

cresc.
p

Ped. * Ped. * Ped. * Ped. * Ped. * Ped. *

legatissimo
p

Ped. * Ped. * Ped. *

p p p
p

Musical score for the first system, featuring piano accompaniment and a clarinet part. The piano part consists of a grand staff (treble and bass clefs) with various textures, including sixteenth-note runs and sustained chords. Pedal markings (Ped.) are present under the bass line. The clarinet part (Cl.) is in the upper staff, featuring a melodic line with trills (tr) and slurs. Dynamics include fz, fz p, and p.

Musical score for the second system, featuring piano accompaniment and woodwind parts (Cl. and Fag.). The piano part continues with similar textures and includes a pp section with dolciss. and espressivo markings. Pedal markings (Ped.) are present. The Clarinet (Cl.) and Bassoon (Fag.) parts are in the upper staves, with the Bassoon part marked dot. and pp. Dynamics include p and pp.

Fag.

cresc.

leggierissimo e legatissimo pp dim.

Ped. * Ped. *

Fl.

Cl.

Fag.

p p

f

Ped. * Ped. * Ped. *

Fag.

Cor.

Ped. * Ped. *

Cor.

cresc.

con forza

f: p leggiero dimin.

Ped. * Ped. * Ped. * Ped. * Ped. *

Fag.

Cor. p

dolciss.

Ped. * Ped. * Ped. * Ped. *

tr

Fag.

Cor.

pp

14 dim. e rallent.

pp delicatiss. e legatiss.

smorz.

Ped. * Ped. *

ppp

ppp

ppp

ppp

ppp

Cor. rallent. Tempo I.

The first system of the score includes a Cor Anglais part at the top and piano accompaniment below. The Cor part begins with a rallent. marking and a fermata, then resumes at Tempo I. The piano accompaniment features a complex texture with six staves. The right-hand part of the piano includes a dimin. e rallent. section followed by a Tempo I. section with a p leggieriss. marking. The left-hand part includes a legato marking and a p dynamic. The system concludes with rallent. and Tempo I. markings.

The second system continues the Cor Anglais and piano accompaniment. The Cor part features a cresc. marking, a con fuoco section with a fz p dynamic, and a dim. section. The piano accompaniment includes a legatiss. section and a leggieriss. section with a cresc. marking. Pedal markings are indicated as *Ped. * Ped.  and *Ped. . The system concludes with a p dynamic marking.

Fag.

Cor.

Musical score for the first system. It includes parts for Fag. (Bassoon) and Cor. (Trumpet). The piano accompaniment features a variety of dynamics: f, p, pp, and agitato. There are also markings for Ped. (pedal) and asterisks. The piano part includes triplets and sixteenth-note patterns.

Fag.

Cor.

Musical score for the second system. It includes parts for Fag. (Bassoon) and Cor. (Trumpet). The piano accompaniment features repeated rhythmic patterns in the right and left hands, with Ped. markings and asterisks. The piano part includes triplets and sixteenth-note patterns.

con forza

5 II

fz

Ped. * Ped. * Ped. * Ped. *

Cl.
Fag.

p dim. dim. p

sotto voce dim. p cresc.

Ped. * il basso sempre legato Ped. * Ped. *

p p

Cl.
Fag.
Cor.

can forza
cresc. appassionato

Ped. * Ped. * Ped. *

Fag.

p
f p dolce

Ped. * Ped. * Ped. * Ped. *

Fag.

3

tr

cresc.

Ped. * Ped. * Ped. * Ped. *

Fl.

Cl.

Fag.

8 leggieriss.

dimin.

Ped. * Ped. *

Fag.

Musical score for the first system. The top staff is for Bassoon (Fag.) with trills and triplets. The piano accompaniment consists of a right-hand part with chords and a left-hand part with a bass line. Pedal markings and asterisks are present.

Fag.

Musical score for the second system. The top staff is for Bassoon (Fag.) with trills and triplets. The piano accompaniment includes markings for leggieriss., cresc., and Ped..

8 30 9 6

f e veloce

Ped. *

This system contains a piano score with a treble and bass staff. The treble staff features a complex, rapid melodic line with slurs and fingerings (8, 30, 9, 6). The bass staff provides a simple accompaniment. Below the piano score is a Pedal section with a treble and bass staff, showing a long, sustained pedal point marked with an asterisk (*).

Fag.

fz p dolciss.

Ped. * Ped. * Ped. * Ped. *

This system continues the piano score from the first system. The treble staff has a more melodic line with slurs and fingerings. The bass staff has a rhythmic accompaniment. Below the piano score is a Flute section ('Fag.') with a bass staff, showing a melodic line with slurs. The Pedal section continues with four measures, each marked with 'Ped. *'.

Fag.

Musical score for Fag. (Bassoon). The score consists of five staves. The top staff is the main melodic line, starting with a treble clef and a key signature of three sharps (F#, C#, G#). It features a complex, rapid passage marked leggieriss. (very light), with a measure number of 26. The passage includes various ornaments and fingerings, such as '2' and '5'. The bottom two staves are bass clefs, with the lower one containing a simple accompaniment. Pedal markings 'Ped.' are present on the second and fourth measures of the bottom staff, each followed by an asterisk (*).

Cor.

Musical score for Cor. (Cornet). The score consists of five staves. The top staff is the main melodic line, starting with a treble clef and a key signature of three sharps (F#, C#, G#). It features a complex, rapid passage marked pp (pianissimo), smorz. (ritardando), rallent. (ritardando), and leggieriss. dim. (very light, decrescendo). The passage includes various ornaments and fingerings, such as '1', '8', and '8'. The bottom two staves are bass clefs, with the lower one containing a simple accompaniment. Pedal markings 'Ped.' are present on the first and fourth measures of the bottom staff, each followed by an asterisk (*).

Cor. rallent. Tempo I.

8 pp Tempo I.

rallent. legatiss.

* Ped. * Ped. * Ped.* Ped. * Ped. *

un poco marcato

pp pp pp pp

rallent. pp Tempo I.

sempre

Ped. * Ped. * Ped. *

leggieriss.

Ped. * Ped. *

The first system of the musical score consists of two systems of staves. The upper system contains a complex piano part with rapid sixteenth-note passages in both hands, and a vocal line in the treble clef with a more melodic and slower character. The lower system contains a simpler piano accompaniment with sustained notes and a vocal line in the treble clef. Pedal markings 'Ped.' and asterisks '*' are placed below the piano part of the first system.

Ped. * Ped. *

The second system of the musical score continues the piano and vocal parts. The piano part features more complex rhythmic patterns and rapid passages. The vocal part continues with a melodic line. Pedal markings 'Ped.' and asterisks '*' are placed below the piano part of the second system.

Musical score for the first system. The top staff is a grand staff (piano and celeste) with a dimin. marking. The piano part features a complex, rapid melodic line with many accidentals. The celeste part has a similar but slightly slower melodic line. The vocal line consists of a single melodic line with lyrics: "Ped. * Ped. * Ped. * Ped. *". The bottom three staves are for the vocal line, showing a single melodic line with lyrics: "Ped. * Ped. * Ped. * Ped. *".

Musical score for the second system. The top staff is a grand staff (piano and celeste) with a dimin. marking. The piano part continues the complex, rapid melodic line. The celeste part continues the melodic line. The vocal line consists of a single melodic line with lyrics: "Ped. * Ped. * Ped. * Ped. *". The bottom three staves are for the vocal line, showing a single melodic line with lyrics: "Ped. * Ped. * Ped. * Ped. *".

Cor. p

sempre legatiss.

Ped. * Ped. *

The first system of the score consists of five staves. The top staff is for the Cor Anglais, marked with a piano (p) dynamic. The second staff is the piano accompaniment, featuring a complex, arpeggiated texture with many sixteenth notes, marked sempre legatiss. The third staff is the left hand of the piano, with a few notes and rests. The fourth and fifth staves are the right and left hands of the piano, respectively, with rests and a few notes. Pedal markings are present at the beginning and end of the system.

Fag. p

Cor.

Ped. * Ped. *

The second system of the score consists of five staves. The top staff is for the Bassoon (Fag.), marked with a piano (p) dynamic. The second staff is for the Cor Anglais. The third staff is the piano accompaniment, featuring a complex, arpeggiated texture with many sixteenth notes. The fourth and fifth staves are the right and left hands of the piano, respectively, with rests and a few notes. Pedal markings are present at the beginning and end of the system.

Fl. Fag.

Cor.

Ped. * Ped. * Ped. *

This system contains the first two measures of the score. It features a Flute (Fl.) and Bassoon (Fag.) part with a melodic line, a Horn (Cor.) part with a sustained note, and a piano accompaniment with a complex, rhythmic texture. Pedal markings are present below the piano part.

Fl. Fag.

Cor.

Ped. * Ped. * Ped. *

cresc.

cresc.

cresc.

cresc.

cresc.

cresc.

This system contains the next two measures. The Flute and Bassoon parts continue their melodic lines, with the Bassoon part marked cresc. (crescendo). The Horn part remains sustained. The piano accompaniment continues with its rhythmic pattern, and all parts are marked cresc. (crescendo). Pedal markings are also present.

Fl. 2

Fag. dim.

Cor. p dim.

Ped. * Ped. * Ped.

dim.

dim.

dim.

dim.

poco rall.

rall.

smorz.

* Ped. * Ped. *

rallent.

smorz.

rallent.

smorz.

rallent.

smorz.

rallent.

smorz.

RONDO.

Vivace. (♩ = 104.)

Flauti.

Oboi.

Clarineti
in A.

Fagotti.

Corni I & II
in E.

Clarini
in E.

Trombone.

Timpani in H. E.

Pianoforte.

Violino I. senza Sordini

Violino II.

Viola.

Violoncello.

Basso.

Vivace

schierz. p

dim. pizz. p

Ped. Ped. Ped. Ped. Ped. Ped.

Ped. Ped. Ped. pizz. Ped. Ped. arco

p arco pizz. arco pizz. arco pizz. arco

pizz.

Ped. * Ped. * Ped. * Ped. * Ped. *

pizz.

arco

This system contains the first two systems of music. The top system is a piano accompaniment with a treble and bass staff. The second system consists of four staves for a string quartet (Violin I, Violin II, Viola, and Violoncello). The piano part includes several measures with a 'Ped.' (pedal) marking and asterisks. The string quartet part includes several measures with a 'pizz.' (pizzicato) marking. The Violoncello part includes a measure with an 'arco' marking.

Ped. * Ped. * legatiss.

arco

arco

arco

arco

p

p

This system contains the third and fourth systems of music. The top system is a piano accompaniment with a treble and bass staff. The third system consists of four staves for a string quartet (Violin I, Violin II, Viola, and Violoncello). The piano part includes several measures with a 'Ped.' (pedal) marking and asterisks, and a measure with the marking 'legatiss.'. The string quartet part includes several measures with an 'arco' marking. The Violoncello part includes a measure with a 'p' (piano) marking.

Fl

Cl. rallent. - - - - p

a tempo

rallent. - leggeriss. - a tempo 8 leggeriss. rallent. - dim.

Ped.

a tempo

rallent. - - - - pp rallent. - rallent. - - - - pp rallent. -

rallent. - - - - pp rallent. -

rallent. - - - - pp rallent. - rallent. - - - - a tempo pp rallent. -

a tempo

a tempo 8

a tempo pizz.

a tempo pizz.

a tempo pizz.

a tempo pizz.

a tempo pizz.

Musical score for the first system, featuring a piano and a string quartet. The piano part has a "Ped." marking and a "*" symbol. The string quartet parts are marked "arco".

Musical score for the second system, continuing the piano and string quartet. The piano part includes markings for "stretto poco riten.", "a tempo", and "riten.". The string quartet parts also include "a tempo" and "riten." markings.

The first system of the musical score consists of seven measures. It features a grand staff with two treble clefs and two bass clefs. The key signature is two sharps (F# and C#). The music is characterized by dense, rhythmic patterns, including sixteenth and thirty-second notes, often beamed together. There are several dynamic markings, including accents and a forte (f) marking at the end of the system. The notation includes various articulations such as slurs and accents.

The second system of the musical score consists of four measures. It continues the grand staff notation from the first system. The music features a mix of rhythmic patterns, including eighth and sixteenth notes. There are dynamic markings such as p (piano) and f (forte). The notation includes slurs and accents.

The third system of the musical score consists of four measures. It continues the grand staff notation. The music features a mix of rhythmic patterns, including eighth and sixteenth notes. There are dynamic markings such as p (piano) and f (forte). The notation includes slurs and accents.

This page of musical notation consists of 14 staves, arranged in two systems of seven staves each. The music is written in a key signature of two sharps (F# and C#) and a common time signature (C). The notation includes various rhythmic patterns, including sixteenth and thirty-second notes, and rests. Dynamic markings are prominently featured throughout the score, including cresc. (crescendo), ff (fortissimo), and p (piano). The first system of seven staves shows a gradual increase in volume, with cresc. markings on the first, second, third, fourth, and seventh staves, and ff markings on the second, third, fourth, and seventh staves. The second system continues this dynamic progression, with cresc. markings on the first, second, third, fourth, and seventh staves, and ff markings on the second, third, fourth, and seventh staves. The notation is dense and detailed, with many notes and rests clearly visible.

Musical score for a vocal and piano piece, page 109. The score features multiple staves with vocal lines and piano accompaniment. The lyrics are "cre - - scen - - do". Dynamics include p, mf, cresc., and ff. The key signature has two sharps (F# and C#).

The score consists of the following parts:

- Vocal line (top staff): Lyrics "cre - - scen - - do". Dynamics: p, ff.
- First Piano Staff (second staff): Accompaniment. Dynamics: p, ff.
- Second Piano Staff (third staff): Accompaniment. Dynamics: p, ff.
- Third Piano Staff (fourth staff): Accompaniment. Dynamics: p, ff.
- Fourth Piano Staff (fifth staff): Accompaniment. Dynamics: p, ff.
- Mezzo-Forte Section (sixth staff): Dynamics: mf, cresc., ff.
- Seventh Piano Staff (seventh staff): Accompaniment. Dynamics: p, ff.
- Eighth Piano Staff (eighth staff): Accompaniment. Dynamics: p, ff.
- Ninth Piano Staff (ninth staff): Accompaniment. Dynamics: p, ff.
- Tenth Piano Staff (tenth staff): Accompaniment. Dynamics: p, ff.

rallent. a tempo

rallent. a tempo

p leggieriss. dim. poco rallent. f. a tempo

Ped. * Ped. * Ped. *

a tempo

p rallent. a tempo

p rallent. a tempo

p rallent. a tempo

p rallent. a tempo

p rallent. a tempo

Musical score for the first system, measures 1-8. The score is written for seven staves: Violin I, Violin II, Viola, Violoncello, Violoncello, Double Bass, and Piano. The key signature is G major (one sharp) and the time signature is 3/4. Measures 1-4 are mostly rests. Measures 5-8 feature a rhythmic pattern of eighth notes with accents and dynamic markings of sf and p.

8

Musical score for the second system, measures 9-12. The score is written for two staves: Violin I and Violoncello/Double Bass. The Violin I staff has a melodic line with a schert. marking. The Violoncello/Double Bass staff has a rhythmic accompaniment. Pedal markings are present below the Violoncello/Double Bass staff.

Ped. * Ped. * Ped. * Ped. *

Musical score for the third system, measures 13-16. The score is written for five staves: Violin I, Violin II, Viola, Violoncello, and Double Bass. The Violin I, II, and Viola staves have pizz. markings. The Violoncello and Double Bass staves have arco markings. The music continues with the rhythmic pattern from the previous systems, with dynamic markings of sf and p.

This page of musical notation consists of 12 staves. The first six staves are grouped together, and the last six are grouped together by large curly braces on the left side. The music is written in a key signature of three sharps (F#, C#, G#) and a 2/4 time signature. The notation includes various rhythmic patterns, including eighth and sixteenth notes, and rests. Dynamics are indicated by ff (fortissimo) and p (piano). Many notes have accents (>) above them. The piece begins with a series of rests on the first six staves, followed by a complex, rhythmic passage. The bottom six staves feature a more melodic and harmonic progression, with some staves showing a change in dynamics from p to ff.

The first system of the musical score consists of six staves. The top two staves are in treble clef, and the bottom two are in bass clef. The middle two staves are also in treble clef. The music is written in a key signature of three sharps (F#, C#, G#) and a 2/4 time signature. The notation includes eighth and sixteenth notes, often beamed together, and rests. There are dynamic markings such as mf and f throughout the system.

The second system consists of two staves, one in treble clef and one in bass clef. The key signature remains three sharps. The word "risoluto" is written above the treble staff. The music features a ff dynamic marking and includes a trill-like figure in the treble staff. The bass staff continues with rhythmic accompaniment.

The third system consists of four staves, two in treble clef and two in bass clef. The music is highly rhythmic, with many sixteenth and thirty-second notes. There are several ff dynamic markings across the system. The notation is dense and complex, with many beamed notes and rests.

Fl. p

Cl. p

Fag.

pizz.

pizz.

Cl.

This system contains the first system of music. The top staff is for the Clarinet (Cl.), starting with a piano (p) dynamic. The piano accompaniment consists of two staves. The right-hand piano staff features a melodic line with eighth-note patterns, marked with cresc. and legato. The left-hand piano staff provides harmonic support with chords and bass lines, including a Ped. (pedal) marking and a pizz. (pizzicato) marking. The system concludes with the instruction arco (arco) for the piano.

This system contains the second system of music. The Clarinet part continues with sustained notes. The piano accompaniment continues with eighth-note patterns in the right hand and chords in the left hand. It includes a Ped. marking and a cresc. marking. The system concludes with the instruction arco (arco) for the piano.

8

Ped. * Ped. * Ped. * Ped. *

Cl.

Fag. p

dolce

8

Ped. * Ped. * Ped. * Ped. *

marc.

This page of a musical score, numbered 117, features a piano accompaniment and a vocal line. The piano part is written in a key with three sharps (F#, C#, G#) and a 2/4 time signature. It consists of two systems of staves. The first system includes a grand staff (treble and bass clefs) and four additional staves. The second system includes a grand staff and four additional staves. The vocal line is written in a single staff with a treble clef and a key signature of three sharps. It begins with a melodic phrase in the first measure of the first system, followed by a long rest. In the second system, the vocal line resumes with a melodic phrase that includes a fermata over the eighth measure, marked with an '8'. The vocal line concludes with the lyrics "cresc." and "cre - scen -" in the final measures of the second system. The piano accompaniment provides harmonic support, with the right hand often playing sixteenth-note patterns and the left hand playing chords and moving bass lines.

Musical score for a piece in D major, featuring vocal lines and piano accompaniment. The score includes a vocal line with lyrics "do" and "p leggieriss. legatiss. e dim.", and piano parts with dynamics like "p" and "f".

The score is arranged in two systems. The first system consists of six staves: two vocal staves (Soprano and Alto) and four piano staves (Right Hand and Left Hand). The second system consists of six staves: two vocal staves (Soprano and Alto) and four piano staves (Right Hand and Left Hand).

The key signature is D major (two sharps). The time signature is not explicitly shown but appears to be 4/4 based on the notation.

The vocal line includes the following lyrics:

do p leggieriss. legatiss. e dim.

The piano accompaniment includes dynamics such as p (piano) and f (forte).

Cor.

Cor.

a tempo

rall.

dolce

a tempo

rall.

pp

a tempo

pp

a tempo

pp

a tempo

pizz.

p rall.

a tempo

p rall.

a tempo

pizz.

8

pizz.

8

arco

pizz.

This system contains the first eight measures of the piece. It features a complex texture with multiple staves. The top two staves (treble clef) contain rapid sixteenth-note passages with many accidentals. The middle two staves (treble clef) provide harmonic support with chords and moving lines. The bottom two staves (bass clef) feature a more melodic bass line. Performance markings include 'arco' and 'pizz.' (pizzicato).

arco

pizz.

This system contains measures 9 through 16. The musical texture continues with similar complexity. The top two staves maintain their rapid sixteenth-note patterns. The middle two staves continue with harmonic accompaniment. The bottom two staves show a more active bass line. Performance markings include 'arco' and 'pizz.'.

Musical score for piano and strings, measures 1-8. The piano part features a rall. section followed by a tempo. The string parts also show rall. and a tempo markings. Pedal and pizzicato instructions are present.

Musical score for Flute (Fl.), Bassoon (Fag.), and Cor Anglais (Cor.), measures 1-8. The Flute part has a p dynamic marking.

Musical score for piano and strings, measures 9-16. The piano part features a fz section followed by ff and arco markings. The string parts also show arco markings.

Musical score for the first system, featuring seven staves. The music is in a key with three sharps (F#, C#, G#) and a 7/8 time signature. The first four staves (treble and bass clefs) contain complex rhythmic patterns with frequent sixteenth and thirty-second notes. The fifth and sixth staves (treble and bass clefs) have simpler rhythmic patterns. The seventh staff (bass clef) is mostly silent. Dynamic markings include f (forte) and sfz (sforzando).

Musical score for the second system, including a piano solo section and a section with pizzicato and arco markings. The first two staves (treble and bass clefs) feature a piano solo with intricate sixteenth-note patterns. The piano part is marked f (forte) and ten. (tenuissimo). The following four staves (treble and bass clefs) contain pizzicato (pizz.) and arco sections. The pizzicato sections are marked p (piano), and the arco sections are marked arco. The final staff (bass clef) ends with a p (piano) dynamic marking.

Cl.

sempre legato

pizz. arco

pizz. arco

pizz. arco

pizz. arco

Ob.

Cl.

Fag.

p

cresc.

Ped. * Ped. f *

pizz.

pizz.

pizz.

Musical score for a piano piece, page 124. The score is in D major and 4/4 time. It features a piano introduction with a p dynamic, followed by a section with cresc. and Ped. markings. The lower system includes arco and pizz. markings for the strings.

The score is arranged in two systems. The first system consists of seven staves: two treble clefs, two bass clefs, and three empty staves. The second system consists of seven staves: two treble clefs, two bass clefs, and three empty staves.

Key markings and dynamics include:

- p* (piano) at the beginning of the first system.
- cresc.* (crescendo) in the first staff of the second system.
- Ped.* (pedal) markings in the first and second staves of the second system.
- fz* (forzando) in the first staff of the second system.
- arco* (arco) markings in the first, second, and third staves of the second system.
- pizz.* (pizzicato) markings in the first, second, and third staves of the second system.

legatiss.

ben marc.

The first system of the musical score consists of two systems of staves. The upper system contains a grand staff with a treble clef and a bass clef. The treble staff features a complex, rapid melodic line with many beamed sixteenth notes and some grace notes. The bass staff contains a more rhythmic accompaniment with chords and eighth notes. The lower system contains four staves: a treble staff with a simple melodic line, a bass staff with a sustained harmonic accompaniment, and two additional staves (likely for a second bass instrument or a different part of the ensemble) with similar accompaniment. The key signature has three sharps (F#, C#, G#) and the time signature is 4/4.

cresc.

The second system of the musical score is similar in structure to the first. The upper system contains a grand staff with a treble clef and a bass clef. The treble staff continues the complex, rapid melodic line. The bass staff continues the rhythmic accompaniment. The lower system contains four staves: a treble staff with a simple melodic line, a bass staff with a sustained harmonic accompaniment, and two additional staves with similar accompaniment. The key signature has three sharps (F#, C#, G#) and the time signature is 4/4.

Cl.

Cl. Fag.

p sempre più f

fz p brillante

Ped. fz * Ped. fz * Ped. fz * Ped. *

pizz.

pizz.

pizz.

pizz.

pizz.

8 legger.

arco

Ped.

Cl.

Fag.

Cor.

p

8

Ped.

This page of a musical score is divided into four systems. The first system consists of two staves: a vocal line in the upper staff and a piano accompaniment in the lower staff. The second system features a complex piano accompaniment with multiple staves, including a treble clef staff with a melodic line and several bass clef staves for harmonic support. The word dolciss. is written below the piano part in this system. The third system returns to a vocal line and piano accompaniment. The fourth system continues the piano accompaniment with multiple staves. The score is written in a key signature of three sharps (F#, C#, G#) and a common time signature (C). The notation includes various musical symbols such as notes, rests, slurs, and dynamic markings.

a tempo

8 poco rallent.

p dolci.

a tempo

rall.

a tempo

p a tempo

p a tempo

p a tempo

p rall.

p

8 rall.

rall.

rall.

rall.

rall.

rall.

rall.

rall.

rall.

rall.

rall.

a tempo

f

a tempo

a tempo

a tempo

a tempo

pizz. arco

pizz. arco

pizz. arco

pizz. arco

pizz.

stretto

dim.

arco

This page of a musical score, numbered 132, features a complex arrangement of staves. The top system consists of seven staves: three treble clefs and four bass clefs. The key signature is three sharps (F#, C#, G#). The music begins with a series of rests, followed by a dense, rhythmic passage. The upper staves contain intricate melodic lines with many sixteenth and thirty-second notes, while the lower staves provide a steady harmonic and rhythmic foundation. A dynamic marking of f (forte) is present. The middle section of the page is a grand staff (treble and bass clefs) with a piano accompaniment. The bottom section features a grand staff with a vocal line in the upper treble clef and piano accompaniment in the lower bass clefs. The vocal line includes dynamic markings of p (piano) and f (forte). The piano accompaniment in the bottom section is highly rhythmic, with many sixteenth notes and chords. The page concludes with a final dynamic marking of f.

This page of musical score is for a piano piece, likely in a minor key (indicated by three sharps in the key signature). It features a complex arrangement of staves, including a grand staff (treble and bass clefs) and several additional staves for various instruments. The music is characterized by intricate rhythmic patterns, including sixteenth and thirty-second notes, and frequent use of dynamic markings such as ff (fortissimo) and p (piano). The score is organized into measures, with some measures containing rests for certain instruments. The overall texture is dense and highly detailed.

Musical score for a string quartet and piano. The score is written in G major (one sharp) and 4/4 time. It consists of several systems of staves.

The first system includes five staves: two treble clefs and three bass clefs. The first two staves have a key signature of one sharp (F#). The last three staves have a key signature of two sharps (D major). Dynamics include ff (fortissimo) and p (piano).

The second system features a grand staff (treble and bass clefs) with a key signature of two sharps (D major). It includes a first ending bracket with measures 7 and 8, and a fermata over measure 8. Dynamics include ff and p.

The third system includes five staves: two treble clefs and three bass clefs. The first two staves are marked arco (arco). Dynamics include ff and p.

The score concludes with a ff dynamic marking and the number 4528.

8

Musical score for measures 8-13. The score consists of seven staves. The first six staves are grouped together. The key signature is two sharps (F# and C#). The music is characterized by complex rhythmic patterns, including sixteenth and thirty-second notes, and frequent rests. Dynamic markings include ff (fortissimo) and mf (mezzo-forte). The notation includes various articulations such as accents and slurs.

Musical score for measures 14-15. The score consists of two staves. The key signature remains two sharps. The music transitions to a more melodic and legato style. Dynamic markings include legato cresc. (legato crescendo) and pp (pianissimo). The notation includes slurs and a crescendo hairpin.

Musical score for measures 16-21. The score consists of five staves. The key signature is two sharps. The music returns to complex rhythmic patterns. Dynamic markings include ff (fortissimo) and pp (pianissimo). The notation includes slurs, accents, and a legato marking. The score shows a clear contrast between the fortissimo and pianissimo sections.

musical score for the first system, featuring a piano with a complex melodic line and a vocal line with lyrics. The piano part includes dynamic markings cresc. and dim.. The vocal line includes the lyrics "cresc." and "dim.".

musical score for the second system, featuring a piano with a complex melodic line and a vocal line with lyrics. The piano part includes dynamic markings ten. and dim.. The vocal line includes the lyrics "ten." and "dim.".

cresc.

Fag.

ff

Ped.

Ped.

8

Ped. * Ped. * Ped.

This system contains the first four measures of the piece. The top staff is a grand staff with a treble clef and a key signature of three sharps (F#, C#, G#). It features a complex melodic line with many sixteenth and thirty-second notes, some marked with accents (>) and slurs. The bottom staff is a grand staff with a bass clef and the same key signature, providing a harmonic accompaniment with sustained notes and some rhythmic patterns. Pedal markings are present in the second, third, and fourth measures of the bottom staff.

Ped. * Ped.

This system contains the next four measures (measures 5-8). The musical notation continues from the first system, with the top staff maintaining its intricate melodic texture and the bottom staff providing a steady harmonic foundation. Pedal markings are present in the sixth and eighth measures of the bottom staff.

Musical score for the first system. The top staff is a bass clef line with a melodic line. The second staff is a treble clef line containing a complex piano part with triplets and a cresc. marking. The third staff is a bass clef line with a melodic line and three Ped. markings. The fourth and fifth staves are treble clef lines with a melodic line. The sixth and seventh staves are bass clef lines with a melodic line.

Musical score for the second system. The top staff is a bass clef line with a melodic line. The second staff is a treble clef line containing a complex piano part with triplets and a p legato marking. The third staff is a bass clef line with a melodic line and a p marking. The fourth and fifth staves are treble clef lines with a melodic line and a p marking. The sixth and seventh staves are bass clef lines with a melodic line and a p legato marking.

8

cresc.

f p f

marc.

p

This system contains the first four measures of the piece. The top staff features a complex, rhythmic melody with sixteenth-note patterns, marked with a crescendo and dynamic markings of forte (f), piano (p), and forte (f). The bottom staff provides a bass line with a marcato (marc.) instruction. The key signature has three sharps (F#, C#, G#) and the time signature is 3/4. The first measure is marked with an '8' and a dotted line, indicating an eighth-note pattern.

8

cresc. con fuoco

8

This system contains the next four measures. The top staff continues the complex melody, marked with a crescendo and the instruction 'con fuoco' (with fire). The bottom staff continues the bass line. The key signature and time signature remain the same. The first measure of this system is also marked with an '8' and a dotted line.

Musical score for the first system, featuring a grand staff with piano accompaniment and a clarinet part. The piano part has a complex texture with many sixteenth notes. The clarinet part is mostly rests.

Musical score for the second system, featuring a grand staff with piano accompaniment. The piano part continues with a complex texture of sixteenth notes.

Musical score for the third system, featuring a grand staff with piano accompaniment and a clarinet part. The piano part has a complex texture with many sixteenth notes. The clarinet part has some notes. Dynamics include f and cresc. Ped. and * are also present.

Musical score for the fourth system, featuring a grand staff with piano accompaniment. The piano part continues with a complex texture of sixteenth notes.

Musical score for the first system, featuring a grand staff with treble and bass clefs. The right hand plays a complex, arpeggiated figure with many accidentals. The left hand plays a simpler accompaniment. Pedal markings are present below the bass staff.

Ped. * Ped. * Ped. *

Musical score for the second system, featuring a grand staff with treble and bass clefs. The right hand plays a melodic line with some accidentals. The left hand plays a simple accompaniment. Pedal markings are present below the bass staff.

Musical score for the third system, featuring a grand staff with treble and bass clefs. The right hand plays a complex, arpeggiated figure with many accidentals. The left hand plays a simple accompaniment. Pedal markings are present below the bass staff.

Ped. * Ped. * Ped. * Ped. *

Musical score for the fourth system, featuring a grand staff with treble and bass clefs. The right hand plays a melodic line with some accidentals. The left hand plays a simple accompaniment. Pedal markings are present below the bass staff.

Ped. * Ped. * Ped. *

8 cre - scen - do

Fl.

Cl.

Cor.

8

cresc.

Ped.

cresc.ppizz.

8

pizz.

8 dolciss.

arco pizz.

Musical score for the first system, featuring piano and violin parts. The piano part consists of two staves (treble and bass clef), and the violin part is a single staff. The key signature is two sharps (F# and C#), and the time signature is 3/4. The tempo is marked poco stretto. The piano part includes the instruction arco in the bass staff. The violin part features various articulations, including accents and slurs.

Musical score for the second system, continuing the piano and violin parts. The piano part consists of two staves (treble and bass clef), and the violin part is a single staff. The key signature is two sharps (F# and C#), and the time signature is 3/4. The tempo is marked a tempo. The piano part includes the instruction pp rall. in the treble staff and rall. in the bass staff. The violin part features various articulations, including accents and slurs. The piano part also includes the instruction pizz. in the bass staff.

The first system of the musical score consists of eight staves. The top two staves are in treble clef, and the bottom two are in bass clef. The key signature has three sharps (F#, C#, G#). The first two staves have a dynamic marking of p (piano) with a hairpin indicating a gradual increase. The last two staves have a dynamic marking of sf (sforzando). The music features chords and melodic lines with some grace notes.

The second system of the musical score consists of two staves. The top staff is in treble clef and the bottom staff is in bass clef. The key signature has three sharps. The top staff has a dynamic marking of cresc. (crescendo) and the bottom staff has a dynamic marking of f (forte). The music is highly rhythmic and melodic, with many slurs and accents.

The third system of the musical score consists of four staves. The top two staves are in treble clef and the bottom two are in bass clef. The key signature has three sharps. The top two staves have a dynamic marking of sf (sforzando). The bottom two staves have a dynamic marking of sf and the word arco (arco) is written above the bass staff. The music continues with complex rhythmic patterns and melodic lines.

First system of musical notation, consisting of five staves. The music is in a key with three sharps (F#, C#, G#). The first two staves are treble clef, and the last three are bass clef. The piece concludes with a long, sustained chord in the final measure, marked with a piano (p) dynamic.

Brillante

Second system of musical notation, starting with a Brillante section. It features a grand staff with piano and bass clefs. The piano part has a complex, rhythmic melody with eighth-note patterns and is marked with pizz. and p. The bass part has a simpler, more melodic line. The section ends with a forte (f) dynamic and a piano (p) dynamic marking.

Ped. * Ped. * Ped. * Ped. * Ped. *

pizz.

pizz.

pizz.

pizz.

pizz.

p

Musical score for page 151, featuring multiple staves with various musical notations including notes, rests, and performance instructions like "Ped.", "arco", and "pizz.".

The score is organized into two systems. The first system consists of eight staves. The first four staves (treble and bass clefs) contain sustained chords with long horizontal lines. The last four staves (treble and bass clefs) contain rhythmic patterns with eighth notes and rests. The second system begins with a treble clef staff containing a complex rhythmic figure with eighth notes and sixteenth notes, marked with an "8" and a dotted line. Below this staff are performance instructions: "Ped.", "* Ped.", "* Ped.", "* Ped.", "* Ped.", "* Ped.", "* Ped.", and "*". The following four staves (treble and bass clefs) contain sustained chords, with performance instructions "arco" and "pizz." appearing in the bass clef staves.

a tempo

rit.

Cor.

a tempo

p rit.

a tempo

8 fz

dolce rit.

leggiro

8

a tempo

p rit.

a tempo

p rit.

a tempo

p rit.

a tempo

p rit.

a tempo

p rit.

a tempo

8

*Ped. **

*Ped. **

*Ped. **

*Ped. **

*Ped. **

*Ped. **

f

Detailed description of the musical score: The page contains six systems of musical notation. The first system has two staves: the top staff is for the right hand and the bottom for the left hand. The second system has two staves with a 'Cor.' (Corno) part on the top staff. The third system has two staves with a piano part. The fourth system has five staves, likely for a grand piano with multiple registers. The fifth system has two staves with a piano part. The sixth system has four staves, likely for a grand piano with multiple registers. The notation includes various dynamics such as p (piano), fz (forzando), and f (forte). It also includes articulation like rit. (ritardando) and a tempo. Performance instructions include dolce (sweetly), leggiro (moderately), and *Ped.  (pedal). There are also markings for 8 (octaves) and 8 (octaves) with dotted lines indicating the range. The key signature is three sharps (F#, C#, G#) and the time signature is 4/4.

8

cresc.

This system contains a piano accompaniment. The right hand features a complex, arpeggiated figure that spans across the first three measures and then continues in the fourth. The left hand provides a harmonic foundation with sustained chords. A dynamic marking of cresc. is present in the second measure of the right hand.

Cor.

Timp.

p cresc.

cresc.

This system includes parts for Cor (Cor Anglais) and Timp (Timpani). The Cor part is mostly silent, with a few notes in the fourth measure. The Timp part has a dynamic marking of p in the second measure. The piano accompaniment continues with the arpeggiated figure in the right hand and sustained chords in the left hand. Dynamic markings of cresc. are present in the second and third measures of the right hand.

Fl.

Facile

The musical score is divided into three systems. The first system (measures 1-4) shows the flute and piano parts. The piano part has a 'cresc.' section with rapid sixteenth-note patterns. The second system (measures 5-8) features 'pizz.' markings in the piano part. The third system (measures 9-16) continues the piano accompaniment with melodic lines and rests.

Cl. pp

Cor. pp

Ped. arco

arco

arco

arco

This musical score is for a piano and orchestra. It consists of several systems of staves. The top system includes a grand staff (treble and bass clefs) and four individual staves. The piano part begins with a pp (pianissimo) dynamic. The orchestra enters with a ff (fortissimo) dynamic. The second system features a prominent piano solo in the grand staff, marked ff and cresc. (crescendo). This solo includes an 8-measure ascending scale-like passage. The orchestra continues with ff dynamics. The third system shows the piano and orchestra continuing their respective parts, with the piano maintaining a ff dynamic and the orchestra providing accompaniment.

CRYSTAL PALACE CONCERTS.

programmes of the Crystal Palace Concerts have contained many interesting things since our last account. A remarkably good performance of Brahms's symphony in A (No. 7) was the distinguishing feature of the evening. This great work, thanks to Mr. Mams and the remarks, historical and critical, of "G.," has become so familiar at the Crystal Palace that even its most recalcitrant beauties pass undetected. Never was it listened to with more attention, or applauded with more warmth, than on the occasion of this concert. The concert began with Mendelssohn's overture to Victor and the Coronation, and ended with that which the tragedy of Hamlet has made so familiar to the Danish composer, Niels Gade. About the first it is unnecessary to say more. Of the last Mr. Mams gives a speculative description, however ingenious, can hardly induce any one to believe that the work is as well known as it is unquestionably clever. We can only imagine one possible illustration in musical tones such a theme; and that is he to be indebted for Egmont, Coriolanus, and Leonora. Every amateur is glad to hear the quiet and artistic playing of Mr. Edward Nilas, who took part in his own "Elegy," for pianoforte with orchestral accompaniment, though written some years ago, was as welcome as though it were new, so rarely is it heard. Whatever may have called it forth, it is certainly in the most poetical sense. In addition to the "Elegy," Mr. Nilas played two short pianoforte solos—a romance, entitled Malvina, and a nocturne, both charming. The singers were Madame Edna Hall and Madame the next concert began with Beethoven's overture in C Op. 115, generally known as Namensfeier (having been composed for the "Name-day" festivities of Emperor Francis II.), and ended with that by Schumann to his wife, an orchestral prelude worthy to perpetuate the name of an opera which every amateur would like to know more. The programme also included the Scherzo from Mendelssohn's Ottet, as arranged for the orchestra, the minuet and trio originally forming part of his symphony in C major, when, more than 40 years ago, that work was produced at one of the meetings of the Philharmonic Society. Of pieces so familiar to the Crystal Palace audience a bare mention will suffice. The novelty and the feature at this concert was a new MS. symphony in G minor, from the pen of Sir Julius Benedict. A new symphony is always a thing of interest, especially when it comes from a musician who, like Sir Julius, has won distinction in another branch of musical composition. It is singular, this being the case, that his last essay having been an oratorio on the largest scale, that Sir Julius should never till now have tried his practised hand at an orchestral symphony. But better late than never. An ordinarily ambitious man, at a period of life, might have been satisfied to rest on the laurels gained by his Peter. But Sir Julius evidently does not belong to this more easily-satisfied class; and now he has given us a symphony, and what is more, a symphony of genuine stamp, in every respect worthy the title, the first of which, entire, at the Crystal Palace, reflects credit on an artist who has already done so much for music. In the construction of this new work Sir Julius has adopted the forms to which "the great old ones" (Beethoven included) adhered so religiously, and with such magnificent results. But, after all, nothing else could be expected from the most distinguished and favoured scholar of Carl Maria von Weber, by whom he was regarded, and who he was, scarcely less as a friend than as a pupil. Moreover, that Sir Julius was wise in his generation was proved by the issue. The old forms are still valuable. Those who were at Norwich in 1872 will not have forgotten that at the concert, the first Allegro and Scherzo, were given on one of the evenings of the Crystal Palace Festival, of which Sir Julius Benedict had been the conductor since 1846, and received with the utmost favour. The third and fourth movements, added to complete the symphony, which is not only the best written for many years, but may justly be pronounced a masterpiece. The allegro is introduced by an introduction, moderato, not consisting merely of a short series of selected phrases, but largely developed—something after the manner in which Mozart and Beethoven were wont to usher in their first movements. The Allegro, to which this preamble leads, is of an impassioned character, and there and there by a pompous martial theme, which gives way to a quiet and charming melody in the relative major—virtually the "second ending." The whole movement is wrought out with the ingenuity of an accomplished scholar. The Andante con moto, which follows the Allegro, is upon an exquisite theme which, we quite agree with "G.," has a touch of Schubert in it, and is carried out and diversified much in that master's happiest style. The Scherzo will speak for itself wherever it is heard. It has that in it to please all hearers; the most uninitiated can hardly fail to be struck by its marked rhythm and its unceasing tunefulness, while the musician will be charmed with its ingenious contrivances, its sustained power, and its perfect development. The symphony is written for the orchestra throughout with a skill to which we have long been accustomed from the author, but the felicities way in which all the instruments are made use of in this delicious Scherzo is, of its kind, unique. The Allegro con fuoco, which brings the work to an end, is, like the opening movement, of an impassioned character, and worked throughout with equal, if not, indeed—the coda especially—greater spirit. Here is a fitting climax to a work alike an honour to the composer and a gift to his art. Nothing could possibly be finer than the performance, under Mr. Auguste Mams, to whom Sir Julius Benedict had confided the direction of the symphony, and nothing more unanimously cordial than its reception by the audience. Movement after movement was applauded; and Sir Julius was compelled to come forward in the orchestra, where he received a greeting he is not likely to forget. No success was ever more legitimately earned. The singers at this concert were Miss Edith Wynne and Mr. Sims Reeves, both of whom select only music of the best. At the following concert there was no symphony, and only one overture—that to Der Freischütz, of which nothing need be said. The pianoforte piece was Sir Sterndale Bennett's new sonata, The Maid of Orleans, with which every pianist seems desirous to make acquaintance. So much the better. The sonata is both original and beautiful, and its growing popularity is, therefore, not surprising. Its exponent on the present occasion was Mr. Franklin Taylor. He also performed it "from memory," and with such neatness, brilliancy, unforced expression, and invariable good taste, as to win universal sympathy. His delivery of the Allegro marziale was as full of healthy vigour as his reading of the Adagio ("Joan of Arc in Prison") of real feeling. In short, this was a performance deserving and eliciting unqualified praise, and Mr. Franklin Taylor, who was loudly applauded, added one more to his well-earned successes in the Crystal Palace orchestra. Another admirable solo display was that of the excellent violinist, Herr Ludwig Straus, in the recitative Adagio and Allegro from Spohr's concerto No. 6, one of the master's best. Few violinists are such thorough adepts in the music of Spohr as Herr Straus, who has seldom been heard to more advantage, and has seldom been more warmly appreciated. The want of a symphony was atoned for on this occasion—if anything can atone for the want of a symphony at a Crystal Palace Concert—by the introduction of Beethoven's cantata, composed in 1814, to celebrate the "Congress of Vienna." The original title of this cantata was Der Glorreiche Augenblick (The Glorious Moment). It was written under circumstances with which Beethoven had little sympathy; and although, as, coming from him, could not fail to be the case, it has many beauties, and even "great moments," it can never be received as one of the happiest inspirations of the master. "G." says justly that "Beethoven never appears at his best when writing to order;" and, indeed, for a man of such independent genius, whose ideas came to him unsought, it could not be otherwise. The cantata was not published until after its composer's death, when a new text was prepared for it by Roehltz. A translation of this second version was used on the occasion under notice. The Crystal Palace choir, Madame Otto Alvsleben, Miss Emily Spiller, Messrs. George Fox and Vernon Rigby, as solo vocalists, and Herr Ludwig Straus, as solo violinist, took part in the performance. The effect, however, although the general performance was good, hardly satisfied expectation. So trying a work stands in need of careful and repeated rehearsals. Doubtless it will be brought forward again. The programme on Saturday afternoon contained several pieces by Mozart, the first being the overture to La Villedella Rapita (composed for an opera by Bianchi), the last, the incomparable symphony in G minor, in which Mr. Mams and his orchestra always greatly distinguish themselves. They especially did so now. The impetuous finale was never played with more unflinching vigour and decision. Besides these, we had the concerto for pianoforte and orchestra, No. 20 (in E flat), last but five of the glorious family, written only six years before the author's death. The solo part was played in a thoroughly artistic manner, and with unflinching executive power, by Miss Agnes Zimmermann, who introduced clever cadenzas of her own in the Allegro and the Rondo finale, the first being both lengthy and elaborate. Miss Zimmermann's performance was much and deservedly applauded, and she was called back to the orchestra at the end. The vocal pieces in the Mozart selection consisted of the well-known aria, "Quand'io mi vidi," sung by Miss Sterling, an American lady, who has a fine contralto voice, and an air from Zaida (an opera written about 1780, assigned to Mlle. St. Alba, soprano). The remainder of the programme comprised songs by Schubert, Schumann, and Mendelssohn, given in German by Miss Sterling, accompanied on the pianoforte by Miss Agnes Zimmermann; Meyerbeer's too familiar "Robert tu que j'aime," sung by Mlle. St. Alba, in Italian; and Mr. Arthur Sullivan's Overture di Ballo, of which it may be said that the more it is heard the more it is liked, and which was never better performed.

At the concert of to-day Dr. Herr von Bulow is to play the concerto in F flat of Franz Liszt. The symphony selected is the "No. 9" of Beethoven, a splendid climax for the anti-Christmas series.

DR. HANS VON BULOW'S RECITALS.

(From "The Times.")

A record, however brief, of each of the Pianoforte Recitals now being held at St. James's Hall by this renowned professor is called for, if only on account of the variety of styles he illustrates, all which, as has been said, he stamps with the impress of his own powerful individuality. That in whatever Dr. von Bulow plays the attention of the hearer is attracted as much to the executant as to the work he may be interpreting is incontestable. This, however, does not appear singular if we bear in mind the unnumbered enthusiasm he so frequently throws into his task. It was never more emphatically shown than when, at his second Recital, he was engaged upon the opening movement and finale of Weber's Sonata in D minor, not the least remarkable of the four largely developed works of the kind contributed by the composer of Der Freischütz to the repertory of the instrument of which he was himself so thorough a master. Both of these were delivered by Dr. von Bulow, with a vigour and spirit so less extraordinary than the ease with which the difficulties were vanquished; and these are neither few nor contemptible. To judge by his performances, however, such a thing as "difficily" is unknown to this gentleman. Weber has prefixed to the first movement of his sonata, the words, "Allegro ferocio," and Dr. von Bulow is doubtless justified in translating them literally. At the same time, the final movement would, in our opinion, gain considerably by being taken at a somewhat less impetuous pace, especially near the end, where the episode and the leading theme are worked consecutively. The reading of the melodious slow movement was almost in every sense ir reproachable; and, indeed, we are disposed to think Dr. von Bulow is rarely heard to such advantage as in passages which demand soft playing, together with all the gradations from "piano" to "pianissimo." His tone is then exquisite, and his touch as delicate as it is elastic. But when yielding to an impulse which is apparently uncontrollable, he puts forth the maximum of energy and force, his tone is not always so legitimate, and the less willingly do the keys seem obedient to his behests. But players of that exceptionally endowed class of which Dr. von Bulow is now, perhaps, the foremost living example, have invariably peculiarities which belong to their idiosyncrasy, and must be regarded as part and parcel of themselves.

The miscellaneous pieces at this recital comprised the Prelude and Fugue in F minor from Handel's first book of Suite de Pièces, Mendelssohn's Air with Variations in E flat ("posthumous"), a Study by Moscheles, entitled La Leggerezza, a Barcarole by Rubinstein (re-orchestrated and repeated), and Chopin's Waltz de Concert. These were given in every instance with wonderful facility, the beautiful variations of Mendelssohn affording Dr. von Bulow ample opportunities of exhibiting to advantage his highest qualities of tone and expression. Perhaps the most remarkable display of executive skill was the "Leggerezza" of Moscheles, in which he showed a freedom of wrist, a lightness and elasticity of touch, that could not have been surpassed by the master himself who composed it.

The last piece in the programme was again one of the five great works which are the crowning achievements of Beethoven as a composer for the pianoforte—the Sonata in A major, "Op. 101." This, like all that had preceded it, was, as usual, performed from memory.

On Wednesday afternoon week, at his third recital in St. James's Hall, Dr. von Bulow played from memory Beethoven's colossal sonata in B flat, Op. 106, than which nothing more difficult has been written for the pianoforte by any of the "classical" masters. It was Beethoven's greatest effort in that way, and so he himself esteemed it. Few pianists, even of the highest rank, have ventured to essay it in public, whatever they may have done in private. In one of Mendelssohn's letters from Frankfurt he playfully writes—"I came home with 8— last night, from a punch party, where I first played Beethoven's sonata, Op. 106, in B flat, and then drank 212 glasses of punch, fortissimo." The performance of this extraordinary work on the occasion under notice was Dr. von Bulow's most remarkable feat since he came here to astonish us. It was, indeed, remarkable from beginning to end, merely because a piece so long, so elaborate, and so fatiguing was, like the rest, given without book, but also for the sustained vigour with which the Allegro risoluto was delivered, the life thrown into the Solo with its quaint and original trio, the expression imparted to the drawn-out Adagio, and, above all, for the execution of the final Fugue, that seemingly inextricable labyrinth of notes. This all but impeded movement was played from first to last with invariable ease and flagging spirit, the more surprising, inasmuch as the theme was played out at such a pace as to make every hearer wonder how by any ability the artist, great as is his executive power and prodigious his means, could accomplish his task. Dr. von Bulow, however, went through the whole without the slightest hesitation; accent never being clearness rarely sacrificed. In fact, it was an exceptional display of mechanical power, untrammelled by any of the difficulties which attend to follow each other without a moment's intermission, and—and a tuneful episode with which the Fugue gets speedily entangled, which has no small part to act in its further development—with moment's repose. The Scherzo was applauded so loudly that Dr. Bulow repeated it; but what was still more astonishing, in repeating another demonstration, he repeated the Fugue itself from end to end, an achievement, considering what he had already done, and what still had to do, perhaps unprecedented. In certain passages of Adagio, it may be added, the subtle gradations from piano to pianissimo which Dr. von Bulow so greatly affects, had favourable scope for exhibition, and of these full advantage was taken.

The grand sonata of Beethoven was followed by Sir Sta. Bennett's Rondo Piaccolle in E, and the same composer's three mazurkas, "The Lake," "The Mill-stream," and the "Four families to every amateur in this country; and after these came pieces, the rendering of which could have scarcely been more in consonance with the intentions of their author, came Mendelssohn's Capriccio in F sharp minor, entitled, it is related by the composer the album to which at an early age he contributed it, "Musical," though, considering its difficulties it is by no means a Capriccio to any but the most practised executants. It is marked prestinissimo, it need hardly be added that Dr. von Bulow was not behind in obeying the indication thus conveyed. With the Capriccio were the Gavotte from Gluck's ballet, Don Juan, and J. S. Bach's Bourne in A minor.

The Recital began with one of Mozart's most admirable sonatas, the key of F; and ended with Liszt's Trilogie Suisse ("Lac de W. stadt," "Elogue," and "Au bord d'une source"), combined with same composer's Polonaise Heroique. That no pianist, except Liszt himself, can perform Liszt's music like Dr. von Bulow, it is fluently to add. The Hall was crowded in every part.

(From the "Standard.")

The series of pianoforte recitals given by the eminent German pianist, Dr. Hans von Bulow, was brought to a close yesterday afternoon with a programme which at once proclaimed the eclectic versatility of the performer. Despite the unpropitious weather, was a considerable attendance, and the efforts of the entertainer not exerted in vain, so far as his respective appreciation is concerned, selection commenced with Schubert's grand sonata in A flat (posthumous), and included Brahms's Scherzo (Op. 4), Rink's "Trois morceaux de concert" (Op. 5); a nocturne (in C minor) Mazurkas, and Chant Polonais by Chopin; two descriptive pieces Liszt, Beethoven sonata, quasi fantasia (Op. 27), in E flat, and same master's 32 variations in C minor (Op. 36). As we have then discussed the merits of Dr. Hans von Bulow's playing, always to him the fullest credit for the great power which he unquestionably possesses, either not raising him to the height of a god, like his too eager followers, we need but repeat our verdict in consonance with the selection of yesterday. Dr. Bulow's performance was in the broadest acceptance of the term, his brilliant execution marred but by few of those slips which we have learned to take as the penalty of his greatness; and while the sympathies of the audience may not have been thoroughly associated throughout with the work of the executant, their admiration and interest were seldom to flag. Dr. von Bulow was successful in the interpretation of pieces, in but few of which he challenges comparison with the performers; where indeed comparisons might be instituted, to take Mrs. Malaprop's opinion of their efficacy, and drop them singly. Dr. Bulow has been wise in adopting the recital as entertainment, through which he has thoroughly substantiated his title to greatness. When, after the lapse of a brief period may be given us another recital, we shall expect to find that his individuality is still further toned down, and that he is in all respects the place he occupies in the estimation of the public.

BENEDICT'S SYMPHONY AT LIVERPOOL.

(From the "Liverpool Mercury.") 7th 28 174

The performance of Sir Julius Benedict's new Symphony in G minor was the chief feature of attraction in the programme of the third concert of the Liverpool Philharmonic Society, which took place last night: and this was sufficient to give an amount of interest to the concert which could not well have been exceeded. The work, which has been performed in sections at different times and in different places, was first heard in its entirety at one of the Saturday Crystal Palace Concerts during the past season, and the favourable verdict pronounced on its merits by the musically learned on that occasion was cordially and emphatically endorsed by the very large and attentive audience last night, when it was given for the second time in public. The talented conductor of these concerts has proved himself a worthy pupil of Weber, his celebrated master, in nearly every branch of musical art; and his Symphony, in which he takes a higher standard in purely instrumental writing, is worthy the name and fame he has already acquired. The work is divided into four principal movements, opening in a striking manner with a skilfully scored moderato, which is followed by a masterly transition to a lovely allegro appassionato, the introduction to which is entrusted to the strings. The scoring of the first part of the movement is singularly massive and elaborate in its treatment—somewhat overtureish at times, but as a whole treated in a remarkably able manner. The opening bars of the allegro at once arrest attention by their rare originality and beauty; and the episode, in which a short and striking violoncello solo is introduced, is, perhaps, one of the choicest bits of the whole. The principal theme of the second movement (andante con moto) is written with great ingenuity, and marked by extreme freshness of treatment, the oft-recurring phrasing of the first few bars giving it especial charm. The second subject, in B flat minor, is a worthy appendage to the first theme; and a third episode in A flat minor, in which the violoncellos again take a leading position, embraces a variety of skilfully arranged modulations, leading to a repetition of the first subject with increased effect. The scherzo is, perhaps, the most striking and attractive of the four movements, and this "happy thought" of the skilful composer last evening narrowly escaped an encore. The finale is a masterly finish to a splendid work, and anything more brilliant than the all-violin opening could scarcely be found. The leading theme is admirably developed; and the conclusion, impetuous and full of nerve, is quite equal to the other parts of the Symphony. Taken as a whole, the work is one of rare excellence, and Sir Julius fully merited the loud and long-continued applause which followed each movement. Considering that this was the first time the work had been performed by the orchestra of the Liverpool Philharmonic Society, great praise is due to the members of the band for the very faithful, vigorous, and generally effective manner in which it was given. There were occasional blemishes, but the wonder is that, with such an elaborate study, there were not many more.

A NEW ORCHESTRAL SYMPHONY.

At the Crystal Palace, on the 22nd ult., was produced a new orchestral symphony, in G minor, by Sir Julius Benedict. New symphonies are not uncommon; for, although these days are sometimes called barren days, they actually yield a good deal of musical fruit of various sorts. But there are symphonies and symphonies. One, for example, is the work of a man who, breaking loose from the bonds of established form, tries to be a law unto himself, and produces an article of more than doubtful value because incomprehensible. Another comes from a youthful and inexperienced hand, forcibly illustrating the truth that vaulting ambition sometimes overleaps itself, and reaches the ground, sadder, if not wiser. Another represents dull, plodding mediocrity, which, ignorant of its own weakness, goes on complacently endeavouring to reach the heights of art, and persuading itself that some progress is really made. Sir Julius Benedict's work belongs to none of these categories. The composer is not an innovator, because he knows how to walk successfully in the paths of the great masters who have preceded him. He is not a young man just putting forth his powers, but a veteran who has well borne the burden and heat of a long day. And he is no mediocrity; being, instead thereof, a man distinguished in many departments of his art, and known everywhere as one of its greatest ornaments. The production of an orchestral symphony from such a source is an event of no common interest, and hardly will an apology be needed for our noticing it in the most prominent manner. That the début of the work was generally regarded in this light appeared from the crowd that filled the Crystal Palace Concert-room, and from the gathering together of scores of musical celebrities, who congregate only on great occasions. The audience, indeed, was itself one of the greatest compliments that a composer ever received. It bespoke universal interest in his work, and universal interest in himself.

The symphony is Sir Julius Benedict's first work of the kind, and in reference to this fact, "G." made some excellent remarks which, so much are they to the purpose, we cannot refrain from quoting. Says the admirable Crystal Palace analyst:—"But there is one class of music in which the composer of St. Peter and the Lily of Killarney has not until this moment shown his powers, at any rate, in public, and that is the highest of all—the orchestral symphony. He has at last broken this spell, and has produced the work which is now before us; and the public will to-day be in a position to judge how great a loss they have sustained during all these years. We feel almost disposed to complain—if it were possible to complain of one so good and amiable—that Sir Julius has deprived us for so long of such a very great pleasure. But we may justly lament the cruel claims of English society, which presses upon artists with peculiar force, and makes serious composition impossible for any one whose nerves are not iron, or who has not the happy art of seizing every chance quarter of an hour he may be able to save from the hurry of teaching, or concert-going, or dining out, or other useless duties and exactions of society. At any rate, this is Sir Julius Benedict's first symphony; we are sure that all who hear will join with us in the earnest, cordial hope that it may not be his last." All will join, we feel sure, in the hearty sympathy of "G.," sympathetic words, and will appreciate the quasi-apology made for Sir Julius's tardiness in symphony writing. We, however, are disposed to lay the account of that tardiness, not so much to the want of time, as to the diffidence which always accompanies real ability. "Fools rush in where angels fear to tread," and while all sorts and conditions of mediocrity have been rushing at the orchestral symphony Sir Julius has held back. He may not have had—and we now see that he had not—any cause to fear, but the course he adopted was one not likely to diminish the respect and esteem in which he is held. In any case, the entire musical world will rejoice now that self-distrust has been overcome, and art is made richer by a work which, in all likelihood, is but the first of a series. The symphony in G minor was not hurriedly composed. As a rule, great works written by professors who lead busy lives are produced under pressure, and bear evidence of the circumstances attending their origin. Here we have an exception to the rule. Sir Julius began the symphony so long ago that the first and third movements were ready for, and actually played at, the Norwich Festival, in the autumn of last year. It follows that the slow movement and finale, now first produced, are the result of more than twelve months' thought. It is hardly possible to over-estimate the advantage of deliberate action such as this; for, though there are many instances in which great things have been done in a little time, the rule is to the contrary. The work now under notice is, therefore, its author's careful and well considered exposition of his own ability in the highest walk of art, and by it he is, doubtless, content to be judged.

Musical readers will take it for granted that Sir Julius has formed his symphony upon the accepted classical model. That he has done so is a fact possessing a two-fold value. In the first place, it is valuable for the sake of the work itself, and, next, for the proof given that adherence to classical form is no hindrance to novel ideas and original treatment. Those who clamour for the "higher development" of orchestral music often say that adherence to recognised "form" puts the composer in fetters. That is not so. The "form" of Beethoven's latest symphonies is, in all essential respects, that of his earliest, yet could range at will. Another illustration of the elasticity of art is shown by Sir Julius Benedict's symphony, to which nothing is wanting in freshness and freedom, though the "ancient lines" are almost rigidly observed. Every such illustration is valuable, because it helps to preserve order and, therefore, beauty, in a form of composition which not a few misguided persons would hand over to chaos and ugliness.

The symphony begins with a moderato introduction—"no mere prelude," as "G." remarks, like those Haydn so often wrote, but "an independent movement of equal dimensions with that of Beethoven's Symphony in A, and of very great interest throughout, dignified in tone, full and varied in colour." The general expression of this exordium combines strong feeling almost amounting to passion, with dignity, and in this respect well prepares the mind for the Allegro appassionata which follows. Very restless and agitated is the leading theme of the Allegro, and it is long before the character changes. Indeed, the G minor subject steadily works up its intensity, till succeeded by an episode in F, which seems a concentration of all the passion before expressed. This is followed by the second subject in the relative major key, and here the musician's art makes a great effect by furnishing a contrast which, in a certain sense, is not a contrast, but a continuation. With his usual acuteness "G." notices this, and refers to the second subject as "more tranquil, though hardly less passionate than anything which has gone before it." The change is only one of outward expression, while the inner sentiment is the same as when some deep full river rushes turbulently between "narrow" to flow with majestic steadiness along "reaches," being in either case grand and irresistible. In the working of his two varied themes, Sir Julius shows a fertility of resource and a brilliancy of technique, able at once to inspire confidence in his power, and to excite the highest respect for its manifestation. We know few "second parts" out of the works of the greatest masters which can equal that of the Allegro under notice. The slow movement, Andante con moto, begins with a largely-developed theme for strings, described by "G." as "one of those tender, caressing tunes in which Schubert would seem to have an exclusive property, if we did not here find one of the same character, without a shade of plagiarism from that great master." But the whole movement is beautiful in the extreme with a beauty which may be found spread over its entire breadth and length. The varied nature of the themes, and of their orchestral treatment, the chastened loveliness of the tone-colouring, the delicious lead up to a riposte of the chief subject, and the piquant manner in which the ear is kept in suspense just before the tranquil close—all these things combine to make a movement which deserves to rank among the finest examples of symphonic writing. The scherzo (in E flat) has already been twice noticed by us; once in connection with the Norwich Festival, and again, when performed at Mr. Kuhn's Brighton Festival, under the name of A Dream of Fairyland. We may now, therefore, pass it by with the simple statement that every fresh hearing reveals fresh beauties of imagination and constructive skill. The finale, Allegro con fuoco, is even more passionate than the first Allegro, and sustains its character, through a lengthy development, with admirable power. Its chief feature, however, is a novel application of a device suggested in one of his symphonies by Haydn (who seems to have suggested everything) and used by Beethoven in his Choral Symphony. Before the usual riposte of his first theme, Sir Julius introduces portions of the leading subject of all the preceding movements in due order, and then dashes off again with the Finale. This is a new form of the old idea, and it certainly gives an interest to the movement more than sufficient to justify its use.

After the foregoing remarks it is superfluous to enter upon a favourable summing up of the charms of the new work. We have it in possession, we value it, and now, like Oliver Twist, we "ask for more."

BERLIN.—Mendelssohn's sons and daughters have declared their readiness to present to the Royal Library all the musical manuscripts left by their father, on condition of Government's founding two exhibitions of the annual value of 700 thalers each for completing the education of talented and struggling musicians.

MILAN.—There is not much doing here at present. The production of the only real novelty, Signor Sangiorgi's long-promised opera, Giuseppa Balsano, has again been deferred on account of the indisposition of Signora Wanda Miller. At the Carcano, Signor Marchetti's Ruy Blas has been very favourably received. The two principal parts were well sustained by Signora Fiorentini and Signor Viucentelli.

SIR J. BENEDICT'S NEW SYMPHONY.

Art is long, but it is also broad, and few men can cover its length in a single life. This is emphatically the case as regards art of music; wherefore we may not express any surprise when a veteran musician breaks fresh ground. Composers need never weep like Alexander. Live as long, and do as much as they may, there are always new worlds to conquer, and their only cause for regret lies in the fact that the time for work is short. Some respects, nevertheless, it is remarkable that a musician eminently gifted as Sir Julius Benedict should have waited Saturday last before producing his first orchestral symphony. Above most others, had a right to measure his strength thus, and at a time far removed from the present. The pupil of Franz Weber set most store, and the successful labourer in various departments of his art—not least successful in that of composition, as many a recorded triumph exists to prove—Sir Julius Benedict was entitled to emulate the masters, without fear of being charged with presumption. That he reserved his greatest efforts till a recent time proves him to have the rare, and fast coming rarer, grace of modesty. Now-a-days, men do not hesitate, and “Let I dare not wait upon I would,” oratorios and symphonies are generated by composers whose heads have yet to grow, and, but for pecuniary obstacles,—often arise, in this case a blessing—the world would be overrun with oratorios. We are far from wishing to check ambition's noble rage; but it is impossible not to look admiringly upon the man who, though gifted above most, restrains himself, and reserves his prime effort till his latest and ripest years. When such an art, made under these circumstances, is attended by success, we recall Coleridge's definition of genius as the “faculty of growth,” and award the honours which genius alone commands. Three years ago it will be remembered Sir Julius Benedict produced his first oratorio, St. Peter; astonishing even those who knew him best by a masterful application of the highest artistic means to one of the noblest ends. After that success it is felt that much more remained for the veteran composer to do. He had a new field of exalted labour before him—labour especially valuable at a time when the younger generation of composers is mostly led away to prosecute false issues, and, under the plea of advancement, to go back in the direction of chaos. No one is better qualified than Sir Julius Benedict to lift up the standard of orthodox art among us. He is one of the few musicians now living who connect our time with that of the great masters; and in England, at all events, he is their representative. Looking round upon the too general defection from the pure principles in which he was trained, Sir Julius might almost echo the words of Elijah, “I, even I, only am left.” There are, however, we are glad to believe, more than “twenty-and-five thousand” who have not bowed the knee to the Baal of modern musical idolatry, and by whom such works as that produced on Thursday are welcomed, not for their own merits alone, but as a test and an example.

Written only as the occasions of a busy life served, the Symphony in G minor grew slowly. Two movements—the first Adagio and Scherzo—were played at the Norwich Festival last year; and the Scherzo, under the title of A Dream of Fairyland, is heard at Mr. Kule's Brighton Festival, in February of the present year. Meanwhile the slow movement and finale were heard, the whole being produced on Saturday for the first time. There was a fitness in its initial performance at the Crystal Palace, under the direction of Mr. Manns, whose painstaking and great ability have done so much to widen the knowledge of English amateurs. A good execution of the work was thus not only secured, and, what is nearly of equal importance, there was a certainty of appeal to an audience qualified above all others to pass righteous judgment upon its merits. Let us add that there was an equal certainty of all possible help from a discriminating analysis of the music and an eloquent advocacy of the composer's claims. We cannot resist quoting an example of this vocacy. “The first performance of a symphony” writes [G.] “is always interesting, especially when it happens to be the author's first. But when, in addition, the ‘first symphony’ is the composition of a man of known ability and great culture, and roughly familiar throughout a long life with the orchestra, and practised in every device of construction and instrumentation, and proving to be animated by an energy and fire, a sensibility and restless emotion, such as very few young men possess even at the outset of their career, then the interest excited by the work is raised to an extraordinary degree. And all this is the case in the present instance. . . . We feel proud of having enlarged the circle of English music by so noble and individual a work.” These are hearty phrases, and, as such, they represent the spirit in which the Crystal Palace musical authorities took up the new Symphony and laid it before the public. General remarks upon the work must first concern themselves with its astounding youthfulness. We do not mean youthfulness in the sense of crudeness—cetera va sans dire—but in the sense, noted by [G.], of energy and keen emotion. There comes a time in every man's life who lives the “three score years and ten,” when not only intellectual power but susceptibility of feeling share decay with the bodily faculties. Sir Julius Benedict has not reached that time, nor, judging by his latest work, is he nearer to it than the youngest. The Symphony is instinct with life in its most vivacious and elastic form, reminding us, in this respect, of the undying works written by Haydn for Salomon. Nor is abounding vitality found only as a matter of style and character. It crops up in strong imaginativeness; and a ready flow of ideas such as broken keen intellectual activity. For the rest, we need only say if, indeed, there be a necessity to say so much—that, in point of form, clearness of treatment, and mastery of legitimate resources, the Symphony deserves to be called, as [G.] called it, “one of the most important and able orchestral works that have appeared for many a long year.” Adopting a form which most composers now treat as antiquated, Sir Julius Benedict begins his work with an introduction, moderato, distinguished by a rare combination of dignity and sweetness. It is an exordium that at once arrests attention, and conveys an idea that the composer has something to say. Having thus challenged interest, the moderato leads to an allegro appassionato, the first theme of which, by its peculiar rhythmical form, has a singularly restless yet, at the same time, emotional effect. The prevailing character of the movement, thus at once proclaimed, is kept up through the “bridge” connecting the leading theme with its subordinate, which comes as a grateful contrast, and displays the hand of a master. Whenever this subject is afterwards heard, it seems like a ray of sunshine darting through a rift in a tempestuous sky. The repeat of the first part of the movement is led up to by one of the most delightful passages in modern music, and the working out of the second part presents a rare example, not only of technical skill, but of sustaining power. An impressive coda brings the allegro appassionato to an end worthy of its beginning and continuation. The slow movement, andante con moto, in B flat major, opens with a beautiful and sustained melody, one of those tunes which haunt the ear long after the sounds conveying them have “melted into thin air.” Joined to the charm of this subject is the equal charm of orchestral treatment that strongly suggests the exquisite grace and tenderness of Schubert. The whole movement illustrates what has been called “the full tide of song.” It flows on like some clear river, now with majestic steadiness, now with agitation, always with the beauty which fills the mind and satisfies it. But, perhaps, nothing is more striking than the close, when the ear is kept in suspense, waiting for another “excursion,” only to find that which seems the composer's indecision resolve itself and the movement calmly end. The Scherzo having been noticed by us in connection with Mr. Kule's festival, there is only need to add that a third hearing has confirmed our early impressions of its bright fancy and unfailing charm. Such a movement may well be called A Dream of Fairyland. It is one upon which Carl Maria von Weber, the musician of the supernatural, would have smiled approval, and which Mendelssohn, Oberon's Court composer, would have been glad to own. The finale, allegro con brio, resumes the passionate energy of the opening movement, and is marked by many features upon which it would be profitable to dwell. Chief among them is a varied form of the idea, first applied, in a limited degree, by Haydn, if we mistake not; but at any rate developed by Beethoven in his Choral Symphony. We refer to a repetition in the finale of the chief themes in the preceding movements. Sir Julius has done this under novel conditions, and with novel as well as interesting effects, one

A Symphony by Sir Julius Benedict.

The London Telegraph of Nov. 24, in its notice of a Crystal Palace Concert, writes as follows:

1873

No one is better qualified than Sir Julius Benedict to lift up the standard of orthodox art among us. He is one of the few musicians now living who connect our time with that of the great masters; and in England, at all events, he is their representative. Looking round upon the too general defection from the pure principles in which he was trained, Sir Julius might almost echo the words of Elijah, "I, even I, only am left." There are, however, we are glad to believe, more than "twenty-and-five thousand" who have not bowed the knee to the Baal of modern musical idolatry, and by whom such works as that produced on Saturday are welcomed, not for their own merits alone, but as a protest and an example.

Written only as the occasions of a busy life served, the symphony in G minor grew slowly. Two movements—the first allegro and scherzo—were played at the Norwich Festival last year; and the scherzo, under the title of "A Dream of Fairyland," was heard at Mr. Kuhn's Brighton Festival, in February of the present year. Meanwhile the slow movement and finale were added, the whole being produced on Saturday for the first time. There was a fitness in its initial performance at the Crystal Palace, under the direction of Mr. Manns, whose pains-taking zeal and great ability have done so much to widen the knowledge of English amateurs. A good execution of the work was thus absolutely secured, and, what is nearly of equal importance, there was a certainty of appeal to an audience qualified above all others to pass righteous judgment upon its merits. Let us add that there was an equal certainty of all possible help from a discriminating analysis of the music and an eloquent advocacy of the composer's claims. We cannot resist quoting an example of this advocacy. "The first performance of a symphony" writes [G] "is always interesting, especially when it happens to be its author's first. But when, in addition, the 'first symphony' is the composition of a man of known ability and great culture, thoroughly familiar throughout a long life with the orchestra, and practised in every device of construction and instrumentation, and proving to be animated by an energy and fire, a sensibility and restless emotion, such as very few young men possess even at the outset of their career, then the interest excited by the work is raised to an extraordinary degree. And all this is the case in the present instance. . . . We feel proud of having enlarged the circle of English music by so noble and individual a work."

These are hearty phrases, and, as such, they represent the spirit in which the Crystal Palace musical authorities took up the new symphony and laid it before the public. General remarks upon the work must first concern themselves with its astounding youthfulness. We do not mean youthfulness in the sense of crudeness—cela va sans dire—but in the sense, noted by [G], of energy, and keen emotion. There comes a time in every man's life who lives the "three score years and ten," when not only intellectual power but susceptibility of feeling share decay with the bodily faculties. Sir Julius Benedict has not reached that time, nor, judging by his latest work, is he nearer to it than the youngest. The symphony is instinct with life in its most vivacious and elastic form, reminding us, in this respect, of the undying works written by Haydn for Salomon. Nor is abounding vitality found only as a matter of style and character. It crops up in strong im-aginativeness; and a ready now of ideas such as betoken keen intellectual activity. For the rest we need only say—if, indeed, there be a necessity to say so much—that, in point of form, clearness of treatment, and masterly use of legitimate resources, the symphony deserves to be called, as [G] called it, "one of the most important and able orchestral works that have appeared for many a long year."

Adopting a form which most composers now treat as antiquated, Sir Julius Benedict begins his work with an introduction moderato, distinguished by a rare combination of dignity and sweetness. It is an exordium that at once arrests attention, and conveys an idea that the composer has something to say. Having thus challenged interest, the moderato leads to an allegro appassionato, the first theme of which, by its peculiarly rhythmical form, has a singularly restless yet, at the same time, emotional effect. The prevailing character of the movement, thus at once proclaimed, is kept up through the "bridge" connecting the leading theme with its subordinate, which comes as a grateful contrast, and displays the hand of a master. Whenever this subject is afterwards heard it seems like a ray of sunshine darting through a rift in a tempestuous sky. The repeat of the first part of the movement is led up to by one of the most delightful passages in modern music, and the working out of the second part presents a rare example, not only of technical skill, but of sustaining power. An impressive coda brings the allegro appassionato to an end worthy of its beginning and continuation. The slow movement, andante con moto, in B flat major, opens with a beautiful and sustained melody, one of those tunes which haunt the ear long after the sounds conveying it have "melted into thin air." Joined to the charm of this subject is the equal charm of orchestral treatment that strongly suggests the exquisite grace and tenderness of Schubert. But the whole movement illustrates what has been called "the full tide of song." It flows on like some clear river, now with majestic steadiness, now with agitation, always with the beauty which fills the mind and satisfies it.

But, perhaps, nothing is more striking than the close, when the ear is kept in suspense, waiting for another "excursion," only to find what seems the composer's indecision resolve itself and the movement calmly end. The scherzo having been noticed by us in connection with Mr. Kuhn's festival, there is only need to add that a third hearing has confirmed our early impressions of its bright fancy and unfailing charm. Such a movement may well be called "A Dream of Fairyland." It is one upon which Carl Maria Von Weber, the musician of the supernatural, would have smiled approval, and which Mendelssohn, Oberon's Court composer, would have been glad to own. The finale, allegro con brio, resumes the passionate energy of the opening movement, and is marked by many features upon which it would be profitable to dwell. Chief among them is a varied form of the idea, first applied, in a limited degree, by Haydn, if we mistake not; but at any rate developed by Beethoven in his Choral Symphony. We refer to a repetition in the finale of the chief themes in the preceding movements. Sir Julius has done this under novel conditions, and with novel as well as interesting effects, one result being to throw out in strong relief the wonderful energy and fire of the finale proper. If comparison of movement with movement were insisted on, we should say that the allegro con brio is below the level of its companions; but, nevertheless, it concludes the work in a manner which leaves no doubt of completeness and worthiness. Looking at the Symphony as an entire thing, we congratulate the veteran composer upon a

